Citizen Panel On Teen Center Meeting Today

An organizational meeting of a citizen's advisory committee that will help determine the future of the Elk Grove Park District's teen center will be held today at 8:30 p.m. in the park district offices, 499 Bluesterfield Rd.

The committee is an outgrowth of a meeting held last month to discuss declining interest in the center, which is operated by the district at 180 John F. Kennedy Blvd.

About 18 persons, including those who signed up following a meeting last month, have been invited to participate, Edward Hauser, park board president, said yesterday.

Alvah Stone, principal of Grove Junior High School, has agreed to act as chairman of the committee, Hauser said.

At the May public forum, plans were made to have an adult committee and a teen committee to advise the park board on the center. Hauser said he has not yet invited teens to participate in the advisory committee, but said, "They will be brought in later."

THE MEETING on the center was held after a report by the park district staff recommended that changes in the program be considered.

The staff report by Sandra Little, former recreation supervisor, Richard Ludovissy, present recreation supervisor, and Bill Hughes, teen center director, pointed out that attendance on weeknights at the center had been about 30 teens and said attendance had declined in warm weather.

The center, which has been open since 1962, has a deficit of about $1,000. It has been open to teens on weekday afternoons and evenings and on weekends.

In April, the park board turned down a request by the youth services branch of Elk Grove Village Community Service for use of the building as its headquarters.

At the time park board members said such a use was contrary to park district policy. The park district, board members said, should provide recreation, not social mental health services.

YOUNG SINGERS FROM the Clearmont School Choir performed last week for patients at St. Alexius Hospital in the hospital chapel. The performance by the students from the Elk Grove Village school was recorded on video-tape to enable all the patients to watch the show and listen to the music from their beds.

Woman Would Like Abandoned Cruiser

An Arlington Heights woman wants to acquire the weather-beaten 25-foot cruiser that appeared in yesterday's Herald.

"We'd be happy to tow it away," said Mrs. Don Davis, of 803 W. Tanglewood Sq. in the northside Berkeley Square subdivision. "We've been looking for one for some time to put in our backyard — next to our pool."

The Davises would like to convert the boat, apparently abandoned on Algonquin Road near Dempster Street, to a dressing room for guests who use their 32 by 16 foot pool.

Mrs. Davis was told to contact the Illinois State Police who had planned to remove the boat this week.

"It would look nice for our lawn," she added, noting that the newly organized Burr Oak Civic Association is hosting the event Saturday night in her backyard and space will be needed for guests to change.

2 Persons Treated In Auto-Bus Crash

Two persons were treated at St. Alexius Hospital yesterday after their car was involved in a collision with a Davidsmeyer school bus at 941 W. Higgins Rd., Elk Grove Township. Fire department officials said 10 to 15 children were on the bus at the time of the accident, but none was injured.

Village Coed Wins Scholarship Of $500

An Elk Grove Village coed has received a $500 scholarship to continue work in the area of food and nutrition at Iowa State University, Ames, Iowa.

Cynthia Hadley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hadley Jr., of 87 Lancaster, is a junior at the school majoring in food and nutrition-dietetics.

Miss Hadley is one of three students who received the P. Mabel Nelson Scholarship, which is given on the basis of scholastic standing and interest in graduate work.

Contract May Set Pattern For Entire Area

by WANDALYN RICE

A News Analysis

Should the Board of Education of Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59 vote to ratify the teachers' contract for 1971-72 tonight, the move will indicate that relations between the board and the teachers have taken a 180-degree turn-around in four months.

In February the district survived a one-day teachers' strike that came as a result of a long and bitter dispute over class size and negotiation procedures on the 1970-71 contract.

Now, the district has become the first elementary district in the area to settle on a contract for the coming year. Apparently any negotiation fireworks will be reserved this year for other school districts.

Also, the settlement, which will give teachers a three per cent increase in the salary schedule for next year, is so low many area school officials have expressed surprise and delight. The settlement will probably serve as a pattern for neighboring districts.

In the past few years pay increases in this area have run between eight and 10 per cent. Officials of other financially pressed districts see the Dist. 59 settlement as a sign of relief from such raises, at least for one year.

FOR THE MEMBERS of the Teachers Council, the district's bargaining organization, the settlement was apparently completely acceptable. The membership approved the settlement by a 450 to 16 vote.

The reasons for the new harmony in the district are hard to pinpoint and officials for the district and the teachers seem in some ways unable to believe it themselves.

One reason for the cooperation, however, may have been indicated when Albeon Waltman, assistant superintendent for personnel and chief administration negotiator, said about a week before the settlement was reached that he thought "both sides are very appreciative of the present economic conditions."

The simple fact, acknowledged by the teachers' negotiating team, is that the district didn't have much money to offer.

From a tactical standpoint, too, the early settlement, coming as it did just before the Dist. 59 tax rate referendum, worked to everyone's advantage.

District officials had said that none of the money from Saturday's referendum would go into teachers' pay increases, so by settling, the teachers did not risk losing any money in the unlikely event the referendum had passed.

BUT, AS ONE negotiator pointed out, by settling before the referendum, "We make sure that no matter what happens we won't get any less."

The failure of the referendum will probably mean larger class sizes and less help for teachers next year and the negotiator said, "At least we won't end up with less money for more work."

For the board and administration the settlement had two advantages. First, it was just possible a district at peace with its teachers might have been able to pass a referendum.

However, since that didn't happen, the board and administration can now concentrate on the budget without worrying about another strike or impasse. In these troubled times it gives them one less problem to think about.

The settlement probably means two more things. It is widely agreed around the district that the long impasse and strike last year didn't help anyone — not teachers, not administrators and not school board members.

The early settlement this year may well indicate that the lesson has sunk in — that both sides have realized they need each other and must maintain flexible and realistic positions.

IN ADDITION, the settlement, many observers indicate, is a tribute to the cooperation developed between two men — Supt. James Erviti and Teachers Council President Robert Beaupre.

Although neither actually took part in most of the negotiations, observers credit them with the early settlement. In fact, the negotiation session where the contract was agreed on was "tentatively postponed" until sometime in July until Erviti and Beaupre sat down together.

The new cooperation may or may not prove to be long-lasting. A district with a history of trouble like Dist. 59 faces an uphill fight.

But for the first time in a long time residents of the district can view news of teacher salary negotiations as "good news."

New Zealander 'Observes, Learns'

Jo Rush, 25, is on an "observe and learn" mission this week with the Elk Grove Village Fire Department.

A citizen of New Zealand, Rush is spending a few days with the department to get acquainted with its ways of fire fighting and rescue.

"I like your system of fire departments, especially your methods of communications," said Rush, a senior fireman in Palmerston North, a community of 58,000.

One difference he's noticed, however, is that in the United States a fireman can talk to his chief.

"An ordinary fireman couldn't address a chief in New Zealand," he said, where a fire department is called a "fire brigade."

MIXING BUSINESS with pleasure, as he called it, Rush left New Zealand May 15 and will return next Wednesday. His trip has taken him to the Fiji Islands, Honolulu, Los Angeles, Milwaukee, Chicago, and Elk Grove Village.

Rush has some definite opinions of the states and its residents, who he commonly referred to as "Yanks."

"Food here is far more mass-produced," he said. "Even in restaurants in New Zealand it is home cooked."

"The cost of living here is a lot higher too," Rush continued, citing a few examples.

"A glass of whiskey costs 25 cents. 'Here, I've paid anywhere from $1.50 to $2,'" he said.

"Butter is 28 cents a pound. Milk is four cents a pint," he said, adding that the starting pay for a new fireman is $2,500 a year. The starting salary in Elk Grove Village is $9,828.

ONE THING that Rush said disturbed him was the way children are brought up here.

"You spoil your kids a lot more. You give 'em a TV set in their own room," he said, in his English accent.

Rush said he has seen several occasions where a youngster would "get a smack in the mouth" from his parents had he been in New Zealand.

"I don't like the lack of discipline," he said.

He also doesn't care for the carrying of

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew questioned the judgment of the New York Times and its top editors in acting in a "secretive and clandestine fashion" to publish classified material. He would not comment on the legal aspects of the injunction halting the Times from publishing further articles in the series, but he said that it was apparent to anyone who had ever worked in the Foreign Service "that no government can conduct its diplomacy on the pages of a newspaper or in the glare of public scrutiny."

Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, publisher of the New York Times, said the Nixon administration might try to benefit from disclosures in his newspaper about escalation of the Vietnam War by previous Democratic administrations. The publisher said the series, based on a top secret Pentagon study which came into the hands of the Times from an unidentified source, "does not have any deleterious effect on national security" and is, in essence, "past history."

A "loyal-to-Boyle" strike by the nation's soft coal miners gathered momentum for the third consecutive day despite a warning the walkout had created a national emergency. The strike was a protest over removal of United Mine Workers President W. A. "Tony" Boyle as a trustee of the union's welfare and retirement fund.

An underground nuclear test was detonated at Yucca Flat on the desert north of here and there was no radiation leakage, the Atomic Energy Commission reported.

The State
Illinois Speaker of the House W. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, directed the House Ethics Committee to undertake an "immediate and thorough" investigation of allegations of political involvement with horse racing interests.

The Illinois Bar Association said it is opposed to the Illinois plan for "No fault" automobile accident injury reparations supported by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie.

Illinois Senate Republican Leader W. Russell Arrington, R-Evanston, recovering from a stroke suffered in January, announced he will not resume his Senate duties until next session, thus ending speculation he might return sooner.

The War
The controversial McGovern-Hatfield amendment that would have established a Dec. 31 deadline for withdrawal of American forces from Vietnam was defeated 53 to 42. A vote on similar legislation last year was defeated 55 to 39.

Capsules In Test Kit Taken From Car

Search For Deadly Cyanide

by KURT BAER

Arlington Heights police Wednesday searched door-to-door 35 square blocks just north of downtown looking for 10 small but potentially dangerous capsules containing potassium cyanide.

The capsules were part of a small test kit taken from the car of Robert W. Hanselman, 202 N. Vall, an employee of the Dearborn Chemical Co. of Lake Zurich.

Hanselman reported the capsules missing to police at 11:30 Wednesday morning. Police said the kit probably was taken from Hanselman's unlocked car sometime Tuesday night or early the next morning.

The car was parked outside the Hanselman home.

Police searched intensively an area bounded on the north by Oakton Street, on the south by Fremont Street, on the east by Evergreen Street and on the west by Chestnut Street.

Also in the stolen test kit were 10 capsules of chloral hydrate, a chemical commonly known as knockout drops.

John F. Wilkes, vice president for technical development at the Dearborn Chemical Co., said that the polyethylene packets, an inch and a quarter long and a quarter inch in diameter, would not dissolve in the stomach if swallowed.

The 10 cyanide capsules are purple in color and contain 10 milligrams of the poison.

WILKES SAID THE amount of cyanide contained in the capsules would probably not be fatal if consumed by an adult.

"We talked to all the children in the neighborhood during our door-to-door search, but so far we've been unable to locate the kit," Capt. Maury English of the Arlington Heights Police Department said Wednesday afternoon.

Wilkes said the cyanide becomes most dangerous when exposed to any acid. The resulting reaction produced hydrogen cyanide gas, similar to that used in most execution gas chambers.

Potassium cyanide is toxic for dogs at doses above 1.6 milligrams per kilogram of body weight, Wilkes said. The toxicity of the chemicals is usually recorded according to the dosage that causes death in rats or dogs, Wilkes explained.

Wilkes said the chemicals were part of a test kit used to measure the amount of zinc in industrial cooling solutions. The zinc concentration is an indication of the strength of a rust inhibitor normally added to cooling solutions, he said.

The chemicals are used as reagents to color solution samples so that they can be measured with a photometer.

Wilkes said the test procedure was developed by the American Society for Test Materials (ASTM) and was standard in the industry.

IN ADDITION to the 10 milligrams of cyanide, the purple capsules also contained 380 milligrams of borax, a strong alkaline buffer, Wilkes said.

Though toxic, itself, the borax would probably induce vomiting if the contents of the capsules were swallowed, Wilkes said. Borax was added to ensure that the cyanide never reached an acid condition. The chloral hydrate packets also contain a second chemical, potassium chloride, an inert salt similar to ordinary table salt, Wilkes said.

Wilkes said that sodium nitrate and sodium phosphates, a chemical common to photography darkrooms, have been used as antidotes in cases of cyanide poisoning.

Capt. English said that if a poisoning case were discovered the area fire department would be contacted for rescue assistance.

Middleton Trial Is Delayed

The trial of Dr. James A. Middleton, the Des Plaines area physician charged with deviate sexual assault, was delayed again yesterday when his attorney failed to appear at the Criminal Courts building in Chicago.

Judge Robert Downing, circuit court judge, continued the trial until July 7.

Dr. Middleton's attorney, Edward M. Genson, was unable to appear at the trial because he was defending another client in Springfield, according to Santo J. Volpe, an associate of Genson who appeared in Genson's behalf.

The doctor, who has offices at 969 Elmhurst Rd., west of Des Plaines, has been charged with two counts each of deviate sexual assault and aggravated battery against two female patients who allege the doctor drugged and then sexually assaulted them.

When the case is recalled July 7 it will be for the purpose of arguing a defense motion to change judges. The doctor's attorney charged June 9 that Judge Downing was prejudiced against his client and requested a new judge be named to hear the case.

Waycinden Park Roadwork Complete

Ronald Bradley, Elk Grove Township road commissioner, announced today that repaving had been completed on several township streets in Waycinden Park, an unincorporated area near Des Plaines.

They are: Marshall from Kincaid to Dempster, King Lane from Mount Prospect Road to Marshall Drive, and Clark Lane from Walnut Lane to Dempster. Ingram, Spruance, Anderson Terrace and Horn Terrace each had about a one block stretch of new asphalt re-surfacing. Also, Leahy from Walnut to Dempster.

Bradley said Allied Asphalt Paving of Elk Grove was the low bidder a year ago and was awarded the contract at that time, but work was delayed because of strikes and weather. Allied's bid was for $41,030. The actual cost was $39,567.

Bradley said additional bids have been received for work to be done on portions of Cosman Road 1,500 feet adjacent to Elk Grove Village, White Oak Avenue from Prairie to Roosevelt and Roosevelt from White Oak to Connie. No contracts for the work have yet been awarded.

Power Cut-Off To Station Delayed

Commonwealth Edison Co yesterday granted a 30-day extension to a group of businessmen and industrialists who rely on electrical power to operate a sanitary sewerage lift station near Oakton Street and the Northwest Tollway in Elk Grove Township.

The power firm had indicated that because of unpaid electric bills it would cut off electricity to the station which services Willoway Terrace, a mobile home park, and an industrial strip along Oakton Street.

The firm yesterday accepted a partial payment of the bill which has totaled more than $800 since last October.

Paul Parker of Commonwealth Edison said the firm sends monthly bills to Higgins Industrial Union Realty Co., Chicago, but that the firm refuses to pay the bills.

PARKER said the utility company did not shut off the electricity sooner because innocent residents of the trailer park would have been affected.

Parker added that he was encouraged that the group of businessmen and industrialists had come forth to resolve the problem.

An attempt is being made by the users of the lift station to form a non-profit corporation and possibly purchase the station from the owner of the lift station, according to Bernard F. Lee, a member of the Elk Grove Township Board of Auditors.

The town board has chosen to get involved because the health and welfare of the users has been endangered, according to Lee.

The township government has agreed to take over the operation of the sanitary system and Mount Prospect municipal officials also have agreed to provide maintenance personnel, Lee said, as part of an offer to the users of the system.

OTTO C. STEPHANI of Lombard, owner of the lift station and president of the Higgins firm, said he stopped paying the utility bills "to bring the situation to a head."

The situation, as he explained it, is that a favorable decision by Mount Prospect officials more than a year ago to annex some 100 acres to that municipality has been appealed. He said a circuit court judge has had the case under advisement for 15 months.

Stephani said he paid the utility bills for three years but will no longer pay them.

Auditors' Payments Total $3,692

The Elk Grove Township Board of Auditors spent $3,692 in May for general assistance payments to welfare recipients.

There were 24 families involved or 85 individuals. In addition, there were 28 cancellations for various reasons, the township reported.

Last April the township spent $6,252 on welfare, the largest expenditure yet, recalled William Rohlfing, town supervisor, after the payments were approved by the board.

However, he predicted that with the warmer weather and the increase in seasonal jobs, the number of welfare recipients would decrease.

Last fiscal year ending in February, the town board spent $27,110 for general assistance. This year's three-month total is $15,338.

Elk Grove Township includes portions of five municipalities: Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, and Rolling Meadows.

Human Resources Center To Remain In Rolling Meadows

The Northwest Human Resources Development Center on Central Road, home of the Rolling Meadows Youth Referral Commission, is likely to remain in the city.

Last week, City Mgr. James Watson announced the counseling service would be forced to vacate its location in the former Sacred Heart of Mary convent, if a zoning change was not requested by the owners of the building. The property is now zoned for residential occupancy but needs a commercial zoning change for the counseling to continue.

Watson, however, said Tuesday he had received a letter from Sacred Heart of Mary's New York headquarters asking what steps should be taken for rezoning. Watson issued the 60-day "cease and desist" order if the zoning was not applied for, but said he expects the zoning request to be sought and approved by city council before the deadline.

AT A COMMITTEE meeting this week Ald. Thomas Waldron released a petition showing a number of Sacred Heart of Mary nuns had signed in favor of the zoning change "to allow the service to continue."

The Rolling Meadows Youth Referral Commission is located in the convent, giving counseling service to city juveniles on everything from drug abuse to legal problems. Youth receive counseling from city residents who have taken a 10-week course, of instruction from Thomas Jauch, director of the Northwest Human Resources Development Center and a sponsor of the Rolling Meadows Youth Referral Commission.

The youth referral program is funded by the city council and officials announced the program is working extremely well. Many of the referrals come from the city police department.

"Our police are not armed," he said. An agricultural country, New Zealand consists of mostly farms intermixed with single-lane highways. There are 2½ million residents.

"We don't have the giant freeways you have here or the traffic volume," he said.

"Pollution is a big problem here," Rush said, recalling that one of the first things he noticed on his flight into the United States was the haze over its cities.

"WE'RE MUCH tougher. When a ship dumps oil into the ocean they're fined immediately."

He acknowledged, though, that his country has had the advantage of benefiting from the mistakes of other industrial countries.

Television shows in the states also bothered Rush.

"You can't watch a program without seeing 14 different advertisements," he said. "I don't like those danged commercials."

But, at least there's more of a choice here, he said. In New Zealand there is only one TV channel, from 2 to 11 p.m., and it is government operated. There is no color television.

Rush admired the system of air travel in the United States. "It's easy to get around," he said, adding that O'Hare International Airport is much larger than New Zealand's airport, Auckland International.

From his professional point of view, he said he was impressed with ambulance service operated by fire departments in the United States.

In New Zealand, volunteers and hospitals operate the service.

"It's pretty streamlined here," he said. One more thing about Rush: The food.

It took some getting used to. "At least now I know what pizza tastes like," he said.

1,400 Teens, No Trouble, At Area Rock Concert

A rock concert at Wheeling High School Tuesday night drew a crowd of 1,400 teenagers and no trouble, despite fears of several Wheeling officials.

The concert was the first of a series of weekly shows at the high school each Tuesday this summer. Featuring promoter Dex Card and the rock groups "Crow" and "R.E.O. Speedwagon." Tuesday's show was monitored by six off-duty Wheeling policemen and by Wheeling Instrumental League chaperones.

Wheeling Police Chief M. O. Horcher said yesterday that there were no problem incidents at the concert. Horcher, members of the village police and fire commissions, and several village trustees were on hand at the show Tuesday.

Horcher said he has talked to several groups of students and found they were very enthusiastic about the show.

HE SAID one group of high school students he talked to had come from Rockford for the show, but most of the crowd was from the Northwest suburban area including Northbrook, Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights and Mundelein.

Tickets for the show sold for $2.50 each on Tuesday. Some of the profits from the concert will go to the Wheeling Instrumental League to help the WHS band.

Horcher said yesterday that he thought the young people at the show had learned something from the village's apprehension about the concert. "The kids learned that there was a responsibility on them to see that it remained a calm, acceptable function. They had to 'police' themselves, because any disorder would have brought the wrath of the adult community," he said.

At Monday's village board meeting village officials decided to allow the first concert on Tuesday, but to use it as a guide in deciding whether additional concerts would be allowed and whether the village would issue a business license to promoter Dex Card.

Scanlon told the other board members that he saw no alternative but to permit Tuesday's concert to go on.

ALTHOUGH VILLAGE Trustee Roger Stricker had said Monday that the off-duty policemen hired by Card could not wear their uniforms at the show, the six Wheeling policemen who worked on Tuesday were in uniform.

Board members had questioned "if uniforms would mean the village was legally liable to insure the policemen even though they were not on duty."

Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon had told the board Monday that he would contact Card, the high school and the instrumental league to have representatives of the organizations at next Monday's village board meeting to discuss a retroactive business license for the concert.

Stricker said Monday that he was questioning the concert because no one representing the adults organizing the concert was on hand to answer village board questions.

"What if they tear the whole school up? Six plainclothesmen aren't enough to deter a crowd," Stricker said.

STRICKER SAID however that he was in favor of the concert even though he had reservations.

Scanlon told the other board members that he saw no alternative but to permit Tuesday's concert to go on.

"If you try to stop it you will have a riot," Scanlon said.

Scanlon urged the other board members, "We must have confidence in our youth."

Trustee Al Lang said he thought the trustees were wrong to expect trouble from the youths. "Youth is always maligned, we should think positively," Lang said.

Coalition To Oppose Ogilvie's Welfare Proposals

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's welfare program has attracted organized opposition of a coalition of organizations which has announced that it will oppose his proposals and propose its own legislative program.

Announcing the "coalition" at a conference Tuesday were representatives of the Independent Voters of Illinois, the League of Women Voters of Illinois, the United Auto Workers (Region 4), the Chicago Welfare Rights Organization, and the Public Welfare Coalition.

The group accused Ogilvie of "playing politics with the misery of the poor" and said his program was based on "erroneous assumptions." Acting as spokesman, Douglas Cater, coordinator of the Public Welfare Coalition, said the governor has implied that "the vast majority" of welfare recipients refuse to work. "Every reputable study" he said has shown that more than 90 per cent of those on welfare are unable to work.

CATER BLAMED current economic conditions and the decline in job opportunities for soaring welfare costs and criticized Ogilvie for the "erroneous implication" that welfare recipients are to blame for the state's financial problems. "Most of those welfare recipients who were employable were self-supporting prior to this recession," Cater said.

The governor has proposed that flat-rate income grants be established for families on welfare and that special allowances for emergency needs be eliminated. Cater said this would reduce the incomes of many families and urged the governor either to raise his recommended "flat grants" or to permit continuation of special allowances.

Cater urged Ogilvie to support the national welfare reform program pending in Congress. The bill would provide a federally administered guaranteed annual income of $3,600 for a family of four, supplemented by state allowances.

"Welfare recipients would receive a more equitable income, and the bulk of the financial burden would be removed from the state," Cater said.

Cater also said that an automatic commercial health insurance program, now pending in the state legislature, is needed. He said the governor's proposal of a minimum charge to welfare recipients of $1 for a visit to a doctor and $3 per day for hospitalization would in many cases constitute an insurmountable obstacle to health care for the poor.

Cater also called on Ogilvie to oppose restoration of the one-year residency requirement, approved this week by the state Senate. He said such requirements have been declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

Anti-War Ranks Joined By McClory, Erlenborn

Rep. Robert McClory, (R-12th) and Rep. John N. Erlenborn, (R-14th) have joined the parade of legislators submitting resolutions in Congress calling for withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam.

The McClory Resolution, co-sponsored by Erlenborn and others, sets a withdrawal date of Nov. 30, 1971, but establishes prior conditions which McClory says makes it complementary to President Nixon's withdrawal plan.

The troop withdrawal would only be carried out, said McClory, if North Vietnam agreed to the following conditions:

—An Aug. 15 cease-fire under United Nations supervision.

—Return of all American prisoners of war by Sept. 1 under U.N. supervision.

—Withdrawal of all other foreign troops by Nov. 30, also under U.N. supervision.

More than 40 resolutions for withdrawal of troops have been introduced in the House of Representatives since January. However, McClory said most seek to "replace" Nixon's plan. He said his resolution offers a "viable alternative" and overcomes the impasse created by demands of the North Vietnamese.

Beef Up Senate Committees?

Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., has introduced legislation in the Senate intended to assure consumer representation of federal advisory committees and to make the activities of those committees more accessible to the public.

Percy said there are thousands of advisory committees, many of which serve no function and some which actually are controlled by special interest groups.

He said at least five presidential advisory committees have no chairman and another 12 have not met for more than three years.

Cabinet members, he said, theoretically serve on an average of 30 such committees.

Percy pointed to the example of committees which serve as the "official business consultant" for the Office of Management and Budget. He said they are composed exclusively of industry representatives and "in fact have the ability to frustrate and otherwise block a federal agency from receiving OMB permission to ask questions of industry that might be embarrassing."

Laboratories For Democracy' Asked

Dr. Michael Bakalis, state Superintendent of Public Instruction called for the rebirth of freedom and the rededication of youthful idealism committed to action and change by calling on educational institutions to become "laboratories for democracy," at commencement ceremonies at Elgin Community College recently.

"For too long we have been contented with civics courses which portray the political world simplistically and impart no real understanding of the political process."

"We have intentionally sheltered students from the real world; we have discouraged and even punished reasonable dissent and free expression and have given students almost no opportunity for institutional governance or meaningful decision-making."

"IN THE PROCESS, much needed idealism dies," he said.

"The essential challenge facing this nation today is the enlargement of freedom. So long as children are trapped in poverty and ignorance and so long as their talents are blighted by lack of opportunity, none of us will be truly free."

"The best guarantee that we will experience a rebirth of freedom is that our schools become laboratories of democracy — where young people learn not only to believe in a free society, but to be worthy of a free society."

In closing, Bakalis made reference to the 200th birthday of our nation in 1976; a nation founded in revolution for the purpose of setting men free.

"Let us keep in mind that the American revolution is not complete — that, in a real sense, it is an experiment that has no end. But all the benefits of this splendid experiment can crumble overnight if we forget that the foremost repository of political power in this country is you, not the politicians, not the corporations. The American dream may become a nightmare if you fail to exercise that political power."

lahn, Mildred Mitchell, Nancy Parkins and Gloria Pfleger, all of Bartlett; and Mary DeLongie, Roberta Mueller and Marie Salter, all of Streamwood.

CONSTRUCTION ON A new $2.5 million addition to the Lutheran Home and Services building, 800 W. Oakton Street, Arlington Heights, is scheduled to begin early in December. The 126-room wing, to be added to the building's west facade, will increase the nursing home's resident capacity by more than 50 per cent. The architects for the new addition were the Perkins and Will Corp., Chicago.

Groundbreaking In Dec. For Lutheran Home Addition

Groundbreaking for a $2.5 million addition to the Lutheran Home and Services for the Aged building, 800 W. Oakton St., Arlington Heights, is planned for early December, according to the home's director, Paul A. Hauer.

The 126-room addition to the nursing home's west side will increase resident capacity by more than 50 per cent.

The new wing, designed by the Chicago architectural firm of Perkins and Will, will also house new kitchen, lounge and dining room facilities.

Hauer said he hopes construction can be completed by early 1973.

The Lutheran home houses elderly citizens from the Northern Illinois District of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod. There are more than 200 applicants on the home's waiting list, Hauer said, and the 126 new single rooms will be occu-ped as soon as the addition is finished.

"We accept applicants regardless of their ability to pay," Hauer said. "In fact the majority of our people are on public aid."

Hauer said the average age of those in the home is 86.

The new addition marks the second phase in a planned development program that will eventually utilize the full 80-acre site along Oakton, Hauer said.

The original building was put up in 1963 with an addition in 1966. The facility was paid for and supported by contributions from the church's Northern Illinois district, Hauer said.

A campaign to raise funds for the latest addition will begin on Sunday, Sept. 12. The Rev. J. A. O. Preus, president of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, will speak.

Kindergarteners Need Physicals

Children entering kindergarten or first grade this fall must have a physical and certain immunization shots before they will be admitted, the Cook County Department of Public Health reminds parents.

According to state law, evidence of immunity against diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus (DPT), polio, measles, rubella and smallpox is needed before a child can attend school in Illinois.

"The best method of obtaining immunization is through a family physician," Dr. John Hall, director of the county health department, said.

HALL SUGGESTED the summer months are a good time to get immunization shots. "When children congregate in play activities or go to summer camps, they should be fully protected against communicable diseases. Don't wait until the opening of school when doctors' offices and clinics are crowded."

For families that cannot afford or do not have a family physician, the county health department has an immunization clinic in Des Plaines which is open the first Wednesday of the month from 8:30 to 11 a.m. The clinic is located at 1401 Oakton St.

Other clinics on the west and south sides of Chicago are also open once a month. For further information, parents should call 243-5832.

The Cook County Department of Public Health recommends diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus (DPT) and polio immunizations should be given during the first year of life with boosters given just before entering school.

Center Files Filled With Success Stories

by BRAD BREKKE

The files of the Community Counseling Center in Des Plaines are filled with success stories.

Stories of people in trouble who had nowhere to turn until they contacted the center, sponsored by the Salvation Army, and asked for help.

Although their names have been changed, their stories have not. They are typical of the center's successes.

Mrs. Doris G. went to the center in March of 1968, along with her husband, to seek help for severe depression.

"I had been teaching school prior to this, while my husband was going to college. When he graduated with a degree in engineering, I started going downhill. I stopped work. Then in April we moved to the Chicago area from Denver.

"I was pregnant at the time and this pushed me downhill faster, because of all the bodily changes going on inside me.

"Well, I was hospitalized at Lutheran General 14 weeks prior to the delivery, which was in June, and then four weeks thereafter.

"We had tried Catholic Charities in Chicago, but they turned us down because they don't help people outside the city. We knew I needed help. Then one day my husband was thumbing through the yellow pages in the phone book and came across the family counseling service offered by the Salvation Army.

"He called them and they put us on a waiting list for the homemaker service. We also went for counseling. The homemaker, Mrs. Jackson, came when the baby was two-weeks-old. I was still in the hospital, but she was there every day from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., driving 30 miles each way.

"If there hadn't been a Mrs. Jackson there to care for things, I would have been put in a state hospital. It was the next step. When you're in a depression, you go down the drain fast.

"Then my husband started going for individual counseling at the center and I went regularly to my psychiatrist. I needed help at home. I couldn't function. But I had my doctor, my husband, center director, Mrs. Margaret Lisinski and Mrs. Jackson pulling for me.

"When I came home, my doctor told me to keep busy. So I took care of the upstairs of our home. The homemaker took care of the baby, the cooking and all the cleaning. Later I gradually took over my duties.

"The psychiatrist said I had a 60/50 chance of recovery and it could take anywhere from a year to 15 years. If I didn't respond to treatment, I was going to a state hospital.

"In six months time I was off all medication and in seven months, Mrs. Jackson was weaned away from me and I took over the duties of home myself. Recovery was very quick for me, luckily.

"We paid the homemaker $10 a day. It was all we could afford. But I know she was getting about $20. The Salvation Army made up the difference. We're not obligated to pay them back. It was a great help. Where else can you get that kind of help for $10 a day for seven months?

"It worked out wonderful for us. We had no relatives in the area. My parents are in Indiana, but my mother works and she couldn't come. She was too close to the situation anyway. Then there were other bills... like $25 for 30-minute sessions with my doctor, when I was in the hospital, and other medical bills. We wouldn't have made it without the help of the center. I wouldn't have, I know.

"I had everything going for me. The center was great. The service was great. It's very much needed out here, but I'm afraid not enough people know about it," she said.

Or take the case of Madeline F. She went to the center five years ago after her husband suddenly died of lung cancer at age 51. She was left alone in the world with a 13-year-old daughter to care for.

"I needed help in making the adjustment. He had gone to Lutheran General with the flu and what we thought might have been a touch of pneumonia. On his third day there, the day he was to return home, he died.

"An autopsy was performed and we found out he died of lung cancer.

"I had a 13-year-old daughter and was very depressed. I hadn't worked in 15 years. I didn't think I'd make it. No family and I didn't know where to turn.

"Then a friend of mine suggested the Salvation Army. So I made an appointment and began seeing Mrs. Lisinski. She gave me the courage to go looking for a job and I finally got one doing office work. I'm still doing it, plus part-time work at night. It keeps me busy.

"It seems impossible it happened five years ago. I began seeing Mrs. Lisinski weekly. Now I see her once every six weeks. It was never easy for me to talk about my personal problems, but I'm able to now. Mrs. Lisinski saw my daughter a few times too. We both had the same problem. She had lost a father and I a husband. We had to adjust. My daughter was very close to her father. But everything has worked out well and we're doing fine now," she said.

Judy H. was divorced three years ago. A few months after the divorce was final, she began having trouble with her 10-year-old son. He was withdrawing in school and at summer day camp.

"The principal and school counselor referred me to the Salvation Army, so I called and made an appointment. We had a few sessions and my son began seeing a male counselor there. Afterward, he began to adjust to the divorce and do better in school. I had adjustments to make, too.

"Then a year later, the boy and my 13-year-old daughter decided they wanted to live with their father. He was living in California and had remarried. So they went and I was alone. I had to readjust to this. The kids lived with him for a year and then my daughter said she wanted to come back and stay with me, which she did. I had to make another adjustment. So I went back to the Salvation Army.

"I went there for three years and things are fine now. My daughter is still living with me and right now my son is here visiting," she said.

And then there is the case of Mrs. Linda M. She went to the center three years ago. She had a problem with her 12-year-old son and this was giving her and the rest of the family some anxious moments.

"The boy suffered brain damage and had trouble with visual perception. It was the result of my coming into contact with German measles when I was carrying him. We didn't know about this until he was going through first grade for the second time.

"The school psychologist referred us to the center and in the beginning the entire family went for counseling. Then I continued going myself. I have three other children, ranging from four to 16.

"Through the Salvation Army, we had the boy tested by a doctor downtown to see if he was emotionally upset. It turned out he wasn't. But he's being treated now at Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago.

"The counseling has helped me a great deal in adjusting to him and in understanding my own problems. I can't say enough about the center. It's the kind of help you can't describe. There's no way to measure it," she said.

"Too many contracts are being taken from us," roared the Secretary of Defense. "Agent 000½, disguise yourself as a bridge player and see what is wrong." Within two days 000½ had infiltrated the bridge club where the contracts had been reported missing. The following day he was arrested and charged with stealing a vulnerable contract.

He was brought before the Secretary. "Sit down, 000½," the secretary said as he reached for a cigar, "and give me a full report."

"East overlooked the king of diamonds with the ace and returned the suit. Colonel West won and continued. I ruffed; drew trumps with three leads and led a heart to dummy's eight. East won with the 10 and played a club. Later, dummy's ace of hearts picked up West's king and I finessed against East's jack to make my contract."

"So, Colonel West has been giving away defense secrets," said the Secretary.

"Exactly! His two diamond bid was all the evidence I needed. Once East showed up with ace and another diamond and the Colonel followed to three trumps I knew where the king of hearts was. Even the least security conscious bidder would not try a two diamond call with a king-queen suit without at least a king on the side. Had the Colonel kept silent about operations I would never have made the winning play."

"Good work, 000½! Have a cigar."

Social Security and You

Q — MY SOCIAL security check that I received on June 3, had the 10 per cent increase in my monthly payment. When will I receive the increase due me for January through April?

A — The retroactive payment for January through April should reach you by June 22nd.

Q — SCHOOL WILL be out soon and I expect to have a job for the summer. Is it necessary for me to have a social security card?

A — Yes. Whether a person works full time, part time, or seasonal, he needs a social security card. Telephone, write or visit your nearest social security office to get an application for your card.

Q — MY MARRIED sister and I hire the same woman to help us with the cleaning in our separate homes. During a typical calendar quarter, I pay her $40 in cash wages and my sister also pays her $40. We'd like to help her get social security protection. Can we combine these wages and pay social security contributions for her?

A — No. The social security law requires each employer must pay a household worker at least $40 in cash wages in a calendar quarter before the worker can get social security credit for her earnings with that particular employer. The cash wages of two or more employers cannot be added together to reach the $40 figure.

Personnel Study Can Aid Schools

The recent decision by a three-man committee of the Northwest Educational Cooperative (NEC) to examine the cooperative's personnel policies is a desirable and appropriate first step to eliminate any ethical problems before they crop up.

We would hope the committee's investigation could be extended beyond a hiring policy merely for the NEC but also develop a hiring code of ethics for all of the 10 public school districts it serves.

Such a proposal is likely to be greeted with cries of "infringement" from the districts themselves. They might argue that their own boards have developed positions on who shall and shall not be hired. Thus, why should the NEC intervene?

There are several arguments for development of guidelines for all districts. First, the question of who shall and shall not be hired by school districts has never been systematically approached by any local group. The NEC logically could perform that local function.

Second, when ethics and conflict of interest are discussed, there is little in federal or state law which defines "conflict of interest." School districts must be guided by the opinion of their attorney and by whatever policies they've developed in past years.

Such was the case in High School Dist. 214. When the wife of board member Jack Costello was hired by the district, Supt. Edward Gilbert was asked to contact Allyn Franke, the district's attorney, after determining that neither the board's policy manual nor the Illinois School Code blocked such a hiring. Franke reported the Attorney General's opinion did not give Dist. 214 any grounds for not hiring the wife of a board member.

The Dist. 214 board's approval did not conflict with policy in some other local districts, although other districts — such as High School Dist. 211 and Harper College — have specific policies preventing such hirings.

This situation raises two difficult questions which the NEC could attempt to answer with a policy on the ethics of hiring personnel:

—What is a school district to make of an attorney's interpretation of an Attorney General's opinion, especially when this does not represent the law but only an interpretation of what the law means.

—If the Attorney General's opinion is accepted as gospel, should Dist. 211 and Harper College, as examples, discard their more restrictive policies and surrender their prerogative to police their ranks.

In less-than-clear-cut cases, school districts must depend on the interpretations of lawyers in their employ. What may be one district's conflict may be another district's practice.

The public today is generally skeptical and even cynical about activities of public officials, some of whom — like Paul Powell and Ray Page — have by their actions encouraged such attitudes.

Any positive step which a public body takes to police its own ranks, therefore, is a welcome antidote to even the mild suspicion that something could be amiss.

By developing an area school hiring policy, the NEC could provide such an antidote and thus perform a valuable service both for the public and our educational institutions.

The NEC might encounter some difficulty in light of Dist. 214 serving as its administering district, but this is a minor problem which could be overcome.

School districts should develop policies which prevent those nagging minor problems from becoming major ones. NEC has an opportunity to encourage the development of consistent and legally-sound policies which would eliminate those problems. We urge them to do so, and we call on all the school districts to give this endeavor their full interest and support.

Behind The Kremlin Facade-2

Soviet Lesson To Czechs et al

by RAY CROMLEY
(Second of Three Articles)

Before the Soviet Union invaded Czechoslovakia in August, 1968, there were long discussions within the Kremlin and between Moscow and the East European capitals which were to cooperate in the action.

The story, as learned from a contact close to highplaced East European government officials, is that in these discussions the party secretary for the Ukraine urgently argued for the invasion, saying that if the Czechs were allowed to get away with democratization the "virus" would inevitably spread.

The same arguments were used by East Germany's Walter Ulbricht.

What they were arguing, of course, was the domino theory in reverse.

It was this argument, it is reported, which convinced Soviet officials they must act.

Opinion began to grow in the West after the invasion that the Soviet Union had made a most serious mistake, that it later came to regret this blatant use of force in a friendly country.

It was argued in high places in the United States and in Western European capitals that the Czech invasion had brought new dissension and new divisiveness to the Communist world.

Special Report

But an analysis by Kremlin watchers of the recent 24th Congress of the Communist party of the Soviet Union makes abundantly clear that in Brezhnev's eyes and in those of his chief party colleagues the invasion of Czechoslovakia was in retrospect a major success.

As these Soviet leaders view the invasion: —It taught the world a lesson. It warned the West and dissidents within the Soviet Union and the Soviet bloc that Moscow would not permit divisions and would suppress any attempts with strong military force.

—It helped establish the "class duty" of all Communist countries to socialist internationalism as defined by Moscow, which means that as a matter of principle the Soviet Union must be accepted as the final arbiter of what are correct internal policies in any part of the Soviet bloc.

—It was a major factor in leading the West toward acceptance of the status quo in Eastern Europe.

Speakers at the congress emphasized that the trends in Czechoslovakia, and by implication similar trends in any other Communist country, would, if allowed to proceed unchecked, be a threat to the entire "socialist camp."

Thus Brezhnev and other major congress speakers made clear the Czech invasion was a precedent and that this type of action has now become for them an accepted principle of Soviet action.

To Avoid Stumbling

Suburbanite's 'Season Of Sun'

by BRAD BREKKE

"You better get out of the sun, Solly."
"I can't dear... not burn."
"Just the same..."
"Tut, tut... don't worry. I can take care of myself."
"Like you did last year? And the year before that? Solly, don't you ever learn?"
"Oh Marge, get off my back."
"You always overdo everything. If a little bit is good, too much is better. Too much sun is bad, you know."
"Marge! PLEASE... leave me alone, huh?"
"Okay, okay... I won't say another word. But don't say I didn't warn you."
"I won't dear."

Suburban Scene

A 35-year-old warehouse clerk, Solly has flaming red hair, freckles and moon white skin. At work, Solly rarely sees the sun, but on weekends, he worships it. When he can, Solly likes to go to the beach. Last week was his first time out. It was almost his last.

It was Saturday. A dripping 80 degrees in the shade. The beach was crowded. The sand hot. The water cool.

High above, the sun burned from 93 million miles away. And sprawled out on a towel, greased with baby oil like a giant sardine, was Solly.

"You're gonna sizzle like bacon, Solly."

"Hummmmmph."

He rolled on his stomach, ignoring his wife, and yawned.

"Well, it's too hot for me. I'm going in the shade."

"Chicken! No guts. What's the matter? You'll never get a tan that way."

"I don't care. Sun makes me sick."

"Go for a swim."

"Water's too cold."

"Achhhh... some beach bunny you turned out to be. Go ahead. Lay under a tree. Me, I'm gonna get some rays."

If nothing else, Solly figured he'd make a good beach bum. He imagined he was on a tropical island with native girls in grass skirts fanning him.

Twice an hour he would rise, suck in his gut and take a running lunge into the lake, like a commercial for Zest Soap.

Solly loved summers at the beach. The sun was his sun. It was born inside him and if he overslept, the day would be late.

Besides sun bathing, Solly liked watching young girls in bikinis best of all. But then there was Marge.

"Cool it Big Boy."

"What?"

"You know what?"

"Oh, was I staring?"

"If your eyes could burn, not a girl on this beach would be clothed."

"Oh Marge, I'm not that bad... am I?"

"You're worse. I know what you're thinking, too."

"Sometimes you act like an old bitty, Marge. You're getting more like your Mother every day. Lay off, huh? I came here to relax... not get excited."

"Sure you did Solly dear."

She always did that to him. He was used to it, but it still irritated hell out of him.

"You're getting red, Solly."

"Not from the sun, Marge."

"Solly, why don't you see how long you can hold your breath underwater. Maybe that'll cool you off."

"One of these days Marge... one of these days."

"Big talk... no action. You're getting old Solly. Look at the flab on your stomach. You make such a big thing of running into the lake. You think those young girls are interested in an old man like you?"

"You're no spring chicken, Marge. Besides, whose ID did they check in the bar at Virginia Beach a few years ago? At least I look younger than you."

"Solly, Solly... sometimes you amuse me."

"And always at my expense. Nag, nag, nag. Mock, scorn, ridicule."

"Are you ready to go home, dear?"
"Yes... there's no peace here."
That night Solly really felt it. SUN BURN. Outside he was blistering hot. Inside he was frozen.

His teeth chattered. He ached. He moaned.

"Ouch... don't touch me Marge."

"Ha, my hero! I told you so," she said, in the doorway of their bedroom.

Poor Solly. No sympathy. No Solar-caine. Nothing but pain.

"Sun was a bit hot today."

"You should have listened."

"Com'on Marge... cut it out. Go to the store and get me something to put on this, will ya?"

"Later dear. I want to see you squirm awhile first... so you'll remember."

"Thanks... I hope a spider bites off your nose."

"You wanted a sun burn... now suffer. Maybe next time you'll listen to me."

"So help me Marge..."

Solly did recover. A week later. After days of discomfort, fever, itching, scratching and peeling. But what hurt most was living with Marge.

Candor Of Educator Is Encouraged

Tom Wellman's article "Issue of Political Candor" on June 7 made me ponder a question I have been asking myself for a long time. Why must educators either constantly defend their actions or remain silent and not allow their voices to be heard?

You stated that Mr. Gill had "guts" — no, Mr. Wellman, Mr. Gill is a man of integrity, who has the courage of his convictions and in a free society it is his inalienable right to speak out — educator or not. Educators and administrators are not second class citizens, bound to the realm of a narrow path upon which they must tread lightly. I don't think that we want them to become complacent and self-satisfied. There is an old adage "the streets of Hell are paved with good intentions" — but some streets we know are not paved at all. Maybe there is complacency among some educators and it is time they were jarred from this sad plight.

Since Mr. Gill is responsible for the education of so many students in his district, he might be concerned that the promise (Sputnik era) to move rapidly ahead in education at all levels to fill the gaps created by neglect has not been fulfilled and instead billions of dollars of our resources are being spent annually in Viet Nam.

Early in its history this country established the proposition that a major ingredient in the development of the United States and in the maintenance of a democratic way of life is the level of education of the electorate. Congratulations, Mr. Ken Gill, for impressing upon us once again, the philosophy that democracy is the viable way of life in the United States.

Enforcement Puzzle

I would like to congratulate the Wheeling Police Department for their efficient manner of enforcing the parking regulations. In January, I was issued a parking ticket for parking illegally on the east side of Seton Court. The two No Parking signs were suddenly put up, unknown to those of us who had previously been accustomed to parking legally on the east side since April, 1970. The ticket was issued about four or five days after the signs were installed.

Just a few months later, the signs were reversed — no parking now on the west side of Seton Court. For two months as many as six cars at a time were permitted to park illegally all day long without tickets! Just today, June 10, I see the cars are parked legally on the east side of the street. Some efficiency!

Urges End Of Viet Nam 'Slaughter'

Do you want the endless slaughter in Vietnam ended? Do you want our soldiers and prisoners home? Then write to your congressmen in support of the McGovern-Hatfield bill to withdraw our forces from Vietnam by Dec. 31, 1971.

According to the New York Times Magazine of May 16, President Nixon is guilty of "transparent sophistry" in implying that setting a withdrawal date will jeopardize our negotiations for prisoner return, because all Congressional proposals for withdrawal include the return of prisoners as a primary condition. It is a fact, according to the Geneva Convention, that prisoners are never returned until the war is over. Obviously, if the President refuses to set a withdrawal date, the prisoners will never be returned, and the war will drag on interminably.

If the President knows perfectly well that his conditions will be met by setting a withdrawal date, what possible motive could he have for "stalling?" According to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.), the President is delaying for "cynical political reasons." He is saving "his last great card for peace" for a time of maximum political impact, as close as possible to the 1972 presidential election.

If so, would you want a loved one of yours to spend an extra year as a prisoner of war or lose his life on the battlefield for no loftier purpose than to be used as a political pawn in President Nixon's campaign strategy?

If not, write to your senators and representatives in support of the McGovern-Hatfield Vietnam Disengagement Act.

Business Today

by LEROY POPE

UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — When the telephone company errs in forecasting public demand for service, it's a double embarrassment.

The company loses revenue by not being able to supply the phones and services requested. In the process of trying to catch up, overload situations generally develop, resulting in poor service and dissatisfied customers.

New York City, for instance, has had telephone problems for months. The company admits its failure a few years back to recognize the depth of today's demand aggravated the problem.

The answer is to keep ahead of demand through surveys that anticipate the scope of it. General Telephone & Electronics, biggest of the independents, even has gone to the air to do this.

IT USES SMALL airplanes, rather than the traditional physical surveys by automobile, in some areas, especially rural ones. GTE says aerial surveys not only are more effective in many instances but also 50 to 60 per cent cheaper.

This system, however, is useless in a high density area like New York City which has far more variations in telephone use and services than a small community.

Jack Finn, who manages forecasting for New York Tel, has a staff of 50. It makes three surveys a year because the demand picture can change with dramatic speed in the city.

Finn's surveyors first are briefed by company economists about business and population trends. "But the actual picture in any given district can be diametrically opposed to the general trends," said Finn. "So we have to go look for ourselves."

In residential areas, surveyors look for new housing, housing conversions and demolition projects. They check on purely local expansion or the opposite, community decay and local unemployment. They also must count the number of non-telephone homes and determine why they aren't customers.

Veterans' News

Q — I AM a veteran who served three years on active duty from 1958 to 1961. I am totally disabled because of an automobile accident. Am I entitled to a non-service connected pension?

A — No Pension is payable only to veterans of wartime service. Your active duty was during peacetime.

Q — I AM undecided as to my program of education, and wonder if the VA will provide counseling?

A — Yes A veteran may apply for counseling by the VA to assist him in selecting a program and educational goal. He may apply for it before beginning training on the VA application form 21E-1990, or at a later date by letter. There is no charge for counseling, but the veteran must pay any travel expense to and from the counseling location.

Q — IF I sell my mobile home, can the GI loan be assumed by the purchaser?

A — Yes However, you will remain liable for the loan unless you apply to VA for a release from liability, and the VA grants the release in writing. Further, you may not use your GI loan entitlement for any other purpose until the mobile home loan has been paid in full, regardless of whether VA releases you from liability on the loan or not. If the buyer obtains new financing in connection with the sale and the GI mobile home loan is paid in full, you will have no further liability on the loan and may then use your entitlement for other purposes.

The Magic Of Makeup

Shaping Features

Final story of a three-part series. Mrs. John Olesky was one of three women who volunteered to be made over during a Paddock beauty clinic at robert-marc's studio in Glenview.

by GENIE CAMPBELL

"I am quite interested in finding out if something could be done with my baby-fine only hair and to minimize the size of my nose through a correct cut or set," wrote Mrs. John Olesky when she sent in a letter volunteering for the makeover session with makeup artist robert-marc.

In playing up her features to draw attention away from the nose, robert-marc used an "up and outward pattern" throughout the application of her makeup.

Her brows, positioned very close to the eyelids, dropped down outside and gave Mrs. Olesky a rather sad appearance.

robert-marc lifted her brows by arching them out from the face, tweezing out altogether most of the hair.

"THIS IS VERY unusual," said marc concerning her brows. "Usually I try to save as much hair as I can. Yet through arching the brows we create a larger appearance. The eyes look more open and awake."

Off-white eyeshadow was used to bring out and highlight the area directly underneath each brow.

Eyelashes were cut to order. The outside corners of the top lashes were flared up and out. The bottom pair of lashes were cut shorter as they neared the nose. Even Mrs. Olesky's rouge was placed high and out from the face.

THIN LIPS were also a drawback in Mrs. Olesky's appearance; robert-marc simply used makeup to give the illusion of enlargement.

Everyone has a small light area completely surrounding her lips. "If you increase the lipline you also have to remember to reline and highlight the outside lip area to make the extension appear natural," said marc.

He explained that this could be done by using a liquid foundation applied lightly with a Q-tip. Also, an off-white or white pencil could be used in highlighting the area around the lips. However, one must guard against drawing on a thin unnatural line.

The lipline is outlined in a darker shade of lipstick than the shade used to color the rest of the lips which incidentally should correlate with the rouge and clothes.

MRS. OLESKY'S medium-length hair was just right for her long face. A hairstyle was chosen for her to give a dimension of width to her face. Flatter on top, the hairdo sweeps out on the sides. Wearing her hair any longer would only work against her in further narrowing her face.

PLEASED WITH THE FINISHED product, Mrs. John Olesky smiles as she glances at herself in the mirror. Through arching the brows robert-marc managed to create a larger appearance. The eyes appear more open and awake. Makeup was applied to draw attention away from a prominent nose.

Learn To Think Safety

Summer Living Can Be Dangerous

by DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK UPI — Summertime. The livin' is easy, but it's also dangerous.

This year, more than four million Americans — one out of every 50 persons in the United States — will suffer a disabling injury at home, many of them during the supposedly carefree summer season.

Summer means vacations, long weekends, added outdoor pleasures. It also means greater reliance on various outdoor appliances and items of warm weather equipment. And unless you're more careful than most Americans, the chances of serious mishap in certain "action areas" of the home are greatly increased.

The family yard, patio, kitchen and bathroom have been designated by the Consumers Insurance Information Bureau as four high-traffic areas of the home where the "danger quotient" rises in the summertime.

The Bureau, a research and information service sponsored by the 150,000-member National Association of Insurance Agents, has some pointers for summertime safety in these areas.

THE MINUTE YOU haul your power mower out you're a candidate to join some 80,000 persons wounded and disabled each year in mowing accidents.

The Bureau urges that you pay attention to your mower manual and to the safety suggestions that are widely publicized at this time of year. No doubt you know them, but do you heed them?

More important, the Bureau says, never hire anyone to mow your lawn. Hire someone to RAKE and mow in that order. And, if you do it yourself, take the time to rake. Every stick, stone and foreign object should be removed before the blades start to whirl and toss everything in their path.

The Bureau suggests the following "protective points" for these areas:

—Place receptacle covers over unused electrical outlets, a good practice indoors as well as out. Leave burned-out bulbs in the socket until they can be replaced or a cover obtained.

—Always unplug your portable electric broiler after cooking.

—Keep a fire extinguisher on hand near your barbecue pit or grill.

—Once your starter fluid for the barbecue has served its purpose, and be sure you use it only in the manner intended, cap it securely and store in a safe spot which children cannot reach.

—FOR SAFETY'S SAKE, consider installing a permanent type barbecue that can be turned on only with a key.

—Check the wiring on all outdoor appliances, lamps and extensions. Make repairs or replacements immediately.

—Check garden supplies for poisons and dangerous implements; store out of reach of children. Don't leave garden tools such as rakes and hoes lying around to trip or conk the unwary.

The chances of an accident in the bathroom increase sharply in summer, with the greater use of bathing facilities.

The Consumers Insurance Information Bureau suggests parents post a check list in each bathroom as a reminder to:

—Remove all sharp objects, such as razor blades, scissors, etc. from sinks or counters and store them safely out of the reach of children.

—Never leave drugs where children can reach them — not even temporarily.

—Have safety mats in tub and shower and be sure they are used.

—Install safety rails on the wall of bathtub to prevent falls.

—Always have someone supervise a young child's bath; never leave an infant unattended in the tub for even a moment.

—Do not have any electrical appliance — clock, radio, light switch — within reach of the tub.

EVEN UNDER NORMAL circumstances, the kitchen can be a dangerous place. It's a combination work room and storage area which contains all the basic equipment for scalding, poisoning, cutting, suffocating, electrocuting and doing other bodily damage to adults and children alike.

In summer, exposure to these dangers is increased as family and even guests spend more time in that room — dropping in for cool drinks, a snack, or just to visit.

The Bureau suggests:

—Minimize traffic in the kitchen while meals are being prepared. Anticipate warm weather demands for cool drinks; keep refreshments in an auxiliary refrigerator away from the kitchen, or even, in an insulated picnic basket.

—If you must have toddlers in the kitchen to keep an eye on them, have a fenced off play area. Keep family pets out from under foot, too.

—BE SURE THE handles of all cooking utensils are turned to the side, not sticking over the edge of the stove where they may be brushed by a passerby.

—Unplug electric appliances when not in use. Make sure appliance cords do not dangle.

—Store poisonous cleaning preparations, polishes, combustibles, etc., in safe, labeled containers, out of the reach of children.

—Store knives and scissors properly — and don't keep them where they can be reached by children.

—Post at every telephone the numbers for doctor, hospital, emergency room, police, fire department.

Learn to think safety. It may be dull to drone on about grim accident statistics, but who wants the excitement of becoming a part of these statistics?

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Several years ago a friend gave me some rose potpourri encased in a bag of nylon underwear. Now that I have a rose garden and can make some myself I wonder if you might have such a recipe?—Mrs. Virginia M.

We might have started the whole thing. I remember the chiding from those who thought it ridiculous to put rose potpourri in anything as intimate as underwear. The fact remains that as porous as this material is, it makes an excellent container for a fragrant mixture.

Anyway, the best time to pick petals is in the morning. Put each petal on a tray. Keep adding to these, pushing dried petals to the side. Every once in awhile transfer the dried petals to a large can, left open. It is important that petals be absolutely dry before ingredients are added to make it potpourri.

Put in large bowl and add sprinklings of the following: orris root powder, ground cloves, cinnamon, ground allspice, ground nutmeg, oil of rose geranium and soluble rose fluid, in any proportions you like. Add a little at a time until you like the smell. Then put the whole thing in airtight containers (three-pound coffee cans are perfect) and turn them upside down once a week for several weeks.

Tip to brides: Unless your silver salt shakers are lined with glass, be sure to empty the salt after each time they're used. If you don't you'll be pretty unhappy about the pitting which will occur.

Dear Dorothy: Ecology has become one of the most used words in the English language today. Everything seems to have some bearing on the "ecology." Is this a new word worked up somewhere to cover the new situation?—Ann B.

No, it's not at all new. Translated freely, ecology is the "study of our house" and the fact is that we've only recently become aware of how we have abused our "house" or in the broader sense, our environment. Now that we know, let's hope we don't let slide all the activity that has been generated.

Dear Dorothy: Don't think I've seen this in your column and thought your readers might be interested in a recent experience I had. Got a spaghetti stain on a favorite white blouse which wouldn't budge. Left it outside overnight and was amazed to find no trace of the stain. Would you give the gremlins credit?—Suzanne M.

Maybe. One good thing is that you have a safe place to experiment. One reader tried such a "cure" with a tablecloth. The tablecloth was gone next morning so she never did find out what happened to the stain.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006)

The Hometown Rates First

Several village departments plus local groups and individuals fared well when Mount Prospect Woman's Club announced its disbursements for the 1970-71 club year.

Mount Prospect Library received $170 for cassettes and film strips and two $200 scholarships as well as music and conservation scholarships went to local students. Both the fire department and the police department received $25 as did the Fourth of July parade fund.

Mount Prospect Park District received $75 and the park district custodian, $20. The Historical Society received $15.

Current project of the club is participation in beautifying the railroad station with plantings, a joint effort of the Mount Prospect Juniors, the Garden Club of Mount Prospect and the Woman's Club.

ON THE DISTRICT and federation level the club took part in the stamp program, student loan and scholarship fund, donated for a platoon in Vietnam, forest plantings, arts, crafts and contests, Penies for Art, Illinois Cottage at Park Ridge School for Girls, brain and cancer research and scholarships for Indian students.

Except for again helping to man the TB X-ray unit in August the club has disbanded for the summer. Activities will resume with the annual membership tea in early September.

Mrs. W. C. Wilcox, new president of the club, may be reached at 392-2788 by women interested in club membership.

Mustang Coach Named

Phil Pardun, Elk Grove's swimming coach for the past four years, was recently approved as the new head man for Rolling Meadows High School.

Pardun came to the Grenadier school one year after it opened. The past two seasons his boys have finished third in the Mid-Suburban League and compiled an overall record of 13-14.

The new Mustang coach cited the chance for starting a new swimming program for making the job change.

Pardun swam competitively both at Northern Illinois University and while in high school. He's also had experience as a pool manager.

Pardun will also be assistant track coach along with his mathematics post.

Sportsmen's Meeting

The next regular meeting of the Elk Grove Sportsmen's Club will be held tonight at 7:45 in the Elk Grove Village Library, 101 E. Kennedy Blvd. Outdoor Editor Ray Gray of Chicago Today will be the best guest speaker. In addition to writing a newspaper column, Gray is also co-host with Jerry Tolbert on the radio program, "The Great Outdoors," heard on WGN each Saturday morning between 6:00 and 7:00.

Acc For Ted Small

It took 10 years of playing golf before Ted Small, vice president, sales and marketing of the Herald, struck the perfect shot.

Playing at Mount Prospect Country Club Sunday he fired a five-wood shot into the cup of the fourth hole, a par 3, 215 yards.

Small and his wife Lee were playing in a three-ball sixsome with Bud and Lorna Enser and Dave and Liz Shean. The Smalls captured low net honors in the Monday-Tuesday golf leagues' outing with a 22.

Wilcox To LSU

Prospect sidhorse ace Jim Wilcox has announced his intentions to attend Louisiana State University at New Orleans on a full grant-in-aid scholarship.

The former Knight co-captain placed eighth in the Mid Suburban Conference Meet and hit a dazzling 8.35 against Hersey in a tual meet.

Greg's Not Choosy

Long-ball specialist Greg Luzinski (Prospect Heights), who plays for the Philadelphia Phillies' top farm club at Eugene, Ore., had a home run in each of the seven Pacific Coast League parks he'd visited after hitting his 10th round-tripper of the season in Spokane. The latest figures on Greg show a .306 batting average with 16 homers and 47 runs batted-in in 176 trips to the plate.

Sauer Helps Kingman

"He was lunging at the ball, over-swinging and upercutting, but other than that, no problems," simplified San Francisco instructor Hank Sauer after taking a look at Phoenix (Pacific Coast League) slump-ridden Dave Kingman. The problems of the Giants' rookie first baseman, who prepped at Prospect High, did appear small after he'd slammed a double, single and home run which cleared the 412-foot sign and helped Phoenix defeat Hawaii, 14-8.

Sauer and Giants' manager Jim Davenport convinced Kingman he should wait just a split second longer on pitches, and the results were immediate.

"It feels so good, I don't know how to describe it," Kingman said. "My whole mental attitude has changed."

Doris Grover Tops Gross, Net Events In Newcomers

Doris Groover captured both low gross and low net in the championship flight with a 46 gross score — also shot by Bernice Dunn — and 32 net in the Arlington Heights Newcomers Golf League last week at Old Orchard Country Club.

Weekly event of most fours had a tie for first place, with Dottie Fisher and Jeanne Fleming each getting four.

The only two birdies of the day were by Doris Groover in her red-hot round, as she birdied holes No. 3 and 7. She also had pars on Nos. 1 and 6. Other pars in the championship flight were by Bernice Dunn on holes No. 1, 6 and 8; Jeanne Fleming on 1, 5 and 7; Dottie

Fisher on 1 and 5 and Connie Malecki on No. 1.

Dottie Erlinger was tops in Flight A with low gross of 51 and low net of 33, also posting the most fives with four of them. Barb Beatty chipped for a par on No. 2. Bretha Anderson did the same on No. 6. Delores Billings parred the seventh, Jane Plator the sixth and Gladys Barnes the eighth.

In Flight B, Margaret Livermore had low gross of 61 and Marilyn Cassie low net of 34. Gretchen Tiplie had the only par on the eighth hole.

Dorothy Gabbel had low gross of 72 and low net of 38 in Flight C. Bobbie Berg had a par on No. 7.

Maine-Northfield Report

Pellegrini Signs managed by Harry Sutphen has been crowned the first-half National Major League champion in the Maine-Northfield Little League after trouncing Tallman Village 11 to 1 in last week's championship play-off game.

While the Villagers were vainly struggling to coordinate their pitching and fielding, Pellegrini's John Maly was taking command on the mound and allowing only four hits. He also helped out at bat by driving in two runs. Other hitters included Duane Cooper, who doubled and had two RBIs; John Olson with two RBIs; George Sutphen with one and Mickey Conner, who doubled. The rest of the major league was idle before beginning the second-half.

Dash's Tavaco took the Flying Frenchman Restaurant 9 to 1 with Dan Kellov getting the win on the mound and a home run. Richard and Robert Dietz each had two singles. Rocky Gray and Bob Mathies each had one. For the Frenchmen, Murray Shore doubled, singled and had an RBI, and Steve Palusz doubled.

An extremely tight senior league race took shape during the week. Semmerling Fence started the week with a 25 to 1 win over Gas Light Coin Shop. Larry Duschamps was the winning pitcher and some of the Fencers' hitting power was supplied by Ron Orlovski, Brad Eisenberg and George Kaufman, each of whom doubled. Orlovski drove in six runs and Eisenberg, who was three for three, drove in three runs.

Tom Knauber was five for five and drove in six runs. In their second outing, Semmerling took White-Crown Ford 4 to 2 with Kaufman striking out eight men in four innings. Orlovski drove in the two winning runs with a double. Kaufman and Doug Zorn each singled and Gary Hoffman scored two of the four runs. Billy Harrison doubled and Dale Pearson had two singles for the losers.

Golf Mill Bank also started the week with two wins. In the first they topped Yorktown-Seroma 7 to 4 with Harold Mash getting credit for the win and a catch by Larry Harrelson in right field being credited with a possible save. Mike Develat doubled and Bruce Long was four for four.

In their second game it was GMB 8 Gas Light Coin Shop 3. Rick Pellegrini was the winning pitcher. Harrelson had three singles and Mash and Develat each had one. Ron Wodkin tripled and drove in two runs for the losers. Gary Ruske doubled. Al Marabotti, Tom Corney and Mike Pearlman executed a double play.

Martin & Marbury Realtors split their first two games for the week. In their first meeting they spoiled White-Crown's undefeated record by beating them 6 to 2. Robbie Marcus took command on the mound striking out 14 and allowing only two hits. He also singled and drove in a run. Ed Radowsky had a double and two RBIs. Mitch Glickman doubled, Mickey McCarty singled and had an RBI and Danv Kass drove in a run. Terry Malecki had White-Crown's only hit, two singles.

The Realtors didn't fare so well in their second game as Yorktown-Seroma's Johnny Mendrala held them to four hits struck out seven collected two singles and led his teammates to a 12 to 1 win. Dave Baskin contributed a double and a triple to the Yorktown victory. Keny Pink hit a double and two singles. Mike Orlando had three singles. Scott Willger doubled. Steve Stein had two singles and Jeff Bersh and John Volpe singled. For the losers, Keith Bluestein delivered a double and a single and Robbie Marcus and Dave Barish each singled. McCarty made an unassisted double play at first.

Ed Radowsky received this year's honor of leading out the first senior league, winner of the season — about 100 feet. He accomplished the feat with bases loaded and to add frosting to the cake he also was the winning pitcher as Martin & Marbury Realtors defeated Yorktown-Seroma 9 to 8 in extra innings. Earning the annual citation for delivering the season's first senior home run pitch was Dave Baskin. Marcus the M&M starting pitcher struck out seven men in five innings. Other hitters figuring in the victory included McCarty with two singles and Mitch Glickman with one. A spectacular catch of a foul ball by Mark Schippacasse also aided the winners. For the losers, Keny Pink doubled, Johnny Mendrala had two singles and Steve Stein, Mike Orlando, Larry Bersh and Howard Weinger all singled.

In the only other senior game reported Semmerling Fence beat White-Crown Ford 5 to 1. George Kaufman was the winning pitcher. Rick Jacobson, who made two great catches in left field, singled and Tom Knauber also singled. The losers' three hits were two singles by Jeff Armgardt and a single by Billy Harrison.

Forest View In 9-3 Romp Despite Sloppy Fielding

Despite having only two of the three ingredients needed for victory going for them, the Falcons of Forest View still looked plenty tough against Fenton.

The visiting Bisons were helped to two of their three runs on Falcon errors, but the hosts made up for four miscues with a fine slugging attack and solid pitching to fashion a 9-3 victory in the Northwest Summer League Baseball Division opener.

Craig Stiles started for the Falcons and went five innings to get the win after allowing one earned run in the first inning.

The Falcons took the lead in the second when Lewis Leuzzi smashed a two-run single. Greg Fink doubled home two more in the fourth, Dale Schoenbeck socked a two-run homer in the fifth over the left field fence and three more came home in the sixth on a two-run double by Randy Jespersen and a single by Bill Millner.

Jespersen, who also plays for the Mount Prospect legion team, and Millner led the attack with two hits each.

Pettit, Fremd Win, 1-0

A first-class pitchers' duel opened the High School summer baseball season at Fremd Tuesday, with Doug Pettit and the hosts slipping past Bob Marzec and Hersey, 1-0.

So well-pitched was the contest that there wasn't a walk in it. Pettit allowed four hits in seven innings, striking out nine, while Marzec gave up just three hits in six frames.

Marzec took the setback only because of four Hersey errors, one of which made the only run an unearned one.

That lone tally scored in the fourth inning when Mark Pettit, Doug's brother, reached on a two-base error, was sacrificed to third and scored on Jene Bell's infield hit, a high chopper over the mound that could not be fielded in time to get the out at first. (It would have ended the inning with no runs, because there were two out at the time).

The first two batters of the game rapped out hits for Hersey, but Pettit quickly settled down. After that, scoring chances were extremely rare for both teams.

Focus Supports Low-Income Housing Effort For Suburbs

Focus, an organization of persons representing community groups in several Northwest suburbs, is supporting current efforts to bring better housing to persons in the low and middle income brackets.

Patricia Vockeroth, of the Focus committee on housing, said: "We believe that America belongs to all Americans . . . not just to the few who have been fortunate enough to earn more money. We too, are concerned that our communities remain beautiful and that property values remain high.

"Ninety-five per cent of the available land for housing is located in the suburbs. It must be recognized that our communities have had low income housing during their total existence. Such housing units have consisted of converted chicken shacks and other grossly substandard dwellings.

"LET IT be clear, we are simply replacing substandard housing with attractive housing which will not be a blight on our communities, but will be within the economic reach of those working here.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — My doctor told me I have no thyroid action any more. I have myxedema and coronary heart disease. I am 61. Is there any cure at all for this? I also have arthritis. I can hardly use my hands. What I want to know is will this kill me or is there a cure for this thyroid?

Dear Reader — If I were to choose a gland to do without it would be the thyroid. You can take whatever amount of thyroid medicine you need to replace the normal action of the thyroid gland.

I presume you have been taking medicine for your thyroid for several years. Myxedema is merely a term for a marked loss of thyroid function. If you had no thyroid function at all and were not getting medicine to replace the action of the thyroid you wouldn't be able to write such an intelligent letter.

Your doctor may be having trouble regulating the amount of thyroid medicine he wants to give you because of your heart disease. One of the treatments for severe coronary artery disease once was to destroy the thyroid by radiation, decreasing the metabolism and decreasing the amount of work the heart had to do. As you take more thyroid the work of the heart will be increased and may cause trouble with your heart disease. Nevertheless, with careful gradual increase in thyroid medicine most problems can be controlled.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Friends and relatives alike have told me not to let my children have chewing gum because they swallow it and it won't digest, won't eliminate and might lodge in the appendix. Is this true? My children, 4 and 2, have one or two pieces almost daily. What effects will this have on them (besides possible cavities) and is it just chewing gum or bubble gum or both?

Dear Reader — If chewing gum is the only thing your children swallow that isn't food you will be a lucky mother. Chewing gum will be mixed into the food and passed right along the digestive tract, finally being eliminated. I wouldn't worry about it causing appendicitis.

You should worry about letting a child who is too young chew gum, however. The real danger is aspirating the chewing gum into the windpipe. This is unlikely but it is far more dangerous than swallowing gum.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Salary Negotiations to Continue

Teachers in High School Dist. 214 have received word that salary negotiations will continue into the summer.

In a memorandum issued jointly by Supt. Edward Gilbert and Richard Chierico, president of the Dist. 214 Education Association last Friday, teachers were told copies of the proposed salary agreement will be mailed to them once negotiations are completed.

"The terms representing both groups have worked steadily and diligently since mid-February with the hope all matters being negotiated could be resolved before the end of the school term," the memorandum states.

Until a new salary schedule is approved by both the Education Association members and the board of education, this year's salary schedule will be in effect.

THE EDUCATION Association, which is the teachers' bargaining agent in salary discussions, includes 60 per cent of the Dist. 214 teachers in its membership.

Non-members will receive copies of the agreement, but will not be allowed to vote on its acceptance.

If negotiations are concluded before the pre-school workshop Sept. 3, teachers will be asked to vote on the proposal during the workshop.

"We are hopeful that a final agreement between the two negotiating teams will be reached in the near future," Gilbert and Chierico concluded in their memorandum.

Scouts Slate Lunch-O-Ree

The Northwest Suburban Council, Boy Scouts of America, will host its first annual Lunch-O-Ree at the Arlington Park Towers, Arlington Heights, on June 24.

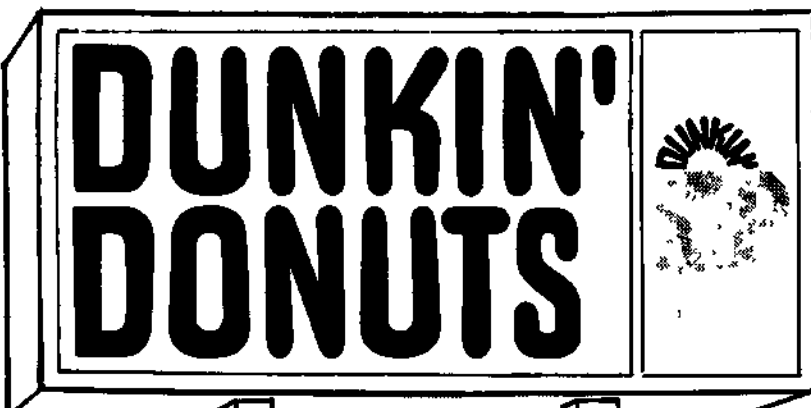

This lunch-o-ree, like others held throughout the nation, is designed to build financial support for the many Boy Scout programs. For this event, tickets cost $30 a piece. A table sells for $300, and a half table for $150.

There are presently 16,000 boys under the supervision of the Northwest Suburban Council. By the end of this year, approximately 18,000 will be in the program.

The big name at the event will be Bobby Douglas, Chicago Bears quarterback.

Builder Surveys Project Visitors

A recent study on the preferences of Chicago residents in search for new housing was released by Scholz Homes, Inc., subsidiary of Inland Steel Co.

The profile is based upon information volunteered by the first 1,000 visitors and buyers at Three Fountains On-The-Lake since the condominiums were opened in Rolling Meadows last January.

The analysis indicated that the lake-side condos are drawing from a 5-10 mile radius of Rolling Meadows: an area bounded by Waukegan on the north, Elgin to the west, Palos Hills to the south, and the North Shore communities to the east. The biggest single group by a wide margin presently live in Chicago and the downtown Loop.

The study revealed that 80 per cent of the visitors to date are persons containing three persons; 20 per cent are singles of which 15 per cent are male, 5 per cent female.

The visitors in the Mid-40 age group are primarily interested in the largest of the six models offered (the New Bedford, a 2-bedroom plus den-study). The upper-40 and lower-50 age group prefer to evaluate the two-bedroom model; the mid-30 and lower-40 groups show interest primarily in both the larger and smaller two-bedroom models.

The profile shows that of those who have purchased, 30 per cent paid cash — 30 per cent paid 40 per cent down; 30 per cent have paid 20 per cent down, and 10 per cent, the minimum 10 per cent down.

"It is evident from the study that central city dwellers are still seeking out country living, but attempting to remain close to the city for easy commuting," said Scholz' Three Fountains sales manager, Cy Fine. "Approximately one-third of our visitors want to commute to the Loop, the remaining by car to their jobs in the surrounding suburbs."

"We also learned a great deal about the preferences that are bringing people to see Three Fountains On-The-Lake," said director of sales, Dominic Cannon. "Without a doubt the strongest attraction, aside from our buildings and site, is the outdoor living immediately at our doorstep." He cited several area recreational facilities.

At Three Fountains On-The-Lake Scholz has constructed around a lake three three-story colonial brick buildings containing a total of 125 apartments. The condominiums range from $24,100 to $49,500.

Amenities include natural fireplaces in the living rooms; sliding glass doors leading to either a patio or a balcony, master suites that have walk-in closets and dressing rooms; and some floorplans featuring three full baths.

The six models (one-bedroom, two-bedroom, and two-bedroom plus study/den) range in size up to 2,000 square feet. The models are available for inspection from 10 a.m. Monday through Friday; Saturday and Sunday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Spartanics Claims

Patent Violation

Sam Willis, president of Spartanics, Ltd., of Palatine, announced that the company recently filed suit against a Des Plaines firm for the alleged infringement of a Spartanics patent.

The suit was filed June 1 by the Palatine firm in the United States District Court, for the Northern District of Illinois, Eastern Division, against the Dynetics Engineering Corp. in Des Plaines. The suit involves the Spartanics' U.S. patent No. 3,581,067, on a pitch matching detecting and counting system.

Spartanics charged that the Des Plaines firm is marketing an electro-optical counting system which infringes its patent. No comment was available from the Dynetics Engineering Corp.

Announcing A New Real Estate Service For The Northwest Suburban Area

NOW YOU CAN TRADE-IN YOUR HOME IN THIS AREA WHEN YOU MOVE TO ANOTHER LOCATION. POTERE, INC. WILL PURCHASE THE EQUITY IN YOUR HOME, SO THAT YOU CAN MAKE DEFINITE MOVING PLANS IMMEDIATELY.

POTERE, Inc. of Elizabeth, New Jersey has been serving major corporations since 1964 by assisting their transferred employees relocate more easily. Potere, Inc., under contract with these firms, purchases the homes of transferred employees so that they can immediately purchase another home in their new location.

The same service is now being extended to individual home owners without any corporate contract necessary.

Potere, Inc., in cooperation with Inter-City Relocation Service, Inc., a nationwide group of Realtors who since 1957 have been assisting families on the move, has appointed Robert W. Starck, & Co. as its representative for the Northwest Suburban Area.

Follow these easy steps:

1. Home owner secures two independent written appraisals on his home from qualified appraisers. (We can give you the names and phone numbers of many good appraisers.)
2. From these appraisals Robert W. Starck & Co. will deduct the anticipated necessary expenses of re-selling your home, including commission, legal fees, title fees, carrying charges, any redecorating necessary and a 1% profit to Potere, Inc.
3. After deducting the expenses and mortgage balance from the average of the two appraisals, Potere, Inc. will give you cash for your equity within 30 days.
4. Robert W. Starck & Co. can then arrange for you to meet an Inter-City member in your new location and buy your new home with the assurance you will have the cash and not have to maintain two homes.
5. When your present home is re-sold by Robert W. Starck & Co., and if a profit is made over expenses and the 1% fee to Potere, Inc., the excess profit will be rebated to you within 30 days after the re-sale.
6. If a loss should occur, it will not be charged to you.

If you are being transferred to Chicago or just relocating in the Northwest Suburban area and still have a home to sell in your old location, we can provide this program to you in many areas of the U.S. Call us for details.

We invite inquiry from corporations who do not have a program to purchase homes from their transferred employees. We can put you in touch with the president of Potere, Inc. who will be glad to explain their corporate program to you.

This is a "FIRST" for the Northwest Suburban Area and Robert W. Starck & Co.

Call us if you are being transferred. 27 experienced sales associates in 3 area offices to serve you.

Builder Reports Sales Increase

3H Building Corp. of Rolling Meadows, reported a record 461 net sales contracts on new homes for the five-month period ending May 31. For the similar 5-month period in 1970, 3H reported 178 contracts.

The sales were primarily made in Old Mill Grove, Lake Zurich, and Hanover Highlands, Hanover Park. Plymouth Square, a subdivision of approximately 150 homes, also in Hanover Park, opened for sale in early June. First sales reports have been excellent, according to Ronald Benach, 3H president.

Benach credited the sales record to public acceptance of 3H's Dimension '70's line of homes, designed for moderate income families. Homes in the Dimension '70's series range in price from $25,000 to $35,000.

homes, ranging in price from $21,490 to $26,990.

Benach added that the over 250 per cent increase should be seen as a favorable sign for the entire home building industry. "People are starting to regain their interest in long term investments and long term capital commitments," he said.

3H Building Corp. ranks in the top one per cent of the nation's homebuilders. Stock in the company is traded over-the-counter.

Four New Houses Shown By Levitt

Four new models picked from a "Mid-west best-seller list" of homes will go on display for the first time in the country at Levitt and Sons' new Schaumburg project, Sheffield Park East.

The project, set to open Friday, June 18, is located on Schaumburg Rd. a half mile east of Sheffield Park, a Levitt Sub-division.

"These four models are the result of an intensive study by Levitt into the area's best-sellers," said Robert Craig, director of sales and marketing for the Chicago area. "We have selected the top 36 homes, narrowed them down to four of the most popular and added our own refinements and ideas to them."

The four models are the Briarwood, a ranch-style home; the Normandy, a split-ranch, the Fairfield, a three-level split; and the Georgetown, a two-story colorial. Prices will range from $27,500 to $36,990.

Also available and on display a half mile west of Sheffield Park East at Sheffield Park are eight more models ranging from $30,990 to $39,500. Although only four models will be exhibited at Sheffield Park East, homebuyers may choose from any of the 12 models when they buy at either project, according to Craig.

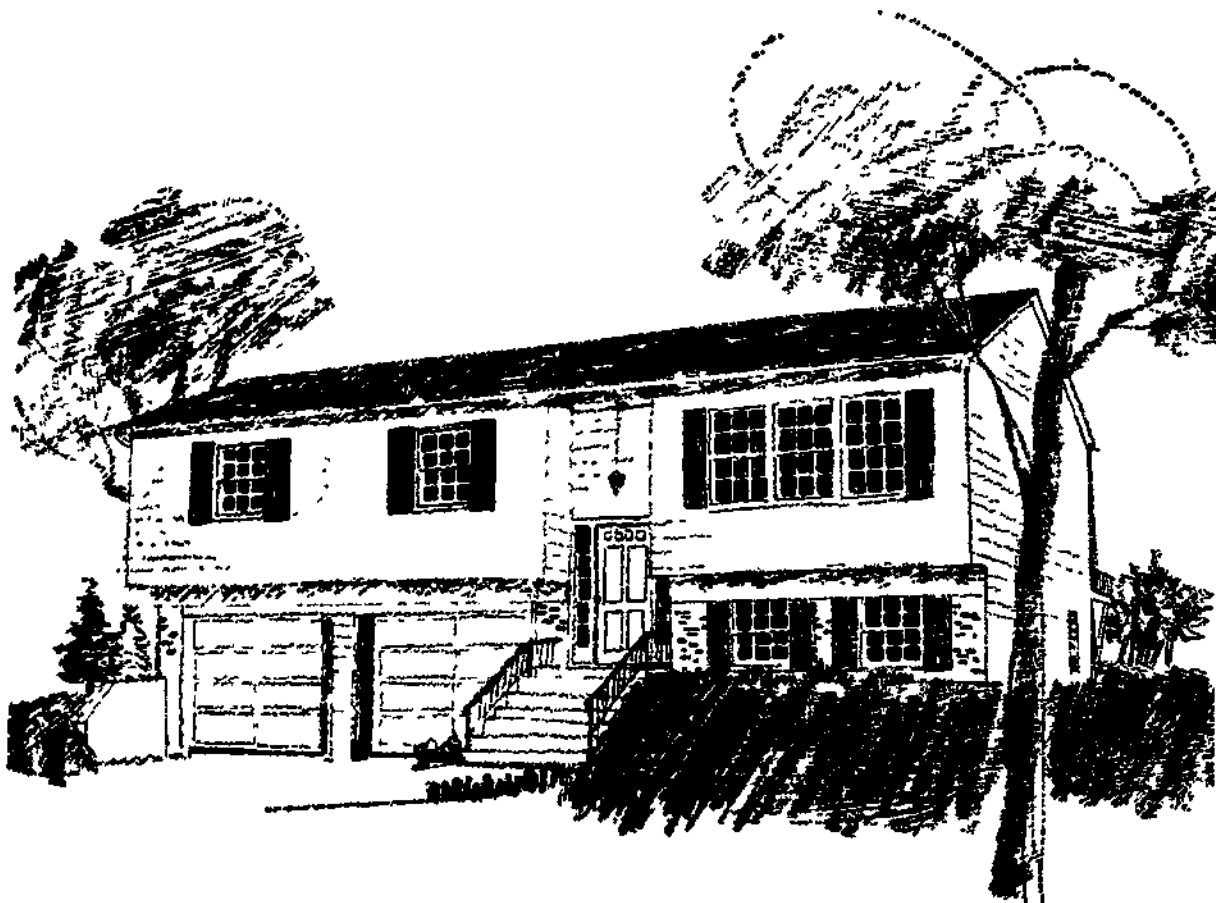

Included in the price of the four new models will be carpeted areas and stained interior woodwork; range and oven; dishwasher and disposal; attached garages and paved driveways; exteriors of brick and stone with aluminum siding; complete landscaping with trees and shrubs; all closing costs and many other extras. Basements and fireplaces are available as options.

Residents of Sheffield Park East and Sheffield Park will have membership priority in the Sheffield Park Swim and Racquet Club, which offers a variety of sports and activities.

When completed, both Schaumburg projects will contain more than 1,200 single family homes.

The new models were designed by A. D. Tore, Levitt's Chicago regional architect. Decor for the models will be done by Dorie Anderson Interiors of Seattle, Wash.

With the opening of Sheffield Park East, Levitt will have a total of four active projects in the Chicago area. They include Sheffield Park and Sheffield Towne in Schaumburg and Strathmore in Buffalo Grove.

SPLIT RANCH MODEL, the Normandy, is one of 12 designs available to buyers at the Sheffield Park East project in Schaumburg. It is among four new models being introduced by Levitt and Sons. Other new choices include a ranch, three level split and a colonial model. Prices range from $27,500 to $36,990.

Wider Selection In Rental Units

Rental vacancy rates are inching up, although occupancy levels and the absorption rate of new apartments are relatively high, said Bill N. Brown, Albuquerque, N. M., president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards (NAREB).

"Easing in the supply has slowed somewhat the upward trend of rents," he added. "While in a majority of communities and for most types of units, rents have continued to move upward, areas in which little or no change has taken place are far more numerous than they were last year."

Jakubic Appointed At Kole Realty

Thomas Jakubic

Kole Real Estate, Ltd. announces the appointment of Thomas Jakubic as the new sales manager for their Wheeling office. He joined the company two years ago as a sales associate in the Des Plaines office.

Jakubic attended North Park College in Chicago, majoring in Business Administration. He and his wife, Carole, are residents of Des Plaines. Tom is very familiar with the Northwest Suburbs having been a fifteen year resident of Des Plaines.

Jakubic manages an experienced and aggressive sales force to continue the reputation of Kole Real Estate, Ltd. Every associate must satisfactorily complete a twelve week comprehensive training program to function properly as an associate.

Also, Kole Real Estate has added a loan office to the Wheeling office for all types of financing. It is the originating office of First Federal Savings of Aurora. Along with two attorneys and an accounting firm the very best in real estate service or any personal service is available.

Confidence in Wheeling is demonstrated by the starting of construction of a new office which will be located at Milwaukee and Jeffery Avenues. At this same time service is expanding to include commercial and land sales.

Vacancy rates can be expected to rise in an increasing number of communities as the vast inventory of multi-family structures started last year becomes available to tenants, continued Brown.

According to the annual study of the real estate market by NAREB's Department of Research among 135 Realtors, housing demand remains strong, with minor exceptions, and these new units are sorely needed to meet population growth and provide a broad-based opportunity for upgrading, Brown said.

"Consumers this year who prefer rental housing will have a wider selection of good quality apartments available than at any time in the past," he added. "Multi-family construction will continue to add units at an annual rate of 650,000 to 700,000. Existing apartments will continue to experience an annual turnover rate of more than one-third."

New privately financed apartment structures of five units or more are not being leased, upon completion, quite as rapidly as they were, Brown said. In the fourth quarter of 1970, 65 per cent of the apartments were leased within three months following completion, whereas in the fourth quarter of 1969, the absorption rate was 76 per cent.

"Reports from across the country suggest that units being added exceed to some degree those leaving the inventory, or needed for maintenance of appropriate supply-demand relationships," he said. In numerous areas Realtors reported a modest increase in availability in one type or another. In some communities there are excess vacancies in several categories, and in a few surplus units exist throughout the inventory.

A current vacancy rate of 2 per cent or less in moderate priced elevator buildings is reported in 49 per cent of the country, compared to 55 per cent last year. There are more garden-type apartments available for occupancy than there were a year ago. A vacancy rate of 2 per cent or less is quoted for 62 per cent of the areas, down from 68 per cent.

For other types of apartments, the change is less pronounced, but the direction is the same.

"Property taxes and costs of maintenance, repair, and operation continue to rise in most areas," Brown said. "Together they represent major costs of owning and managing residential investment property and at the same time, they are expenditures over which control is either very limited or non-existent."

"Real estate taxes are reported to have risen in 86 per cent of the areas. They are about the same as they were last year in 14 per cent of the areas," Brown said.

He concluded by saying that costs of maintenance, repair, and operation are reported to be higher in 95 per cent of the country than last year, with most of this increase being in labor costs.

Mortgage Banker Has New Office

The first Chicago area office of the Lomas and Nettleton Co., mortgage banking firm, was recently opened in Palatine.

Managing the branch office is Raymond C. Martin, assistant vice president. He said the firm is the nation's largest mortgage banking operation, currently servicing over $3 billion in commitments. "Residential financing is our primary concern," he said. "We are getting some Federal Housing Administration (FHA) and Veterans Administration (VA) project financing. In addition we will offer commercial and industrial loans."

Martin said that although the industry has experienced a tightening of the market in the last 45 days, the situation should ease up in the next 60 days. "The rate may go up, but the money will still be there," he said. "The mortgage rates dropped as low as 7 per cent after reaching a level of 8 per cent last year, and they may edge upward again this year."

The money inflow for the mortgage banking firm is not seasonal as on some other financial institutions, according to Martin. The firm represents over 600 investors.

"We represent some insurance companies, savings and loan associations and savings banks," he said. "Each one has different investment requirements."

Martin said that most large builders now use the services of a mortgage banker. The Lomas and Nettleton firm offers both construction loans and the long-term financing for construction.

Mortgages arranged by the company are serviced in Houston, Texas. Martin said it takes approximately one month to gain an FHA commitment and a generally shorter period of time for a conventional mortgage.

Martin has had 30 years' experience in the mortgage banking field. He studied at Wilson Junior College and received a B.S. degree from Northwestern University in business administration. Martin is a member of the Chicago Mortgage Bankers Association and has had additional training in the field.

Reports Elk Grove Sales

The late spring Elk Grove township real estate transfer report from Cook County Recorder Sidney R. Olsen announced that there were 31 new owners of property in Mount Prospect, 11 in Des Plaines, seven in Arlington Heights and 27 in Elk Grove Village and the rest of the township.

Olsen recorded the following property transfers for the township. The list shows the purchase price of equity and does not include the amount of a mortgage which the purchaser may have assumed. The price is indicated by the amount of state revenue stamps on the document ($1 in stamps for each $1,000 of market value).

1732 S. Evergreen Arlington Heights Earl J. Dolan to Richard W. Riske $29, 1777 S. Surrev Ridge Arlington Heights David M. Brudney to John Reitter $41, 1204 S. Chestnut Arlington Heights Heiman Dalton to Frank Fasano $32, 1751 Highland Arlington Heights Ronald L. Luken to Michael J. Duffly $32, 1219 W. Haven Dr. Arlington Heights Rudolph H. Hoch to Lee A. ## Rush hour at Farmington

There is something about Farmington that puts life into its proper perspective. Here is simple, unadorned, peaceful country living complete with quiet ponds, winding lanes, woods and hills. Pheasants abound in our meadows. Wild ducks light on our little lakes. Game fish swim in our waters. The homes are so conceived that they seem to grow out of the land. It will stay that way, too, protected by prudent deed restrictions. There will never be a homesite less than one acre, never two homes that look alike. Farmington on Long Grove Road represents one of the last opportunities to get away from it all within easy commuting distance of the Loop. (38 minutes by train, 42 minutes by car). Of the original 190 one-acre or larger homesites, fewer than 15 remain. They vary from $12,000 to $50,000 and may be purchased with a small down payment and liberal terms. Farmington is not for everyone. But to those few who know the difference between a house and a home, we invite you to come home. To Farmington.

Thrift Institutions Are Moving Into Limelight

Continuing strong savings gains at the nation's savings and loan associations and cooperative banks assure that ample funds for home mortgage lending will be available through 1971, said Lewis S. Eaton, president of the United States Savings and Loan League.

The league president, who addressed the recent 16th annual meeting of the New England Conference of Savings and Loan Associations and Co-operative Banks in Whitefield, N. H., said that current savings gains — though slightly below the first quarter of 1971 — remain extremely high.

"Through May there was a net gain in savings of more than $13 billion and by mid-year it will be more than $15 billion — or about $4 billion more than the biggest yearly gain on record," Eaton said. "These savings gains have enabled many institutions to make major debt repayments to the Federal Home Loan Banks and at the same time continue to make a record number of mortgage loans."

"When you combine these savings patterns with the increase in liquid assets held by our institutions and then add in the support that is available from the Federal Home Loan Banks, it is hard to see a shortage of mortgage funds in most markets during the balance of this year."

Eaton, also president of the Fresno Guarantee Savings and Loan Association, Fresno, Calif., told the New England group that the savings and loan business is making considerable progress in developing defenses to sharp swings in interest rates.

He recalled that two U. S. League committees had made extensive studies of the savings and loan business in 1968 and in 1970, and that both committees had concluded that the fundamental problem of the business was to develop a business that would be able to function in an environment where inflation and tight money were a recurring threat.

Progress toward this objective, according to Eaton, includes a bigger and more aggressive Home Loan Bank System, a secondary market for conventional home mortgages, some short-term assets including mobile home loans, the development of subsidiary service corporations, and more liberalized lending regulations on various types of real estate.

Eaton said that since 1965, the housing and mortgage markets have undergone radical change with real estate and mortgage investment trusts becoming a factor of increasing importance, more and more building being done by so-called "national" firms and the acquisition of scores of mortgage banking firms by commercial banks.

Eaton labelled the reduced importance of the single-family house in recent years as the "cruelest cut of all." He said there has been a big swing upward in the last few months in the single-family house market under the impetus of easier mortgage credit, but the long-term prospects for this market remain uncertain because of the "incessant spiral" in housing costs and the "crushing burden of real estate taxes in many communities."

Eaton said that broader lending authorities granted in recent years are helping the savings and loan business cope with the problems presented by the diminished importance of the single-family house market.

He also expressed hope that Congress would grant further powers to the business during the coming year. "We need more versatility in our operations, we need the ability to work together for advancement and profit, we need the protection of some limited equity investments, and we need the ability to be able to draw on the expertise and work

TIPS TO HOME BUYERS AND HOME SELLERS

FROM MAP MULTIPLE LISTING
REAL ESTATE SERVICE

Important Things To Consider When Home Shopping!

When making that all important home selection, there are many important things to be considered that are sometimes overlooked.

For example, if you have a school age family, you should investigate the local school district as well as the location of the schools to the home. Not all school districts have the same pupil-to-teacher ratio or the same annual per student expense ratio. These important facts can have a great bearing on the ratio of pupils per class and the corresponding capacity of the actual classrooms. It is also wise to investigate the academic rating of the school districts to assure an acceptable level of available learning standards.

The balanced pupil teacher ratio and the high academic standards of schools in the MAP Multiple Listing Real Estate areas are among the best and highest in the country. This general school condition is one of the many reasons the Northwest Suburban area served by MAP Real Estate offices is one of the most desirable living areas in the country... and another reason why people enjoy life more in the Great Northwest Suburban Chicago area.

A Home Purchase Plan Is Offered

One of the worries facing a man about to be transferred by his employer is whether his former residence will sell promptly, without severe financial loss. A company formed to assist transferees with housing problems and five Chicago suburban Realtors announced test-marketing here of a new home-purchase plan designed to help end such worries.

Participating brokers are G. Grant Dixon & Sons, Inc., with offices in La Grange, Western Springs, Hinsdale, Downers Grove and Elmhurst; First United — Realtors, Glen Ellyn, Wheaton, Naperville, St. Charles and Hinsdale; Koenig & Strey, Inc., Glenview, Northbrook, Deerfield and Wilmette; Robert W. Starck & Co., Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Schaumburg; and Joseph A. Thorsen Co., Realtors, La Grange, Western Springs, Hinsdale, Downers Grove, Lisle, Naperville, Glen Ellyn and Lake Forest.

Under the program, an individual moving from or to the covered areas can elect to have his former residence taken off his hands quickly, at its appraised value, less the necessary expenses of trading. He thus will have cash with which to purchase a new home as soon as possible after arriving in his new city, said the participating Realtors and Daniel C. Hanrahan, Elizabeth, N. J.

Hanrahan heads POTERE, Inc., a seven-year-old firm whose name stands for Purchase of Transferred Employee Real Estate. POTERE's nationwide operations have been based on buying employee homes under contract with a number of leading corporations.

Charging the employer a set fee for each transaction, Hanrahan's company agrees to purchase the former residence of a transferee at its appraised value, if the employee is unable to sell it himself or through a real estate broker. This enables the company to assure its employee that his house will be sold at quickly as he desires, at a fair price, he said.

"We now will offer a similar service to individual clients of the five participating Realtors," Hanrahan announced. "Many corporation employees, as well as others who move from one city to another, cannot avail themselves of such corporate purchase plans because their employers do not offer them. We wish to expand our service and have selected the Chicago area as one of the first markets in which to test individual transactions."

Hanrahan pointed out that clients of the five real estate firms can avail themselves of POTERE's home-purchasing plan, no matter where in the nation they plan to move from Chicago. The interstate character of the POTERE arrangement will set it apart from local house-trading programs brokers have had in effect.

Offers to purchase will be based on valuation of a residence by an independent appraiser, Hanrahan said.

After the purchase, POTERE will put the house on the market. If expenses have been over-estimated, excess will be returned to the original seller. But POTERE and the broker will absorb any loss incurred in an eventual sale at a price below appraised value, Hanrahan said.

"The great advantage to the seller will be that he will know the minimum he will realize from sale of his house, and exactly what his costs will be," Hanrahan said. "He can begin to look for a home in his new city, with the assurance that he will be offered cash for his equity in his present residence."

The five Chicago-area firms are members of Inter-City Relocation Service, Inc., not-for-profit real estate referral organization. Part of the service in the program announced today will be referral of a transferee client's housing needs to an Inter-City member in his destination city.

Daniel C. Hanrahan

"Inter-City has member brokers in all major cities, and their sales forces cover more than 4,300 cities and towns in the U. S. and several foreign nations," said Robert W. Starck, Mount Prospect firm. "When we refer a transferee's specific housing needs to a member in his destination city, most of the preliminaries can be handled before the client arrives there. He thus won't be forced to start cold, house-hunting in a strange city." He emphasized that Inter-City's referral service is provided on a no-cost, no-obligation basis.

Hanrahan said POTERE will charge a nominal fee for assuming a property. Normal real estate commission and other costs of the sale will apply, as in any transaction.

Plans are being developed to offer similar POTERE services to individuals throughout the country, if test-broadening of the program beyond present corporate arrangements is successful, Hanrahan said.

DuBrow On TV

by Rick DuBrow

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — With television offering a summer of endless reruns, the viewer becomes more appreciative of the few series that constantly present fresh material. And no series has a greater turnover of new material than NBC-TV's daily, two-hour morning show, "Today."

Next week's scheduled lineup of features on "Today" illustrates the scope and variety of the morning program, which has become a national habit as well as required viewing for many Washington, D.C., political figures who regard the series as a good place to be seen and to air what is on their minds.

Next Monday, for instance, "Today" offers a demonstration of a drug therapy session with four college student volunteers and an assistant professor of psychiatry from the UCLA Neuropsychiatric Institute. On the same program, the noted violinist Michael Rabin will perform.

ON TUESDAY of next week, there will be a panel discussion of the four-day work week, and the president of People-to-People International talks of that organization's efforts to bring about more exchange visits with Eastern European countries "to advance the cause of friendship." In another Tuesday feature, author George L. Small talks about his account of the slaughter, to near extinction, of the blue whale.

Next Wednesday, there will be a panel discussion about the single-sex college. And German film star Hildegard Neff will be a visitor in connection with a book she has written. In addition, a Michigan engineer named Sam Williams "speaks about and exhibits the small motorcycle-like flying vehicle he has developed that will, he says, enable men to fly to work and will be useful in police and rescue work."

On Thursday of next week, the entire two-hour "today" broadcast will be devoted to the subject of motion pictures, and the guests will include director Frank Capra, actress Lorraine Day, author Max Wilk and journalist-critic Rex Reed.

ON FRIDAY of next week, Pearl Buck is scheduled to discuss "The Story Bible," a book in which she has retold the Old and New Testaments in 72 story-sections in today's language. In addition, a Catholic priest on a two-year leave which he is spending with the U.S. Department of Agriculture talks about its child nutrition and food stamp programs.

Critic Judith Crist will review plays and movies. And Jerome Rothenberg, author of "Poems for the Game of Silence 1960-1970," will read some of his works. Now that's a mix.

The Lighter Side

by Dick West

WASHINGTON (UPI) — At this time of year I receive numerous inquiries from apprehensive citizens seeking advice, solace, moral support or a good shoulder to cry on in regard to summer vacations.

I am answering as many questions as possible in this space. If your question is not among them, my advice to you is to stay home this summer.

Q. We are planning to spend our summer vacation camping in the woods and will sleep on the ground in bedrolls. How can we avoid being trampled by buffaloes? — Mrs. Thermal Longstream, Ekads, N.D.

A. The most reliable method is to maintain a buffalo alert during the night. Hang a dishpan from a tree limb and assign each member of the camping party a two-hour watch period.

Every few minutes the person on watch should smile the dishpan several times with a large metal spoon. This may disturb the other campers but it keeps away buffaloes, who hate banging noises.

Q. I AM thinking of visiting a redwood forest this summer. What are the odds against one of those trees falling on you? — Elray Limphet, Quash Bay, Ore.

A. That depends on how far away from the tree you are standing when it falls. If a tree is 285 feet high, a good rule of thumb is to stand at least 286 feet away.

Q. My wife and I are planning a canoe trip down the Colorado River rapids. What equipment should we take? — E. J. Boil, Upper Wrought, Pa.

A. It doesn't matter what equipment you take because the canoe will tip over and you will lose it all anyway. Veteran canoeists always lead their canoes with a bunch of stuff they want to get rid of.

Q. When I am on vacation I spend a lot of time gazing up at trees. How can you tell how old a tree is without actually climbing it? — Roy O'Joy, Rampant, W. Va.

A. Measure the length of its shadow; then measure your own shadow. The ratio of your age to shadow length will tell you the age of the tree, provided you both grew at the same rate.

Q. LAST YEAR while wading in a stream in the Great Smoggies National Gnat Sanctuary, I encountered a school of poliwogs. are they dangerous? — Mrs. San Spatula, East Mooring, Ala.

A. During their mating season, which is every other day, poliwogs become intolerant and occasionally vicious. For this reason, park service rangers warn against trying to pet them.

treat him to ties with a touch of genius

We have the wide ones, the emphatic ones, the lustrous and subtly patterned ones. To be plain about it, we have the one tie that won't look like "Father's Day". And will look like his personal choice, every day he wears it.

Seek Families To Host Inner-City Children

The 1971 Friendly Town program, which arranges for inner-city children to visit with suburban host families for two weeks, will begin here next month.

According to Mrs. Mary Ann Reiter of Arlington Heights and Mrs. Betty Giner of Rolling Meadows, plans for the program are now complete.

Prospective host families may designate the age, from seven to 13, and the sex of the child or children they wish to accommodate. Sessions will be held from July 11-25, and from July 24 to Aug. 8.

This year the majority of the children hoping for suburban vacations will come through the Faith Community Church on Chicago's west side. At least 60 children are hoping to make the trip.

IF A FAMILY wishes to participate in the program but has a conflict with the scheduled dates, they may make special arrangements for children from Marillac House by calling Mrs. Marion Stanley at 253-8779, or Mrs. Tami Sweet at 392-9329.

Friendly Town children are given a medical exam before their visits. They are also covered by a $2,500 sickness and accident policy during their visits.

To be eligible, a family must provide their own personal liability insurance, included in most homeowner's policies, and be willing to furnish a personal reference.

Host families are responsible for picking up their assigned children at Faith Community Church at noon Sunday of the starting date. Host families may also return the children two weeks later to the church at the time of services or directly to their homes, according to arrangements made with the children's parents.

FAMILIES WITH no children at home and those who have only infants are asked to request two children. Past experience indicates that Friendly Town children who are used to large families and crowded neighborhoods are happier when there are other children near their ages to play with.

Host families will receive the name of their assigned children about two days before the session begins. They are asked to contact the child and his family immediately to introduce themselves and ease any of the child's fears.

Big Fireworks Show For Fourth Of July

The world's largest fireworks show will highlight the American Legion's Fourth of July Pageant at Soldier Field, Chicago.

Beginning at 7:30 p.m., there will be aerial acts, animal acts, dancers, drum corps, Bob Crane of television's "Hogan's Heroes," clowns and a water fight between the North and South Divisions of the Chicago Fire Department.

There will also be a fireworks display under the direction of the world-famous Cartolano and the Independence Day Queen, Lenora Burdin of Berwyn, with her parade-court of eight district queens.

HONOR DAD With A REGAL DINNER

Beef Rib Eye Roast Makes Tasty Tribute

Make Sunday a big day for the local royalty when Dad is king in that castle called home. Your sovereign of heart and hearth deserves the best, and Father's Day is one time to make sure that's what he gets.

If he chooses, let him be luxuriously lazy while an outdoor rotisserie turns out a perfect roast.

With a roast such as rib eye or Delmonico only the simplest foods are needed to complete the "please father" menu. Corn on the cob is one suggestion. Add a festive note by serving green pepper bits in the melted butter or margarine to accompany it.

As a vegetable-salad combo, stack an onion and a cucumber slice on a tomato half and sprinkle with dill weed. Include Dad's favorite dressing. For a more unusual salad, try Sunshine Salad Bowl.

Homemade or home-baked baking powder biscuits split and topped with sugared peach slices and blueberries, all laced with whipped cream makes the perfect ending.

Rib Eye Roast — Rotisserie-Style

When cooking outdoors, let coals burn down until they're covered with a fine gray ash. If a grill thermometer is available use it to maintain a moderate temperature (350 degrees) for the roasting period. Insert rotisserie rod through center of roast. Test for balance by rotating in palm of hand. When the roast is evenly balanced on the rod, it turns with the rod without slipping, stopping or laborious grinding. Insert a meat thermometer in a slight angle so its tip is near the center of the roast but not resting in fat nor on the rotisserie rod. Make certain, too, that the thermometer will clear the cooking unit and drip pan placed under the roast while meat turns.

To roast rib eye (Delmonico) until rare (140 degrees), allow 18 to 20 minutes per pound. For medium (160 degrees), allow 20 to 22 minutes per pound. Since these roasts weigh from four to six pounds, the total roasting time would be approximately 1½ to 1¾ hours for rare and 1½ to 2 hours for medium. For carving ease, these tender roasts should be allowed to "set" approximately 20 minutes after roasting.

Gourmet Sauce for Beef

- 3 tablespoons beef drippings
- and melted butter
- 3½ tablespoons flour
- 2 teaspoons prepared mustard
- 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 can (10½ ounces) consommé
- 1 cup Burgundy wine
- 4 green onions, thinly sliced

Blend hot drippings (supplemented with melted butter as necessary) with flour. Add mustard, Worcestershire sauce and salt and blend well. Add consommé, a small amount at a time, blending well after each addition. Stir in wine. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Cook slowly 10 minutes. Add green onions and continue cooking 5 minutes longer.

Yield: approximately 2 cups.

Sunshine Salad Bowl

- 4 cups torn iceberg lettuce
- 3 cups torn fresh spinach
- 1 can (8½ ounces) diagonal-cut green beans, drained
- 1 can (11 ounces) mandarin orange segments, drained
- 1 small onion, thinly sliced and separated into rings
- Bottled sweet 'n sour salad dressing

Reserve a few orange segments and onion rings for garnish. In large salad bowl, combine all ingredients except salad dressing. Toss lightly. Serve with salad dressing. 8 to 10 servings.

Ripe Olives And Seafood

The ripe olive does wonders for fish and seafood dishes. Whether it is shrimp or the delicate sole, the nut-like flavor of the ripe olive enhances these delicacies from the sea and adds special interest to sauces and casseroles.

Shrimp, one of the most favorite of all seafoods, takes on an exotic flair in this Indian style dish. Curried just enough to appeal and accented with ripe olive, the sauced shrimp is topped with coconut and browned. Fluffy rice, chutney, and thin slices of cucumber and tomato make perfect accompaniments.

The filet of sole is quick to prepare and lends itself to many ways of serving. For a new twist, spread filets with canned ripe olives. Roll up filets and poach. Then put sole rolls in a shrimp custard sauce and bake. A fascinating casserole with a delicate air.

Then for the informal meal, a platter of tender spaghetti served with a ripe olive tuna sauce is a family favorite.

RIPE OLIVE BUFFET SHRIMP

4 strips bacon, finely chopped
1/2 cup chopped pared apple
1/2 cup minced onion
1 tablespoon curry powder
1 cup chicken broth or

1 cup water combined with 2 chicken bouillon cubes.
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup canned, pitted ripe olives
2 teaspoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon half and half
2 tablespoons butter
1 pound raw shelled deveined shrimp
2/3 cup shredded coconut

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Mix together bacon, onion, apple, curry powder, broth, lemon juice, and simmer for 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Drain olives, and cut in halves if desired. Add to sauce. Blend cornstarch with half and half, and stir into sauce. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture has thickened. Set aside. Melt butter in heat proof baking dish. Add shrimp, and bake in preheated oven for 5 to 10 minutes, until pink and cooked through. Spoon ripe olive curry sauce over shrimp and mix lightly. Sprinkle with coconut. Bake about 15 minutes longer, until coconut is lightly toasted. Serve at once from baking dish. Makes about 4 servings.

Note: If frozen shrimp is used, defrost completely and drain well before cooking. If m-shell shrimp is purchased, about 1 pound 5 ounces will give 1 pound after shelling and deveining.

RIPE OLIVE SOLE EN CASSEROLE

5 small filets of sole (about 1 pound)
1 cup canned, pitted ripe olives
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon parsley
3 eggs
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon dill weed
1 cup milk
1/2 cup grated Gruyere cheese
1/2 cup cooked or canned shrimp

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Cut 1/2 cup of pitted ripe olives into 1/4-inch slices. Cut remaining ripe olives into halves. Sprinkle sole with the seasoned salt. Arrange ripe olive slices on sole filets. Sprinkle with parsley. Roll each filet and fasten with a toothpick. Bake in shallow pan for 20 minutes, or until fish is opaque and flakes easily with a fork. Drain well. Place a rolled filet in center of each of six individual baking dishes. Beat eggs until bubbly. Add salt. Heat milk just to boiling. Add salt. Heat milk just to boiling. Stir into eggs with cheese, shrimp and ripe olive halves. Divide mixture among the individual baking dishes. Put dishes in pan containing 1-inch of hot water. Bake for 30 to 35 minutes or until custard is set. Makes 6 servings.

FISHERMAN'S OLIVE SPAGHETTI

1/4 cup olive oil
2 garlic cloves
1 large onion
1 (1-pound 13-ounce) can tomato puree
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
2 (7-ounce) cans tuna
1 cup canned, pitted ripe olives
1 pound spaghetti
Chopped parsley
Grated Parmesan cheese

Heat oil. Peel garlic and finely chop. Peel onion and thinly slice. Add garlic and onion to oil and cook until tender but not browned. Add tomato puree and cook gently for about 30 minutes until sauce thickens. Add salt, pepper, tuna and olives. Cover and heat thoroughly. Meanwhile, cook spaghetti according to package directions. Drain well. Serve with sauce sprinkled with chopped fresh parsley. Pass Parmesan cheese. Makes 6 servings.

An Old Fashioned Summer Outing

Remember the picnics of years ago — with everyone bringing wonderful picnic foods? Let's have that kind of picnic again!

Old fashioned favorites are the foods most enjoyed. Cold roast chicken, a wonderfully flavored potato salad with bountiful relishes... small steaks to broil and buns to toast on a grill set up on the sand.

You'll need a dessert — Aunt Susan's famous for her Peach Dessert Cake; ask her to bring it. It can travel right in the pan it is baked in and is deliciously crisp and fruit-flavored.

HERB FLAVORED PICNIC ROAST CHICKEN

- 1 4-5 pound chicken
  - 1/2 cup butter or margarine
  - 1 cup diced celery with leaves
  - 1/2 cup chopped onion
  - 3 cups soft stale bread crumbs
  - 1 cup chopped cooked ham
  - 1/4 cup chopped parsley
  - 1/4 teaspoon each, thyme, rosemary, sage and tarragon
- Rinse chicken, dry and lightly salt cavity. Melt butter in a large skillet, saute celery and onion until tender and just tinged with brown. Add the bread crumbs, ham, parsley and seasonings.

Toss lightly and add broth made from giblets to moisten. Stuff chicken, lightly truss and place in the center of a large square of extra strength aluminum foil. Brush with melted butter and sprinkle very lightly with additional herbs. Bring long ends of foil up over chicken, overlapping about 2 inches. Close opposite ends by turning up. Place wrapped chicken in a shallow pan and roast in a hot oven (425-450 degrees), allowing 20 minutes to the pound. Open foil 20 minutes before done, baste with juices in foil and continue roasting until lightly browned. Cook chicken and rewrap in same foil for carrying to picnic.

LITTLE STEAKS WITH SAUTEED PEPPERS AND ONIONS

- red and green sweet peppers
- butter or margarine
- clove of garlic
- onion slices
- small tender boneless steaks
- salt and pepper

Line the grill with aluminum foil, build fire and let it burn until briquets are all ignited. Remove seeds from peppers and slice. Melt butter in skillet, add garlic, peppers and onion slices. Saute until just tender. Season grilled steaks with salt and pepper and top with peppers. Serve with toasted buns or French bread

OLD FASHIONED CREAMY Potato salad

- 1 quart sliced cooked potatoes
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 cup finely minced onion
- 1 cup peeled, diced and seeded cucumber
- 1 cup finely diced celery
- 2 tablespoons snipped dill
- Baile's Salad Dressing
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons mustard
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 2 eggs
- 1 1/2 cups rich milk
- 1/4 cup vinegar

Combine first 6 ingredients and toss lightly. Prepare the dressing as follows: combine all ingredients except vinegar in top of double boiler. Cook over boiling water until mixture thickens, stirring frequently. Add the vinegar slowly, strain and cool. Pour this dressing over potatoes, blend with a fork and chill the salad for several hours. For carrying to a picnic, spread a large piece of foil in a basket or plastic dish. Arrange greens on foil, add the chilled salad, garnish with radishes, scallions and cherry tomatoes. Wrap completely in foil.

PEACH DESSERT CAKE

- 2 cups sifted flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- grated rind of 1 lemon
- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup milk
- 9 peach halves, fresh or canned
- Topping
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 1 egg yolk
- 2 tablespoons cream

Sift first 4 ingredients together. Cut in butter with 2 knives or pastry blender. Add 1 teaspoon grated rind. Beat egg and milk together and add, stirring just enough to blend. Turn into a greased 9-inch-square pan and spread out dough evenly. Arrange peaches on top. Rub the remaining lemon rind into the sugar with back of spoon. Add the flour and sprinkle over fruit and cake. Beat the egg yolk with the cream and drizzle over the surface. Cover the pan loosely with aluminum foil and bake in hot oven (400 degrees) for 15 minutes. Remove foil and bake 20 minutes longer or until brown. Serve warm or cold.

Apple Cues

At a summer camp, picnic in the woods or trip to the seashore, plan your own apple sauce sundaes. They are fun for all and good eating, too. Chill cans of apple sauce in the cold stream, your ice tote or whatever. When ready for a treat, open, serve in paper cups or bowls and top each dessert with cookie crumbs, grated coconut, segments of canned Mandarin oranges or crumbled chocolate bars.

Take-Out Puddings

The next time you cook ahead for a patio dinner or evening-in-the-park supper, make this take-along Apple Bread Pudding. Using your favorite bread pudding recipe, substitute canned apple sauce for some of the milk or cream called for. Add an extra dash of cinnamon or nutmeg and bake in custard cups or small metal molds. Chill before packing and be sure to include a small jar of caramel or butterscotch sundae topping to serve with the pudding.

Summer Eve Fruit Cup

A quickie finish for your barbecue supper — and a cool note for a warm evening — is this frosty fruit cup. Use your favorite sherbet, slightly softened and mixed one-to-one with canned apple sauce. Serve in paper cups with a colorful garnish of strawberries, grapes or other fresh fruit.

Gloria Piantek of Chicago wins $3,000.

Illinois Finalist Takes Third Place

Chicken Cooks Win Top Awards

by FRAN HECKART

Mrs. Thomas Piantek of Chicago credits her engineer husband with the whole idea for the Crusty Chicken Wrap-Ups recipe that won her $3,000 and an expense-paid trip to Ocean City, Md.

"He told me to design a chicken recipe he could pick up and eat without getting messy," said Gloria Piantek.

Her answer to the messy chicken problem is cooking skinned chicken drumsticks in a barbecue sauce, then wrapping them in refrigerated crescent dinner rolls. They are sprinkled with sesame seeds and baked.

Gloria was one of 50 state finalists at the National Chicken Cooking Contest held recently in Ocean City, Md. The contest is for non-professional cooks and broiler-fryer chickens and Mazola Corn oil or margarine must be used in the recipes. The annual contest is sponsored by Delmarva Poultry, Inc. in conjunction with National Broiler Council and Best Foods, a division of CPC International.

Food editors from magazines and newspapers judged the 50 chicken recipes on palatability, appearance, cooking method and taste appeal. The recipes were also kitchen tested for workability and the basic idea.

Mrs. Thomas H. Young, the Arkansas finalist, won the $10,000 first prize for her Dipper's Nuggets Chicken recipe.

The nuggets are made by cutting chicken breasts into one-inch pieces. These are dipped into a batter, deep fried and served with sauces.

This recipe came from experiments to find ideas for hors d'oeuvres, said Mrs. Young in an interview. She loves art but is not talented that way, therefore she "paints" with creative cooking, she said.

"Chicken is high in protein, low in calories and the small pieces of breasts are truly valuable nuggets," Mrs. Young explained.

"I never really thought about how I would spend $10,000 because I didn't expect to win," she laughed.

Sunshine Chicken Salad won Mrs. Ronald Powell of South Carolina second place honors and $5,000 cash. Mrs. Powell says she has been cooking since she was 13 years old and her recipe was developed by trial and error.

A Nevada woman, Mrs. John Petrelli, was awarded fourth prize for a recipe named for her husband, Chicken Breasts A La Casa Giovanni.

Nine bonus winners were chosen for outstanding recipes in specific categories. These included finals recipes with best emphasis on low calorie content of chicken, low cost of chicken, use of wings, use of livers, hors d'oeuvres type, outdoor grill, quick and easy preparation, special occasion serving and large group serving.

Dill Sauce

In bowl mix 1/2 cup sour cream, 1/4 cup mayonnaise, 1 teaspoon dried dill weed and 2 tablespoons finely chopped dill pickle. Let stand at room temperature for 1 to 2 hours to blend flavors. Makes about 3/4 cup.

Royalty Sauce

In a saucepan mix 1 cup catsup, 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard, 1 tablespoon brown sugar, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 6 tablespoons Mazola margarine. Mix and cook 4 to 5 minutes stirring constantly. Makes 1 cup.

SUNSHINE CHICKEN SALAD

- 1 broiler-fryer chicken
- 2 cups water
- 1 can (6 ounces) orange juice concentrate
- 1/2 cup Mazola corn oil
- 1/4 cup vinegar
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon Tabasco sauce
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 1/2 cup ripe olives, sliced
- 1 medium avocado, diced
- 1/4 cup slivered almonds

Place chicken in large saucepan or kettle with water. Cover, cook until tender. Remove; cool. Meanwhile put orange juice concentrate, corn oil, vinegar, sugar, dry mustard, salt and Tabasco sauce in blender container and blend on high speed 5 seconds or until smooth. Cover and refrigerate. Remove chicken from bones and dice. Place diced chicken, celery, olives, avocado and almonds in salad bowl. Coat lightly with about 1/4 cup dressing. (Store remainder in refrigerator.) Cover and chill salad at least 30 minutes before serving. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

DIPPERS NUGGETS CHICKEN

- 6 whole broiler-fryer breasts, skinned, boned and cut into 1x1 1/2-inch nuggets (6 nuggets each half of 12 to 14-ounce breast)
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1 cup water
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 3 tablespoons sesame seed
- 1 cup flour
- 1 to 1 1/2 pints Mazola corn oil.

Mix eggs, water, salt, sesame seed and flour into a batter. Heat corn oil, over medium heat in a heavy sturdy, flat-bottomed 3-quart saucepan or deep fryer, filling utensil no more than 1/3 full. Heat over medium heat to 375 degrees. Dip nuggets into batter; drain off excess batter. Add nuggets in a single layer, about 8 or 9 at a time. Fry about 3 to 5 minutes until golden brown. Drain on paper towels. Serve with following sauces. Makes 12 servings.

Nippy Pineapple Sauce

In saucepan mix 1 jar (12 ounces) pineapple preserves, 1/4 cup prepared mustard and 1/4 cup prepared horseradish. Heat. Makes 1 1/2 cups.

CRUSTY CHICKEN WRAP-UPS

- 16 broiler-fryer chicken drumsticks, skinned.
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 cup Mazola margarine
- 1 cup prepared barbecue sauce with onions
- 2 packages (8 ounces each) refrigerated crescent dinner rolls
- 1 egg beaten
- 4 teaspoons Italian seasoning
- 4 teaspoons grated Parmesan cheese

Blend 6 tablespoons margarine, Parmesan cheese, basil, garlic powder, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, parsley flakes and red peppers with fork. Slit a pocket in each breast and cook 10 to 15 minutes or until done. Fasten with round wooden food picks. Heat remaining 2 tablespoons margarine in large skillet. Add chicken breasts and cook 10 to 15 minutes or until meat turns white. Add salt, remaining 1/8 teaspoon pepper and tomato sauce. Cover and simmer over low heat about 30 minutes or until tender. Top each breast half with a slice of Mozzarella cheese, cover and cook just until cheese melts. Sprinkle with additional basil. Serve with rice or noodles. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Creamy Coolers And A Dainty Dessert

On warm days, nothing hits the spot like a tall cool drink made with milk. Just for fun, make it Milk a la Mode, a delightful refresher being featured during the summer months. Just stir up milk, ice cream, and your favorite flavoring, anything from syrup or jam to fresh fruit or fruit juice. There are infinite variations on this frosty theme, all putting milk in the family diet.

Perhaps you'd like a Caramel Float made with icy-cold milk, your own caramel sauce, and a scoop of vanilla ice cream. Or make Banana Orange Float, tangy with orange sherbet. For a brand-new blend, stir up Raspberry-Lemon Float sparked with lemon sherbet. Another refreshing combination is Strawberry Pineapple, made with luscious fresh or frozen berries and pineapple sherbet. All these summer coolers are easy to do in your mixer or blender.

Here's a great idea for dessert to go with those Milk a la Mode creations: It's called Dessert Pizza. Looks just like the Italian kind, but instead of tomato sauce it's topped with fruit. Borrowing a recipe from Naples by way of American pizzerias, this pizza starts with a cookie-like crust and ends with a glorious mixture of fruit, nuts and coconut. It's easy to serve because you can bake the crust ahead of time, then bring it out when friends drop in.

The filling can be assembled in a jiffy. Just spread on canned crushed pineapple, then sprinkle on coconut, chopped pecans and a generous amount of fresh sliced strawberries. Give it a glamorous glaze with melted strawberry jelly.

The same simple, basic recipe can be varied with different seasonal fruits.

Make a peachy pizza with fresh peach slices, pineapple, and sweetened dairy sour cream. Or turn out a tempting Banana Nut Topping with a marshmallow creme, peanut butter, sliced banana and chocolate.

1/2 cup (1 1/2 sticks) butter
2/3 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 1/2 cups sifted regular all-purpose flour
1/2 cup milk

Filling:

1 can (1 lb. 4 1/2 ounces) crushed pineapple, drained
2/3 cup flaked coconut
2/3 cup chopped pecans
1 1/2 cups sliced strawberries
1 cup strawberry jelly, melted

To prepare Crust: In a mixing bowl cream together butter, sugar and salt; gradually add flour. Gradually mix in milk. Turn dough onto a buttered 12-in. diameter pizza pan and pat dough out to cover pan. Crimp edges. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven 15-20 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool on wire rack.

To prepare Filling: Over crust spread pineapple, sprinkle coconut, pecans and then arrange strawberries. Drizzle melted jelly over pizza. Cut into wedges to serve.

Filling Variations:

Peach: Into 1 cup dairy cream gently stir 2 tablespoons sugar. Spread sour cream over cooled crust. Then 1 can (8 1/2 to 9 ounce) crushed pineapple, drained. Top with 2 cups sliced slightly sweetened fresh peaches.

Banana Nut: In a mixing bowl blend 1/2 cup marshmallow creme, 1/4 cup crunchy peanut butter and 2 tablespoons half and half or light cream. Spread over cooled crust. Just before serving, top with 3 bananas, thinly sliced. Cut into wedges. Place a scoop of vanilla ice cream atop each serving. Drizzle chocolate sauce or chocolate mocha sauce (1 teaspoon instant coffee powder stirred into 1/4 cup chocolate sauce) over ice cream. Serve immediately.

Breakfast Tips

These novel and nourishing treats will convince family to eat breakfast.

Basic 4 Breakfast

For a breakfast treat combining foods from the basic four food groups, pile split hot dog buns with slices of cooked smoked pork shoulder and Cheddar cheese. Broil until the pork is hot, the cheese is bubbly and the buns are slightly toasted. Serve a tomato juice starter.

Sun-Up Sandwich

Brighten up a summer breakfast with a meaty sandwich. Pile slices of ham, chipped beef or browned pork sausage links between waffles hot from griddle or toaster. Halve diagonally, sandwich style, and serve plain, garnish with orange wedges or top with hot syrup or jam.

Beef Up Eggs

Brown leftover uncooked ground beef to mix with scrambled eggs or to fill an omelet. The beef may be seasoned with curry, oregano or chili powder for these egg dishes.

Legendary Bride's Cake

Back when civilization was sometimes less than civilized in decorum, the Bride's Cake was cause for a somewhat disheveling custom. The cake, made of salted meal, baked by the vestal virgins, and eaten by the bride and groom as part of the ancient Roman marriage rite, was broken over the bride's head. That was to symbolize plenty. The cake pieces were then carried, before the bride, to her new home where they were shared with relatives and friends.

Later on, in olden England, wedding guests were so avid for a piece of the cake — to throw at the bride's head — that something had to be done for plentifulness. So quantities of little hard wafers were prepared and served from large baskets for guests to throw and for distributing among the village poor. With time and the arrival of sugar and spice at affordable costs, the wafers were replaced with small rich buns. These cakes were piled up on the marriage board and over this mound of sweetness the bride and groom kissed to symbolize prosperity and long life.

It took a Frenchman, cooking in London, to come up with a better idea: one that created the first legendary English wedding cake. He made a sugar icing to bind the stack of spiced buns together. Not only did this cake look and taste better, but the sugar frosting kept the bun bits fresh and soft. For it too was broken over the bride's head, but with this kind the little buns fell apart easily, to provide scrambling wedding guests with plenty of Bride's Cake.

English Lamb Chops

The English certainly know how to select and prepare lamb. Broiled chops rate high among their favorite entrees featuring this meat of distinct yet delicate flavor.

Lamb is such a tender meat that shoulder chops can be broiled. An economical choice for the cost-conscious shopper, the chops broil, tender and juicy, in less than 15 minutes.

To make them a real specialty, top the chops with an apricot, curry and garlic baste for last two minutes.

BROILED LAMB CHOPS

- 4 lamb shoulder chops cut 1 inch thick
- Salt
- Pepper
- ¼ cup apricot nectar
- ½ teaspoon curry powder
- ¼ teaspoon garlic

Set regulator for broiling. Place chops on broiler rack and insert broiler pan and rack so that top of chops is 2 inches from heat. Broil until browned, about 6 to 8 minutes. Turn and broil second side about 3 minutes. Season with salt and pepper. Combine apricot nectar, curry powder and garlic salt. Pour over chops using approximately 3 tablespoons per chop. Continue broiling about 2 minutes or until done. 4 servings.

Colorful Medley

Food can be just as colorful and gay on your table as flowers, and is certainly more fun to eat when attractively served. This vegetable dish meets all the requirements for good food, and it's so easy to prepare. The base is tasty cauliflower that comes frozen in its own zesty cheese sauce. Just add some frozen sautéed zucchini, tomato wedges and seasonings for a dish that's fit for a king.

CAULIFLOWER SCRAMBLE

- 2 packages cauliflower frozen in cheese sauce
- 1 package frozen zucchini squash
- ¼ cup frozen chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon thyme, crushed
- 2 tomatoes, cut into wedges

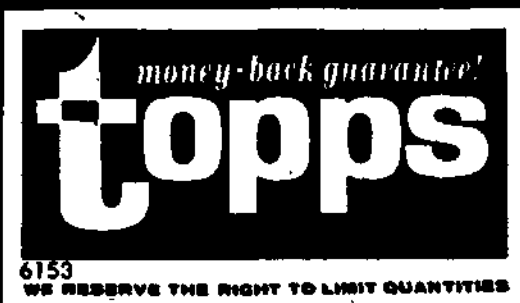

Cook cauliflower and zucchini according to package directions. Sauté onion in butter until tender. Add cauliflower, zucchini and remaining ingredients. Heat through. Yield: 6 servings.

Flank Steak Fits Budget

Less expensive cuts of meat are a blessing to budget-conscious homemakers. A major part of food dollar is spent on protein sources such as meat, and the less expensive cuts are just as good a source of protein as the more expensive ones.

Less expensive cuts of meat are usually less tender and are cooked with moist heat. A pot roast is an example of a delicious main dish prepared from a less tender cut of meat. Stuffed flank steak with buttermilk gravy is another main dish that features a less tender cut of meat. As you know, the long, slow cooking makes the final product juicy, tender and full of flavor. The delicately seasoned bread stuffing adds to the flavor as does the buttermilk gravy served over the meat.

Good sources of protein can be found at all price levels. To help keep your food budget in line, discover the many main dishes that are prepared with less tender cuts of meat.

STUFFED FLANK STEAK WITH BUTTERMILK GRAVY

- 3 cups bread cubes
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1/4 cup chopped parsley
- 1/2 cup butter
- 1 teaspoon seasoned salt
- 1 flank steak, 2 to 2 1/2 pounds
- 1/2 cup water
- 2 beef bouillon cubes
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 cups buttermilk

Combine bread cubes, onion, parsley, 1/4 cup melted butter and 1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt. Mix well. Sprinkle remaining 1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt on flank steak. Spread bread mixture on flank steak; roll up beginning at narrow end; tie.

Melt remaining 1/4 cup butter in large frypan. Brown flank steak on all sides, turning as needed. Add water and bouillon cubes; cover and cook slowly until meat is tender, about 1 1/2 to 2 hours.

Remove meat from pan and keep warm. Blend flour and salt into pan drippings. Add buttermilk; cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Slice meat and serve with gravy. Yield: 4 to 5 servings.

Low Cal Chicken

It's a hurray for Dad Sunday — time to show him just how much he's loved and appreciated by his family. Cook Dad a delicious chicken dinner, heap the table with gifts and good wishes and he's bound to get the message.

Do you know when the custom of celebrating Father's Day began? It was back in 1910. A woman named Mrs. John B. Dodd, who lived in Spokane, Wash., decided that a day should be set aside to honor fathers. Mrs. Dodd had good reason for this—her own father, William Smart, a Civil War veteran, had raised his six motherless children by himself, which led Mrs. Dodd to feel that the role of the father should be officially recognized. But it wasn't until 1954 that Father's Day became a national holiday. In that year, President Calvin Coolidge recommended the national observance of the third Sunday in June as Father's Day.

For Father's Day dinner, what more natural choice than a delightful chicken dish? Here's a brand new one, Chicken Bon Appetit, that Dad will enjoy. It's chicken sauteed in a minimum of margarine and seasoned with fresh lemon juice and rind. It's a delicious dish that is low in calories yet so festive.

With the chicken, serve marinated vegetables as a pleasant change of pace from tossed salad. Combine tomato wedges, canned green beans and chopped onion; marinate in low calorie dressing. For dessert, serve fresh fruit or a simple sherbert. That's cooking to keep father fit as well as fine!

CHICKEN BON APPETIT

- 1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in serving pieces
- 1 teaspoon Ac-cent
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons margarine
- 1 teaspoon dried leaf tarragon
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 1 lemon, thinly sliced.

Sprinkle chicken with Ac-cent and salt. Heat margarine in skillet; add chicken and brown on both sides. Sprinkle with tarragon, lemon rind and juice. Cover and cook over low heat 30 minutes, until tender. Garnish with sliced lemon. Yield: 4 servings.

Merge Towns As Woodfield

To the residents of Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg:

As I understand it, Hoffman Estates originated to support the builder Hoffman-Rosner, in development of the local area. Schaumburg was formed by the group of local farmers opposed to such a development. Times have changed and both Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates are spawning individual home, townhouse and apartment developments at a rate which usually leads the NW suburban area. The original reasons for separation are long forgotten.

Meanwhile, Hoffman and Schaumburg exist entangled inside and outside of Schaumburg Township. Duplication of services is prevalent which restricts an overall growth plan. Water and sewer service conflicts lead to court actions. One area ignores the other in development plans.

We stand at the door of opportunity. Woodfield shopping center is nearing completion. History shows us that Delaware Township in New Jersey was a relatively unknown community until it took on the name of Cherry Hill; the namesake being one of the first large integrated shopping centers. Oakbrook was a place that you could watch polo ponies; now it's one of the more desirable addresses in Chicagoland.

What I'm suggesting is partly old — that Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg merge, and partly new — that the merged area take on the name Woodfield.

Woodfield — a growing town of close to 50,000 people, thinking ahead to such community needs as a Woodfield Hospital and a Woodfield YMCA (Twinbrook).

True, the politicians would oppose this move for fear of losing their jobs or prestige, but experience has shown, alas, that overhead goes up faster than size, so they have nothing to worry about. I'd even vote for Atcher for one term as Mayor of Woodfield if he would push to accomplish this. Think about it.

M. G. Kostner
Hoffman Estates

Lives Up To Promise

As a veteran of both World War II and the Korean War, I had opportunities to see in person the good works of The Salvation Army in behalf of servicemen overseas.

There was never any favoritism in the offering of their services nor did I ever see the Army workers charge for what they gave away. That is more than I can say for some of the other so-called charitable organizations overseas. During World War II, for example, the Army workers were always where they were needed, with the fighting men in the midst of action, not safely behind lines in some bivouac area.

I was glad to see your editorial (June 10) asking people to support The Salvation Army for one more year to contribute to Doughnut Day since I think this is the one organization that lives up to its promise of service, at home or abroad.

Elmer Lansing

Grateful For Defeat

We are a childless couple facing retirement. We have just received a tax bill of $800 — $600 for schools alone.

In spite of Miss Wandalyne Rice's bleeding heart articles, I want to thank the people who defeated the referendum. One more and we'll be taxed out of the village.

Mrs. A. K.

'Lessons Learned'

'People DO Care'

My entire family would like to express our appreciation for the concern your paper and your writer, Tammy Bledsoe, showed in trying to procure transportation to the southwest suburb of Summit for me. The distance and direction seem to be the reason no one responded; but the enthusiasm and taste with which the plea was written shows me that although no one can help, people do care.

Be Seated

Questions For Park Board

1. Why doesn't our Rolling Meadows park board put residents first in their considerations?

2. Why, if you voice your opinion, do they ridicule you?

3. Why is it, when they do something wrong, they make it appear that the people are wrong?

4. Why do they think we don't or won't support our ice rink? They say statistics show we don't. Their statistics printed in the paper May 6 were very misleading and slanted to appear that most moneys came from non-residents. If that's the kind of statistics they use, who can believe the rest, if any?

5. Why do they use the phrase "we're not pressured into it?" A few years ago the same thing was said about Waverly Park's park.

6. Why did they lie about the separate ice rink pass?

7. Why did they hire a man who doesn't want our kids to use the rink for pleasure?

8. Why did they hire a man who doesn't want to publicize the $1.00 lessons? (Because he didn't want the rink overrun with resident kids.)

9. Why the high cost of the Park District Sponsored ice carnival? The story in the paper about the ice carnival stands being filled was another lie.

10. Why should the residents give up the use of their rink so Rolling Meadows can have an Olympic champion?

11. Why is the park board trying to squeeze us out of our rink with the high cost?

12. Why do they belittle our support with our tax money?

13. Why are they selling non-resident pool passes to our overcrowded pool?

They say the added facilities at the Sports Complex will relieve our overcrowded pool, but the high cost and very limited time residents are allowed in the Sports Complex will not relieve overcrowding in the pool.

14. Why is our sports complex turning into a country club for a selected group of non-residents?

15. Why hire a man who wants to raise the pass price to the rink two or three times higher?

16. Why wasn't the price for residents reduced for the figure skating and hockey schools? There again they didn't want resident kids overrunning the place.

17. Is it true that if the price of the passes is prohibitive, private financial arrangements can be made?

18. Why does the park board rule with no thought to the tax payers?

Teen 'Revelers' Rapped

These questions are addressed exclusively to the parents of the current high school graduating class:

1. Where were your teenagers on the night of Tuesday, June 8, 1971, between the hours of midnight and 3 a.m.?

2. Were your teenagers at home where they belonged on a weeknight or were they at the "graduation" party on Forest Drive west of Lee St. in the Boulder Point subdivision?

3. Of the 70 kids at the party, did your kids decide that there wasn't enough room in the house for all those people?

4. Did your kids then go out in the street making noise — enough noise to wake babies — enough noise whereby the neighbors were forced to call the police twice?

5. Were your kids among those who were sitting in the parked cars drinking beer and disposing of the empties on neighboring lawns?

6. Were your kids the ones who twisted and bent those mailboxes all the way down to streetlevel?

7. Do your kids know that these acts of vandalism were reported not only to the police, but that a report is now on file with the postal inspector's office?

8. Would you — assuming that you are a responsible parent — have that many kids at your house at one time; at that hour; on a weeknight?

9. Do you find yourself asking your kids the first question? If you do, you'd better ask yourself a question. Who's the boss in your house? YOU? Or are you one of those parents who are so afraid of your kids that you actually let them run your life?

Think about it.

Display Of Parental Egos

If I had not seen with my own eyes at least 1,500 parents and other assorted relatives unconcernedly ruin their children's high school graduation, I would not have imagined it to be possible.

Through the years, I have listened while mothers of these children told me about this same unconcerned display of egotism on the part of their parents; and felt they exaggerated. But, oh my friends, I have seen it in action — and I am ashamed!

Particularly, this letter is addressed to all of you who attended the Forest View High School graduation ceremonies on June 8 and who could not, for whatever reason, remain seated and quiet until the program was completed. Any one of you who left his seat or who carried on a private conversation with his neighbor throughout the evening can know that I am speaking to you, personally.

Forest View High School held their commencement exercises outdoors for the first time this year; and it was a miserable night, with a cold wind sweeping the stadium. The program was brief and to the point — in fact, the two student speakers rivaled any adult I have ever heard in similar circumstances. The music was well (and courageously) done. The graduates conducted themselves with the dignity the occasion demands.

The audience was composed (for the most part, if their behavior is any criterion) of people who were devoted to themselves and their own wellbeing. There was a constant hum, with occasional loud, inappropriate laughter, of private conversations, no matter who or what was holding sway on the podium. There was a great reluctance to arise during the singing of the alma mater, many people not doing so because it was too cold.

By the time the diplomas were to be awarded, everyone was thoroughly chilled. Many had already left, presumably for this reason, during the program. As the awards commenced, there was a great stampede across the track toward the fence behind which sat the Class of 1971. Everyone was there for one reason; to watch their own particular graduate perform (with cries of instruction to mercifully taxed, and the proceeds of that taxation dispensed to the have-nots until almost everyone is a have-not.

The belief that every woman who is able-bodied should be employed, while her children are raised by "professionals."

The belief that the government should have the right to dictate how many children a woman is permitted to have, regardless of her personal wishes.

The belief that small children who seem to be unable to pay proper attention in school should be fed various sorts of pills to increase their "group participation and attention span."

The belief that the foregoing practice will not lead to dependence on drugs later in life.

Yes, Mr. Crippen, these are some of the symptoms of the malady that is known as liberalism. I happen to know for a fact that Edward V. Hanrahan does not subscribe to a single one of them. This is probably because he has seen through the scheme and realizes what its perpetrators are up to. When will you?

Graham Crusade Is Defended

Miss Mary Reifschneider's very late and out-of-date report on the first service of the Billy Graham Evangelistic Crusade (Herald, June 10) can hardly be called good reporting. It abounds with innuendo and the reporter obviously uses words which have not been clearly defined in her own mind.

First, the odds against having a perfectly racially balanced meeting of 21,000 or 38,000 people of any kind or any where are tremendous. You might be able to assemble 10,500 beer cans and 10,500 coke bottles in one place, but people are something else. This is especially true in a free society, where religious is disestablished and people attend religious meetings because they choose rather than because of coercion. (I get the feeling, however, that Miss Reifschneider attended because she was assigned the job, not to celebrate with joy the New Life in Jesus Christ.) I would be happy to hear of any meetings for any purpose, of comparable size, that she has attended in Chicago that did not have either more white or more blacks in attendance. Another Baptist preacher in Chicago holds a large meeting every Saturday. It is an effort to express the love of God too. Operation Breadbasket is not racially balanced either. But that doesn't prove anything nor is it criticized for that.

That is my second point. If the crowd had been racially balanced that would not have proved that Graham's message, "God loves you," was "overwhelming the attendees." Neither does the absence of racial balance or "mostly middle aged" people prove that the message is not being heard. (The truth is that over 75% of the people each night are under 25 years of age.) You do not prove the presence or absence of God's love by the number of racial strains.

Your reporter should learn the meaning of "Fundamentalist." She says that Fundamentalist churches buy their faithful into the services each night. Many of the Methodist, Lutheran, Baptist, Presbyterian, Episcopalian, etc. churches who have taken up loads into the Crusade will be surprised to discover that they are Fundamentalists. Further, many of those who she describes in the article on the same page as participants in a Graham Counter-Crusade, will certainly be shocked to learn that their people have also been attending the Graham meetings.

Your paper has a decidedly anti-evangelical viewpoint. That is your privilege. But it should be presented in editorials and opinion articles and not in news stories.

Townships Can Be Saved

The Herald's editorial "Voter Approval of Townships" (June 8) was a bit puzzling to me. True, township government, as it presently is structured, is archaic and creaky — but why not call for re-organization and strengthening of township governments rather than to abolish them? The Herald demands that the voters at the local level have as much power as possible. What would generate more local power than a modern, viable township government?

Could you imagine, for instance, the kind of service that the township resident would get in the middle of a severe snowstorm, and the Cook County Highway Dept. were in charge of clearing all county roads plus the unincorporated township roads? What if a citizen had a question about his tax bill, and rather than confront the local township Assessor, had to deal with the county building? Imagine the service he'd get!

It seems that it would be better in the long run to strengthen township government, streamline it, and keep power at the local level where it is most effective. With township government an irate citizen can corner his Assessor, Highway Commissioner, Supervisor, etc., and get the answer he wants — with no runarounds or squirming. The offices themselves are not "Horse and Buggy," but the regulations on them are.

Some township offices could possibly be revised, such as — re-instating the local Collector, so that taxes can be distributed directly to the local taxing bodies; giving townships a voice in zoning by giving the township auditors power to serve as a township zoning board; and by giving the Highway Commissioner power to provide expanded police protection in the unincorporated areas.

Local township government is a must if we hope to avoid highly centralized government, and the cost is, and will be, less than if these duties were delegated to the county. To strengthen and retain township government would be a very wise move.

Ecologists Not Odd

I read your article in the sports section on June 7 titled "Ecology Freaks Moving in on Bats." Well, I would like to know what is an ecology freak, anyway? Since when do we call people freaks who care about our environment? The dictionary says freak means something odd or whimsical.

Can you call a person odd because he is more interested in the beauty of our land than he is hearing the crack of the bat?

The Hillerich and Bradsby timber yard in Louisville is well stocked, but is the forest that the company harvests just as well stocked also? Even H & B vice president, Jack McCarthy, does not seem to know when he stated calmly, "I'm not sure of the number of trees it takes to produce our six million bats each year..." Well, if you're not sure you can't care very much. Tell Lee Mueller that from now on he should watch who he calls an ecology freak. Environment has become the concern of many and beautiful trees are more important to some than what baseball would be without broken bat hits. Don't get me completely wrong. I've always been a sports fan, but I hate to see a sport become bigger and more important than people.

Let's save something of these god-forsaken lands.

Unwanton Vandalism

A group of young boys went on a destructive window breaking rampage the night of June 8, hurling brick size rocks at Federal Pacific Electric Co. windows. They broke a minimum of 50 at an estimated cost of $500 to replace. The boys were apprehended by efficient Des Plaines Police action and restitution has been promised by their parents.

Such unwanton destruction of private property certainly cannot be tolerated in our area, and publicity may tend to discourage other juveniles from indulging in this destructive activity.

Says Board 'Harassing' Builder

The Schaumburg Village Board was accused of harassing Mor-Well Builders Tuesday night when it delayed action on a zoning request for a planned unit development because of complaints from residents of another Mor-Well project, Timbercrest subdivision.

The request for action on the 50-acre parcel near Roselle and Schaumburg roads will come before the board again July 20.

George Shapiro, representative for Mor-Well, said the village has harassed his firm each time it requests action, because of alleged code violations in the first units of Timbercrest.

"We came in and asked this board to approve a plan that it had already approved, and we even got a lot of static on it," said Shapiro.

He claimed his firm feels there are no violations at Timbercrest, and has invited the village to take them to court to decide the issue. Whether or not the village does take court action, said Shapiro, the Timbercrest dispute should not be considered in the request for zoning in the new development, pending since 1966.

VILLAGE ATTY. Jack Siegel announced a complaint is being prepared against Mor-Well, with 65 counts of alleged violations, and 65 homeowners are prepared to appear against Mor-Well in court. The action will be taken in Circuit Court in Schaumburg, said Siegel, to avoid delays from heavy dockets in courts convened in Chicago.

Tuesday night's discussion involved a reshuffle of the charges that Timbercrest homes were built with sub-standard roofs, of plywood panels narrower than they should have been and without required interior glue. Mor-Well claims the 3/8-inch plywood in the roofs conformed to village codes as they were when the homes were built, and Shapiro said any roofs lacking the glue have been repaired or replaced. The village claims they have not all been repaired.

Shapiro said Mor-Well needs quick action on its request, because of two pending suits against the village. He said his firm has offered to withdraw the suits as soon as the village grants approval to the new project, and has been obtaining continuances for more than a year in hopes the village would act.

The presiding judge in the suits will not grant any more continuances, said Shapiro, so he would like to clear up the zoning problem as quickly as possible. But the village has thus far denied approval of the new development, partially because of the alleged Timbercrest violations.

THE SUITS also are related to the Timbercrest development, and contest the village's right to charge tap on fees for sewer and water service and the price the village paid when it purchased sewer systems constructed in the development by Mor-Well.

The board pointed out it had set specific requirements for approval of the new plan better than a year ago, when Mor-Well last appeared on the issue. One of these was elimination of violations at Timbercrest, which the village claims has not been satisfied.

ONE YOUNGSTER shows an independent approach to his fellow classmates as they all participate in the Hanover Park Park District's first beginners swimming lessons at the newly constructed Emil Rinne Community

Swimming Pool. Enrollment was so large, registrations will be accepted for two additional sessions, on July 6, and Aug. 2.

Rinne Pool Swim Classes Begin

by JERRY THOMAS

Swimming classes in the newly constructed Emil Rinne Community Pool in Hanover Park have started.

With 185 students enrolled in classes, the pool is handling a capacity load of children for instruction, said Larry Fendler. The manager noted that twice that number of youngsters were turned away during registration.

Fendler explained that registration was far beyond the figure estimated and the Hanover Park Park District did schedule nine beginners classes instead of the five originally scheduled.

In addition to this, the district will accept registrations for a second session of lessons July 6 and a third session of instruction on Aug. 2.

Fendler points out that the high enrollment of beginning students is normal since the community has not had a pool. Of the 185 who have enrolled 135 are beginners. According to the standards of the water safety department 15 students are assigned to each beginning class.

Because enrollment was so overwhelming in the beginner's category, advanced classes were dropped for this first session, Fendler noted. Advanced and junior and senior life saving classes will be scheduled in the next two sessions.

FENDLER, A FIFTH grade teacher at Carpentersville Oak Ridge Elementary School, said his staff at the pool is "fantastic." They are teaching more classes than usually scheduled and are non-complaining about extra work while the pool settles into an operational procedure in its first opening week, he said.

The pool is open and operating from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. with lessons scheduled Monday through Friday. In addition to the manager there are six life guards, and three water safety instructors (WSI). Teacher aides beef up the teaching staff so each class of students has three aides in addition to the WSI instructor during the 50 minute sessions.

Fendler said it takes at least four adults to encourage and teach a group of 15 youngsters in a beginning class.

"One nine-year-old spent the first half of his first lesson in the locker room and slowly we coaxed him to the pool's edge by the end of the lesson," said Fendler.

"Today he's in the water," he added.

"We were unhappy to send away so many of the waiting parents during the last registration but we are also responsible to the parents whose children are enrolled and the students themselves," stated Fendler adding "We can only handle so many safely."

Fendler added, "Hopefully the next two registrations and schedules will accept the remainder of students, but what we really need is another pool."

"In the meantime, this pool is really being used and from the reaction of parents and children this first week of lessons the community was certainly ready for it," Fendler said.

Flexible Timetable

Present Plan For Park Projects

by PAT GERLACH

An indoor swim facility, another outdoor pool, tennis courts, nature areas and other needed recreational areas and buildings were contained in a recommended plan of action and suggested capital expenditure program delivered to Hoffman Estates park commissioners Tuesday.

Both programs are included in the preliminary master plan for future park development now in preparation by McFadden & Everly, Ltd., a park planning and developmental consulting firm engaged by the district.

Summarizing a suggested priority schedule, the plan being put together by Alan Caskey, a former member of the consulting staff who has since left the company but will remain with the Hoffman Estates project until its completion, contains immediate, intermediate and long-range stages which may be easily adjusted.

Noting that "circumstances may lead to marked changes in the schedule," Caskey said the suggested timetable should be viewed as "a flexible one, subject to change based on annual review" by the park board and its professional staff.

ALTHOUGH THESE portions of the preliminary plan provide a basis for beginning discussion, Caskey recommends that immediate goals to be obtained in 1971 and 72 call for scheduling of a public referendum to obtain funds for acquisition of needed land, development of existing parks, construction of needed facilities and retirement of the mortgage on the community pool.

Also in the immediate stage would be construction of a pool in Winston Knolls along with tennis courts and building renovation in that north portion of the park district.

Goals listed in the immediate phase of the plan which have already been accomplished include assumption of ownership of the existing pool along with its operational responsibility plus procurement of a joint facility use agreement with High School Dist. 211 for their newest building planned for construction on Higgins Road.

It calls for park development of the high school site through construction of an indoor swimming pool, three tennis courts, a baseball field, four softball/baseball fields, a football field and an ice skating/hockey area.

Existing neighborhood parks (Pinger, Highland, Sicher, High Point, Sloan, The Field and Cottonwood) would be further developed in the suggested first phase.

The plan suggests that each neighborhood park contain a tot lot, playground, open play areas, small baseball backstop, shelter area and appropriate attractive landscaping.

THE IMMEDIATE stage also calls for conversion and development of "no-mow" nature areas at North and South Twin Lake parks, a site in Winston Knolls called Valley Park, plus land surrounding a cemetery in the west section of the village.

It calls for improvement of the Lions Pool Park by upgrading parking areas, landscaping, inclusion of a tot lot and pool deck expansion.

Park-school sites at Blackhawk, Twinbrook Hoffman, Fairview, MacArthur, Hillcrest and Armstrong schools plus a junior high school site in the Highlands area and Winston Knolls park-school site three should be developed, the plan indicates.

Caskey recommends that each park-school site contain at a minimum, a play apparatus area, hard court surface area, outdoor basketball courts, baseball/football, soccer fields, an open game area plus sanitary facilities and landscaping.

It suggests, which the district has done, that a Northern Illinois Gas Co. right-of-way adjacent to the Northwest Tollway be leased for development.

Finally, phase one of the plan would recommend submitting an application to the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation (BOR) for 50 per cent of the funds required to purchase adjacent land next to Vogelei Park, a site north of Conant High School in Parcel B and a shopping center tot-lot area in Parcel A.

THE INITIAL development, according to the suggested plan, would total $2,033,000, with $1,733,000 to come from the sale of general obligation bonds if the voters agree. This would be supplemented with $300,000 from BOR.

In the intermediate portion of the plan (1973 and 74) development of group pic-

Cheerleader Tryouts Slated At Vogelei

At 1 p.m. today cheerleader tryouts for football teams sponsored by the Hoffman Estates Athletic Association will be held at Vogelei Park.

Girls may try out for the Raiderettes, Commandettes or Widgets cheering squads. Raiderettes cannot be 14 before Sept. 1; and Commandettes and Widgets cannot be 13 before Dec. 1.

Girls will be selected on the basis of skill, maneuvers and willingness to accept the responsibility of the position.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew questioned the judgment of the New York Times and its top editors in acting in a "secretive and clandestine fashion" to publish classified material. He would not comment on the legal aspects of the injunction halting the Times from publishing further articles in the series, but he said that it was apparent to anyone who had ever worked in the Foreign Service "that no government can conduct its diplomacy on the pages of a newspaper or in the glare of public scrutiny."

Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, publisher of the New York Times, said the Nixon administration might try to benefit from disclosures in his newspaper about escalation of the Vietnam War by previous Democratic administrations. The publisher said the series, based on a top secret Pentagon study which came into the hands of the Times from an unidentified source, "does not have any deleterious effect on national security" and is, in essence, "past history."

A "loyal-to-Boyle" strike by the nation's soft coal miners gathered momentum for the third consecutive day despite a warning the walkout had created a national emergency. The strike was a protest over removal of United Mine Workers President W. A. "Tony" Boyle as a trustee of the union's welfare and retirement fund.

An underground nuclear test was detonated at Yucca Flat on the desert north of here and there was no radiation leakage, the Atomic Energy Commission reported.

The State

Illinois Speaker of the House W. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, directed the House Ethics Committee to undertake an "immediate and thorough" investigation of allegations of political involvement with horse racing interests.

The Illinois Bar Association said it is opposed to the Illinois plan for "No fault" automobile accident injury reparations supported by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie.

Illinois Senate Republican Leader W. Russell Arrington, R-Evanston, recovering from a stroke suffered in January, announced he will not resume his Senate duties until next session, thus ending speculation he might return sooner.

The War

The controversial McGovern-Hatfield amendment that would have established a Dec. 31 deadline for withdrawal of American forces from Vietnam was defeated 55 to 42. A vote on similar legislation last year was defeated 55 to 39.

The World

Israel was reported to be considering calling for a special session of the U.N. Security Council to condemn the Arab guerrilla bazaar attack on an Israeli-chartered oil tanker in international waters.

The Weather

Selected temperatures from around the nation:

Independence Day Panel Given $904

A grant of money and manpower was made this week by Hoffman Estates officials for the Independence Day celebration to be held July 5 at the village hall complex on Illinois Boulevard.

The board granted the Independence Day Committee $904 plus the services of village employees and equipment for the event which annually draws 30,000 participants.

Phil Moore, IDC spokesman, said the group still needs volunteers. About 15 persons attended a recent IDC meeting after a call for volunteers through newspapers and the village's news letter, but the persons who came never followed through after that meeting, he added.

Persons interested in working with the group should call John Smith at 394-6895. In other village business Trustee Virginia Hayter reported on additions to be made to the bid specifications for the new garbage contract. Bid opening was postponed from June 17, to June 24.

THE BOARD ALSO passed its budget for the 1971-72 fiscal year. Trustee William Cowin, finance committee chairman, told about the conference on federal revenue sharing he attended at the Arlington Park Towers last week.

After the conference, called by Governor Ogilvie, Cowin polled village board members and sent telegrams to Rep. Philip Crane (R-Ill.) and Illinois' two senators requesting they vote in favor of President Richard Nixon's plan for revenue sharing.

Trustee Bruce Lind was told the village's tree replacement program will get under way in the fall, the best time to plant trees. Lind sought the information on behalf of a resident willing to share the cost of tree replacement near his home.

A 33-page food handler's ordinance, lingering around for several months, is to be studied by Trustees Diane Jensen and Dyrle Rathman, new to the board. Passage is expected after receipt of a report from Village Atty. Norman Samelson on how the document should be incorporated into the municipal code.

Dad's Quick Action Saves His Daughter

Police credited quick action on the part of Adolph Gaska, 283 Monticello, Hoffman Estates, with saving his daughter's life Wednesday evening after she accidentally put her arm through a storm door pane.

When police arrived on the scene, they believed Mary Gaska, 9, had cut a main artery in her arm on the glass. Her father's action in applying pressure under her arm stopped the bleeding, and may have saved her life, said police.

COMMON BIRTHDAYS are shared by Mrs. James Johnston of Schaumburg, her baby Kristen Kay and her mother, Mrs. Violet Flansburgh of Bickford, Mich. All three have a June 8 birthday. Kristen Kay was born at Delnor Hospital in St. Charles.

Kelly's Ordination Sunday

Stephen James Kelly, of Schaumburg will be ordained into the ministry, at 3 p.m. Sunday, June 20, in the Prince of Peace Church in Hoffman Estates.

Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. James V. Kelly of 1421 Arlington Ln., Schaumburg, is the first young man of the Prince of Peace congregation to be ordained.

He is a graduate of Palatine High School and did his undergraduate work at Eastern Illinois University, Charleston.

Kelly completed his theological studies at Wartburg Seminary Dubuque, Iowa, where he graduated on May 23.

He will serve as associate pastor of Emmanuel Lutheran Church, Lahabra, Calif., the same church where he served his internship.

The Rev. E. D. Paape, will perform the rite of ordination assisted by the Rev. M. Knutson liturgist, Edward Rickert and Paul Lauver. William Streng, professor at Wartburg Seminary will deliver the sermon.

Following the service of ordination a reception for the Kellys will be held in the fellowship hall. Women of the congregation will serve.

Park District Plans To Purchase 2 Used Buses

Hoffman Estates Park District plans to purchase two used school buses to alleviate continually spiraling costs of contract busing for summer recreation programs.

Park board members gave Mrs. Anne Schuerings the go-ahead on acquisition of two used buses from High School Dist. 211 provided they prove to be mechanically sound.

The buses, now on display for inspection at Fremd High School, cost $550 each.

They will be used to transport children from the Winston Knolls area to playground and tot-lot programs in the south-central part of the park district and to carry traveling playground sports teams.

They will also be used as extra buses for playground field trips and are expected to reduce busing costs "about 90 per cent," according to Mrs. Schuerings.

Total contract busing for last year's program exceeded $2,000 and with increased enrollments plus an additional service area, this year's cost could be nearly twice that figure.

IN RELATED business, board members agreed to rent a trailer for use as a club house facility in Winston Knolls but restricted the rental to a 30-day period at $75.

It is the hope of park board members, that residents of Winston Knolls will join in a community project of building a shelter in the subdivision's Valley Park.

Rental of the trailer, which has been used for the identical purpose by another park district, was proposed for the two-month period in which the summer program will be in progress but board members, particularly Claude Crase and Don Wade, both of whom live in Winston Knolls, stressed that homeowners in their area would be interested in the project.

They agreed, however, that rental is mandatory for the next few weeks in order to prevent a delay in starting the club house program which is the only activity being offered in Winston Knolls proper this year.

Children from the subdivision are being transported to other areas of the district for programs.

3,700 Visit Lions Pool During First Four Days

During the first four days of the 1971 swim season, 3,700 swimmers have visited Hoffman Estates Park District Lions Pool, reported Pool Mgr. Jim Sindelar Tuesday.

Sindelar told park board members that 1,100 attendance was reported Saturday when the pool opened; 980 swimmers entered the pool on Sunday, and both Monday and Tuesday attendance hovered around 890.

"The snack bar is doing a land office business and we are finding that water basketball is taking away all the excess energy of the kids, in fact, we have had only three inquiries concerning diving standards that have not yet been installed," he said.

The diving boards will be installed before the end of the week, Sindelar said.

At all times since its opening Saturday, pool capacity has been at least 100 shy of peak capacity, Sindelar noted.

SEVERAL OPERATIONAL problems have occurred, he said, explaining that two major valves in the pump room have

Pool Pass Sale To End Friday

Completion of pool pass photographing will be held from 7 to 10 p.m. Friday at Vogelei Administration Center, Mrs. Anne M. Schuerings, director of parks and recreation, announced this week.

While the district had hoped to complete photographing prior to the pool opening, a small backlog of photos plus numerous new applications for pool membership have necessitated the final session.

Passes remain on sale at park district offices at the post-season price of $35 per family.

For information concerning pool passes, swim lessons or other things relating to the Hoffman Estates Park District Lions Pool, contact park offices, 529-6900, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays.

Hospital Adds Evening Shift

A new 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. shift, at Elgin State Hospital is providing residents an extended treatment day without increasing the hospital's staff, according to D. A. Manelli, M.D., hospital Superintendent.

Implementation of the new shift has been at the discretion of the hospital's program directors, and is now in use in most programs. By having selected employees work the later shift one or more evenings a week, and one Saturday a month, a number of things can be accomplished.

The new shift affords staff members time to meet with patients who are working in the community during the day in sheltered workshops and job-training programs. In the Children and Adolescent Service unit, the youngsters are now able to take part in evening activities which were previously unavailable such as swimming at the YMCA or shopping trips. Some programs now have evening group therapy sessions, while others feature vocational instruction.

ALL "GENERALISTS" (a term highlighting the interchangeability of treatment team members through their ESH training) including team leaders, social workers, program workers and activity therapists are involved in the new shift.

failed, resulting in less than perfect filtration.

Repairs are in progress and the situation will be remedied as quickly as possible.

Sindelar said that although his initial registration figures appeared quite high, closer scrutiny has revealed that totals are a bit below the projected figures.

Through the beginning of this week 220 individual and 416 family passes have been purchased.

On opening day, more than $180 in daily swim fees was collected Sindelar said.

Commissioners View Master Plan For Park Development

Youth Is Charged On 'Pot' Count

An 18-year-old Palatine youth was arrested early Wednesday morning by Schaumburg Village Police and charged with possession of marijuana and having no valid license plates or proof of registration for the auto he was driving
Charged was Scott E. Berdelle of 1745 Pheasant Trail Palatine. He was to have a bond hearing yesterday Officer William Bartkavich who made the arrest with assistance from Sergeant
J. J. Dillon and Officer Howard Winklebake said he stopped Berdelle's auto because it had no plates. When he asked Berdelle to check the glove compartment for registration papers he saw a package of material alleged to be marijuana, said Bartkavich. Also found in the car was a homemade pipe and a partially smoked marijuana cigaret said Bartkav-ich
The drug charge is a felony, said police because of the amount of marijuana
Berdelle is alleged to have possessed assumption of ownership and operational responsibility for Chino Park, its accompanying playing fields, youth center and the then vacated village hall land

This has been partially accomplished with the village's recent decision to release Chino Park to the park district
In the intermediate years, the plan calls for development of major ice skating/hockey areas at Winston Knolls, the new Higgins Road High School and Chino Park
At this time Vogelei Park should be improved through building an outdoor meeting/band area, increasing its landscaping development of newly acquired field for games and paving the entrance and parking areas
Twin Lakes complex should at this time contain a nature center and the plan recommends that the park district develop mobile park maintenance forces rather than several regional, fixed facilities and crews
IT IS AT THIS point that the plan recommends hiring a full-time director of recreation and investigating the feasibility of building and buying a golf course with revenue (non-tax) bonds
Phase three of the long-range portion of the plan (1975 and beyond) calls for building an indoor swimming pool at the high school site adjacent to Winston Knolls and establishment of access areas to Cook County Forest Preserves that are convenient for village residents Completing the entire plan would then involve development of all newly acquired neighborhood and community parks

A central facility, a sports complex which will include indoor ice skating at a central location like the Higgins Road high school site, Lions Pool or Chino Park, should be established at this point and lighted tennis courts in three areas (Winston Knolls, the high school site on Higgins Road and Chino Park or Conant High School were suggested)
"If year-around school comes to Hoffman Estates, school recreation courses teaching participation in lifetime sports such as golf, tennis, bowling, swimming, hiking, etc must be initiated
"If mandatory park district consolidation is required, Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, and Streamwood Park districts would form a manageable unit," the planners believe THEY ALSO STRESS that if privately operated home owners association recreation facilities cease to operate, the park district should accept transfer of title and operate these facilities as public recreation facilities Park officials and Caskey plan meetings to determine precisely what their action will be and stress that the suggestions provided are merely a basis for begunning

"This is the type of park plan, though, that has been found acceptable to the voters in numerous communities and while it may be refined or changed in certain areas, it should be an acceptable proposal," Caskey told The Herald Projected costs of the total implementation of such a plan could run about $4,000,000, according to Caskey's figures
Of this, $3,299,000 would consist of general obligation bonds and an additional $350,000 in revenue bonds, supplemented with a possible $450,000 total federal funding assistance program from BOR

An approximate $3,000 referendum cost would come from the parks' annual levy funds
Cost of preparing the entire plan, which is expected by the end of the summer, is $6,000 and McFazdean & Everly, Ltd. will see the park district through to referendum if that should be their decision.

Board OKs Condominiums

Approval for a 35-acre, $30 million condominium development to be built by Eric W. Kuntze was granted Tuesday night by the Schaumburg Village Board.

The development, to be at Quentin and Algonquin roads, is to be constructed in phases, with Kuntze appearing before the board prior to construction of each phase to obtain building permits. He and his representatives are to reappear as soon as working drawings for the first phase are completed, and construction will begin as soon as permits are granted.

The action stipulates construction must begin within one year and be completed within five years. Interior roads are to be privately maintained, the approved bedroom mix is to be followed in each phase of construction and $100 per unit is to be donated to the village cultural center. The builder also is donating $107,400 to School Dist. 15.

The development is a revision of a plan approved by the village two years ago, but never constructed. Mayor Robert O. Atcher said it shows a drastic reduction in the number of units to be built, and the percentage of three-bedroom units has been reduced. The current plan includes 716 units, 64 with three bedrooms, and 525 with two bedrooms plus 58 more with two bedrooms and an additional area off the living room. The first phase will include a lake and swimming pool, with sufficient depth to the lake to receive assistance from the state in stocking it with fish.

The board also granted amendments to Levitt Construction Co. in its annexation agreement, involving payment of fees for electric and public improvements inspections and a reduction in the number of units in its Sheffield Towne development. The board waived the first hearing on a rezoning resolution requested by Levitt, to allow a change of zoning on 20 acres from multiple family to commercial. Mayor Atcher told the board work had been stopped at the apartment development of Sheffield Towne, pending a decision on an expected request for a change in the building plan filed by the developer.

The board voted to accept some streets in the Weathersfield development from Campanelli Brothers, on recommendation of Joe Zgonina, engineer. The streets have been brought up to grade and are in accordance with village requirements, said Zgonina. Not all streets in the development are to be accepted. Zgonina is to supply the board with a list of the 10 to 15 streets his recommendation included.

Zgonina also reported extension of sewer and water mains to the Churchill subdivision is 90 per cent completed, and asked authorization to hire consulting engineers Barton and Aschmann to prepare plans for hookup by subdivision residents. The board authorized spending up to $3,000 for the plans. Residents are to pay for the installation through an escrow account, and Zgonina is working with them to assess shares of the cost.

The board granted a liquor license to Marshall Field and Company for its Woodfield Mall store. The license is to allow sale of cocktails, champagne and beer in its restaurant and gourmet foods shop. There is to be no bar, and liquor by the drink is to be sold only to persons dining in the restaurant.

On recommendation from the village legal committee, the board approved a measure setting 12,000 square feet as the new minimum size for corner housing lots. The previous minimum was 10,000 square feet.

The county highway department is proposing improvements to Springinguth Road between Schaumburg and Bode roads, reported Mayor Atcher. He said the county has proposed a resolution, but the cost figures shown seem excessive. He asked Zgonina to obtain his own cost estimates, and report back to the board.

Atcher asked the village legal committee to devise a merit system and job qualification and description list for all village jobs outside the police and fire departments. Atty. Jack Siegel suggested committee chairman James Guthrie contact Arlington Heights to study its system, as a first step.

The board established new licensing fees for hotels and motels, day care centers, mortuaries and retail stores, making them conform to generally accepted fees in the northwest suburbs.

Also approved was a land swap between the village and the Winkelhake family, involving a small section of land at Plum Grove and Higgins roads. The exchange was needed to allow the state highway department to proceed with repairs to Plum Grove, eliminating a jog in the roadway.

The board authorized solicitations for two fund drives. City of Hope Tag Day will be Aug. 28, and Muscular Dystrophy tag day will be March 17, 1972. Muscular Dystrophy also will canvass homes for donations Nov. 6.

'Old Time Days' Carnival Theme

"Old Time Days," is the theme for the June 24-27 Schaumburg Jaycees Carnival to be held in the Towne Square Shopping Center parking area, Schaumburg.

Jaycees Pres. George Mansfield reports the Jaycees have enlisted the aid of the village officials, fire department and police department who will provide competing manpower for the contests planned throughout the four day festival.

Carnival chairman Tim Smith said the Jaycees are growing beards and mustaches they plan to sport during the old fashioned carnival.

Smith adds all carnival booths will be run by Jaycees with games for children and adults, rides, and food and drink.

A beer garden is planned, with a chicken fry slated Sunday afternoon.

Sunday's contest include a tug of war between the police department and Jaycees, with the losers gaining residency over the dividing mudhole, and a water fight between firemen and Jaycees.

A high striker contest with members of the village board will determine who sits on the falling plank of the dunk tank during the afternoon operation Smith said.

Several Trustees See First Performance

High School Rock Concert Has 1,400 Peaceful Teens

A rock concert at Wheeling High School Tuesday night drew a crowd of 1,400 teenagers and no trouble, despite fears of several Wheeling officials.

The concert was the first of a series of weekly shows at the high school each Tuesday this summer. Featuring promoter Dex Card and the rock groups "Crow" and "R.E.O. Speedwagon," Tuesday's show was monitored by six off-duty Wheeling policemen and by Wheeling Instrumental League chaperones.

Wheeling Police Chief M. O. Horcher said yesterday that there were no problem incidents at the concert. Horcher, members of the village police and fire commissions, and several village trustees were on hand at the show Tuesday.

Horcher said he has talked to several groups of students and found they were very enthusiastic about the show.

HE SAID one group of high school students he talked to had come from Rockford for the show, but most of the crowd was from the Northwest suburban area including Northbrook, Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights and Mundelein.

Tickets for the show sold for $2.50 each on Tuesday. Some of the profits from the concerts will go to the Wheeling Instrumental League to help the WHS band.

Horcher said yesterday that he thought the young people at the show had learned something from the village's apprehension about the concerts. "The kids learned that there was a responsibility on them to see that it remained a calm, acceptable function. They had to 'police' themselves, because any disorder would have brought the wrath of the adult community," he said.

At Monday's village board meeting village officials decided to allow the first concert on Tuesday, but to use it as a guide in deciding whether additional concerts would be allowed and whether the village would issue a business license to promoter Dex Card.

Scanlon told the other board members that he saw no alternative but to permit Tuesday's concert to go on.

ALTHOUGH VILLAGE Trustee Roger Stricker had said Monday that the off-duty policemen hired by Card could not wear their uniforms at the show, the six Wheeling policemen who worked on Tuesday were in uniform.

Board members had questioned if uniforms would mean the village was legally liable to insure the policemen even though they were not on duty.

Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon had told the board Monday that he would contact Card, the high school and the instrumental league to have representatives of the organizations at next Monday's village board meeting to discuss a retroactive business license for the concerts.

Stricker said Monday that he was questioning the concerts because no one representing the adults organizing the concerts was on hand to answer village board questions.

"What if they tear the whole school up? Six plainclothesmen aren't enough to deter a crowd," Stricker said.

STRICKER SAID however that he was in favor of the concerts even though he had reservations.

Scanlon told the other board members that he saw no alternative but to permit Tuesday's concert to go on.

"If you try to stop it you will have a riot," Scanlon said.

Scanlon urged the other board members, "We must have confidence in our youth."

Trustee Al Lang said he thought the trustees were wrong to expect trouble from the youths. "Youth is always maligned, we should think positively," Lang said.

Village Commission, Board Volunteers Are Needed

Volunteers are needed to serve on various village boards and commissions, Trustee Al Lang said yesterday.

Lang urged local citizens to apply for one of the vacancies on village commissions so the board would have each of its appointed commissions up to full capacity. Although most of the commissions, except the public relations commission, have applicants for vacancies, some of the same people have applied for positions on more than one commission.

Lang said anyone interested in serving should contact Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon.

As head of the board's Judiciary and Purchasing committee, Lang is currently scheduling interviews with each of the applicants who were submitted to the trustees by Scanlon Monday night.

AT MONDAY'S VILLAGE board meeting, Scanlon submitted a long list of appointments and reappointments to the board for confirmation.

Once the board votes on each of Scanlon's appointments, a person becomes an actual member of a commission.

Local residents appointed to commissions by Scanlon Monday included: Robert Buerger and Arthur Seiber, reappointed to the Civil Defense and William Rizzo, a new member.

On the electrical commission Scanlon reappointed Elmer Lemke, Raymond Kulpins, and Joseph Hille.

On the fire and police commission Scanlon reappointed Robert Olson and Desere A. Smet.

On the plan commission Scanlon reappointed Melvin Lacey and Herbert Lortz and appointed new members Harold Fagan, Desere A. Smet and Donald Duncan.

ON THE PUBLIC relations commission Scanlon reappointed Shirley Wilson and appointed Ida V. O'Reilly and Melvin H. Whitmer.

On the police pension board, Scanlon reappointed Douglas H. Cargill.

On the zoning board, Neil Brandt was reappointed and Donald Duncan, Desere A. Smet, and Mrs. Frank Milz were appointed new members.

Library Schedules Open House Sunday

The Wheeling Public Library District will hold an open house Sunday at its new library building, 850 Jenkins Ct., Wheeling. The open house will be from 2 to 5 p.m.

High School Pool Is A 'Go Deal'

Park Drops Day Camp

The Wheeling Park District has canceled its day camp and pre-school playtime classes for the summer because of insufficient registration.

A "Painting for Adults" class, also threatened by low registration, will be held. There are still openings in the evening class taught by Leonard Presley, School Dist. 21 Art Coordinator, Vernon said.

The construction of a pool at the Buffalo Grove High School site is "definitely a go deal," according to Alan Caskey, the Buffalo Grove Park District planning consultant.

Caskey attended a meeting Tuesday night between park district and High School Dist. 214 officials to discuss the project. The plans for building the pool were included in the $1,250,000 park district referendum approved by the voters May 22. A total of $382,000 was set aside for the construction of the pool.

The construction of the $10.5 million high school will be paid for by referendum funds which were approved by the voters May 15.

Work on the school should begin within 60 days, with construction being finished by December of 1972, Caskey said. He said the pool will probably be built at the same pace as the rest of the school and predicted that it also would open by December of 1972.

"THERE WAS a definite feeling of cooperation between the two boards," Cas-

RETAINING WALLS for the new addition to the Dist. 21 Administration Building in Wheeling are being put into place by construction workers. The next step in construction will be to pour the concrete walls.

State Vetoes Drug Abuse Plan Funds

A proposal for a federally funded drug abuse program that would have involved School Dist. 21 and 11 other school districts has failed to win state approval.

Marjorie Beu, Dist. 21 curriculum director, said yesterday that the proposal has been rejected by the state Title III advisory board.

The school districts had sought a grant under Title III of the federal Elementary and Secondary Education Act to set up a cooperative in-service center to provide materials and train teachers in teaching about drug abuse. Local school districts that would have participated would have included dists. 25, 28, 15, 54, 211, 214 and 21, as well as school districts in DeKalb, Sycamore, Rockford, Hinsdale and Maywood.

Miss Beu said she was "very disappointed" that the proposal failed to win state approval.

SHE ADDED THAT the school districts are thinking of trying some other type of cooperative drug abuse training program, but have no definite plans so far.

Miss Beu said that lack of the in-service training center will hamper the comprehensive drug education program Dist. 21 will introduce in all the schools this fall.

"We won't have as many materials to work with and we won't have as sophisticated a teacher training program, which is the most crucial part of the project. We can do a lot as far as orienting teachers to our curriculum but we need someone to give an over-all picture of drug abuse," she said.

Miss Beu said the district will hire consultants to help with the district's drug education orientation for teachers that will be held before school starts in the fall.

Resignation Of Trustee Kelly Is Accepted

The resignation of Thomas J. Kelly as a trustee of the Wheeling Public Library District was accepted Tuesday at a meeting of the library board.

Kelly, 470 Middlesex, Buffalo Grove, resigned from the board because he is moving out of town.

He was appointed to the board in February to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Frederick Schubert.

Applications are now being accepted from persons interested in filling the vacancy.

All applications should be sent to the library board of trustees at the Wheeling Public Library, 850 Jenkins Ct., Wheeling.

Included in the application should be a resume and a letter expressing interest in the library and reason why the applicant thinks he should be appointed to the board.

Only residents of the Wheeling Public Library District are eligible for appointment to the library board.

The person appointed will serve until April, 1972.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew questioned the judgment of the New York Times and its top editors in acting in a "secretive and clandestine fashion" to publish classified material. He would not comment on the legal aspects of the injunction halting the Times from publishing further articles in the series, but he said that it was apparent to anyone who had ever worked in the Foreign Service "that no government can conduct its diplomacy on the pages of a newspaper or in the glare of public scrutiny."

Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, publisher of the New York Times, said the Nixon administration might try to benefit from disclosures in his newspaper about escalation of the Vietnam War by previous Democratic administrations. The publisher said the series, based on a top secret Pentagon study which came into the hands of the Times from an unidentified source, "does not have any deleterious effect on national security" and is, in essence, "past history."

A "loyal-to-Boyle" strike by the nation's soft coal miners gathered momentum for the third consecutive day despite a warning the walkout had created a national emergency. The strike was a protest over removal of United Mine Workers President W. A. "Tony" Boyle as a trustee of the union's welfare and retirement fund.

An underground nuclear test was detonated at Yucca Flat on the desert north of here and there was no radiation leakage, the Atomic Energy Commission reported.

The State

Illinois Speaker of the House W. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, directed the House Ethics Committee to undertake an "immediate and thorough" investigation of allegations of political involvement with horse racing interests.

The Illinois Bar Association said it is opposed to the Illinois plan for "No fault" automobile accident injury reparations supported by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie.

Illinois Senate Republican Leader W. Russell Arrington, R-Evanston, recovering from a stroke suffered in January, announced he will not resume his Senate duties until next session, thus ending speculation he might return sooner.

The War

The controversial McGovern-Hatfield amendment that would have established a Dec. 31 deadline for withdrawal of American forces from Vietnam was defeated 55 to 42. A vote on similar legislation last year was defeated 55 to 39.

The World

History Will Unify Village

by CRAIG GAARE

History is something that is always there, but it is something most people don't know about until somebody tells them.

That is what the Buffalo Grove Women's Club hopes to do for the village.

They are trying to tell people who designed the village flag, and who was the farmer that sold his land to a middleman who sold it to Levitt and Sons, clearing the way for the massive Strathmore development. They are trying to let people know how Wally Weidner, Jake Raupp, the Fimbachs and William Clohesy fit into the village history.

And from the looks of things, the women's club is making progress. Three years ago the organization was designated as the official village historians. Since that time little was accomplished until the women's club voted at their April meeting to "take an active part in the establishment of a Buffalo Grove Historical Society."

SINCE APRIL, the women's organization has obtained the support of the current village board and received approval to spend village funds for compiling a village history.

Although the village was incorporated 13 years ago, the Buffalo Grove area has a history that predates that.

For instance there was a person by the name of Melchior Raupp who walked all the way back from the gold fields of California to settle in Buffalo Grove. There is also a story behind the inscription on St. Mary's Catholic Church which reads, "Sancti Marianus Kirch, erected 1899."

The Buffalo Grove Historical Society is in an enviable position because of the village's youth. The actual history of municipal government only spans 13 years, with most of those details still available from the files at the municipal building.

IN ADDITION to being an organization of history buffs, the historical society can serve a very practical and

important purpose. It could be the key to unifying a village that currently is badly splintered into various groups each with a narrow interest only in what is going on in their particular area.

During the past election, many candidates decried the absence of a unified village spirit in the community. The historical society is the logical answer. It can bring the people of this village together and give them something to be proud of.

Instead of people saying "I live in Cambridge," they can say "I live east of the old cheese factory, that used to be the police station and south of where they found the Buffalo skeleton by the creek."

OK McHenry Road Water, Sewer Extension Bids

Bids were awarded this week for the $189,973 extension of the McHenry Road sanitary sewer and water mains by the Wheeling Village board.

The sewer and water extensions are the beginning of sewer and water service for the northwestern area of the village where a number of new developments are proposed.

The Tekton Corp., developers of the Cedar Run quadrangle project, has agreed to pay $80,000 of the cost of the sewer and water extension. The sewers and water mains will be extended from Elmhurst Road to the Tekton property along McHenry Road.

The remaining $129,973 cost will be paid for by the Village. Through a recapitulation ordinance, the village will recoup the cost of oversizing the sewer and water lines from other property owners in the area as surrounding property is developed.

THE VILLAGE ORIGINALLY planned to regain not only its costs, but seven percent interest from the time the ordinance was passed.

The area served by the new water facilities from which the village will regain the funds is bounded on the north by the Lake-Cook county line and on the west by Buffalo Grove Road.

Village sewer and water lines currently extend to the point where Elmhurst Road joins McHenry Road.

Installation of the utilities will open up the northwest end of the village for development.

The bid approved Monday by the village board from the DiPaolo Co. was more than 50 per cent higher than the anticipated cost for the sewer and water installation. The village had originally planned to pay approximately $80,000 for the work, an amount equal to the figure Tekton is paying, but bids received for the work were considerably higher than the $120,000 estimated.

The agreement with Tekton calls for that company to pay the first $80,000 of the work, however, with the village paying the remainder of the costs.

Two More File For Park Board Vacancy

The last two applicants for the vacancy on the Buffalo Grove Park Board will be interviewed tonight before the start of the regular weekly meeting at 8 p.m.

The pair, who submitted their applications yesterday are Norman Katz, of 983 Whitehall Ct., and Jack Allsmiller, of 6 Chenault Ct. In all seven persons have applied for the post. The other candidates are William Kinkade, Robert Sigona, Mrs. Linaya Back, H. W. Schoepes and William G. Russell.

The vacancy on the board was created when Commissioner Sherwood Zwirn resigned last month. He was elected to a four-year term in 1969. When appointed, the new commissioner will serve the remaining two years of Zwirn's term.

Charge Custodian At Cooper Junior

A custodian at James Fenimore Cooper Junior High School in Buffalo Grove was arrested Tuesday by police and charged with taking indecent liberties with a child in connection with an alleged incident at the school last week.

Police arrested Elias Martinez, of 29 W. Rand Rd., Arlington Heights, at the school shortly after 3 p.m.

After being charged, he was released on $1,500 bond. He will appear in Arlington Heights Court July 20.

Commenting on the charge Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill said, "We want this thing to be tried and have both sides heard. The charge is serious to us from the standpoint that the guy is automatically guilty in the public's view, if they aren't acquainted with him."

Open Gym Slated

Teachers' Contract May Be A Pattern For Other Districts

by WANDALYN RICE
A News Analysis

Should the Board of Education of Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59 vote to ratify the teachers' contract for 1971-72 tonight the move will indicate

Garage Sale To Aid Legal Fight

Money raised at a garage sale in Wheeling this week will be used to help a local restaurant owner in a legal battle with the village. Mrs. Mickey Pitt has announced

Mrs. Pitt said the money from the sale will be used to help Jerry Fuller, owner of Sandwich Haven, pay legal fees Fuller and the village have a dispute over renewal of his business license and correction of building and fire code violations in his business

Fuller has charged that the village is demanding the work in his restaurant and refusing to renew his license as a form of political harassment

Village officials maintain however, that the items in the restaurant must be corrected for safety requirements

The garage sale to benefit Fuller's legal fees will be held from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. today tomorrow and Saturday at 294 W. Strong St. Mrs. Pitt said that relations between the board and the teachers have taken a 180-degree turn-around in four months

In February the district survived a one-day teachers' strike that came as a result of a long and bitter dispute over class size and negotiation procedures on the 1970-71 contract

Now, the district has become the first elementary district in the area to settle on a contract for the coming year. Apparently any negotiation fireworks will be reserved this year for other school districts

Also, the settlement, which will give teachers a three per cent increase in the salary schedule for next year, is so low many area school officials have expressed surprise and delight. The settlement will probably serve as a pattern for neighboring districts

In the past few years pay increases in this area have run between eight and 10 per cent. Officials of other financially pressed districts see the Dist. 59 settlement as a sign of relief from such raises, at least for one year

FOR THE MEMBERS of the Teachers Council, the district's bargaining organization, the settlement was apparently completely acceptable. The membership approved the settlement by a 450 to 16 vote

themselves

One reason for the cooperation, however, may have been indicated when Al-beon Walkman, assistant superintendent for personnel and chief administration negotiator, said about a week before the settlement was reached that he thought "both sides are very appreciative of the present economic conditions"

The simple fact, acknowledged by the teachers' negotiating team, is that the district didn't have much money to offer. From a tactical standpoint, too, the early settlement, coming as it did just before the Dist. 59 tax rate referendum, worked to everyone's advantage

District officials had said that none of the money from Saturday's referendum would go into teachers' pay increases, so by settling, the teachers did not risk losing any money in the unlikely event the referendum had passed

BUT, AS ONE negotiator pointed out, by settling before the referendum, "We make sure that no matter what happens we won't get any less"

The failure of the referendum will probably mean larger class sizes and less help for teachers next year and the negotiator said, "At least we won't end up with less money for more work."

For the board and administration the settlement had two advantages. First, it was just possible a district at peace with its teachers might have been able to pass a referendum

However, since that didn't happen, the board and administration can now concentrate on the budget without worrying about another strike or impasse. In these troubled times it gives them one less problem to think about.

The settlement probably means two more things. It is widely agreed around the district that the long impasse and strike last year didn't help anyone — not teachers, not administrators and not school board members

The early settlement this year may well indicate that the lesson has sunk in — that both sides have realized they need each other and must maintain flexible and realistic positions.

IN ADDITION, the settlement, many observers indicate, is a tribute to the cooperation developed between two men — Supt. James Erviti and Teachers Council President Robert Beaupre.

Although neither actually took part in most of the negotiations, observers credit them with the early settlement. In fact, the negotiation session where the contract was agreed on was "tentatively postponed" until sometime in July until Erviti and Beaupre sat down together.

The new cooperation may or may not prove to be long-lasting. A district with a history of trouble like Dist. 59 faces an uphill fight.

But for the first time in a long time residents of the district can view news of teacher salary negotiations as "good news."

High School Pool Is Definitely A 'Go Deal'

The construction of a pool at the Buffalo Grove High School site is "definitely a go deal," according to Alan Caskey, the Buffalo Grove Park District planning consultant.

Caskey attended a meeting Tuesday night between park district and High School Dist. 214 officials to discuss the project. The plans for building the pool were included in the $1,250,000 park district referendum approved by the voters May 22. A total of $382,000 was set aside for the construction of the pool.

The construction of the $10.5 million high school will be paid for by referendum funds which were approved by the voters May 15.

Work on the school should begin within 60 days, with construction being finished by December of 1972, Caskey said. He said the pool will probably be built at the same pace as the rest of the school and predicted that it also would open by December of 1972.

"THERE WAS a definite feeling of cooperation between the two boards," Caskey said in describing the meeting. "The high school definitely wants to work with the park district. Now the park district basically has to decide how they would like to approach it to get the most out of the $382,000."

How the operating expenses would be shared was also discussed at the meeting, but no agreement was reached. "You can't get anything concrete until you see how the pool is going to be built," Caskey said. "The operating expenses will be worked out as a percentage of time compared to the percentage of cost involved in the pool construction."

Commenting on the meeting, Howard Lester, coordinator of physical welfare for Dist. 214 said, "I think we can get together. We did with the other two park districts (Wheeling and Arlington Heights) and I don't see any problem. We need a decision soon so we will know what is happening when we go out for general bids."

The park district was represented by Caskey and William Kiddle, park district president.

Dist. 214 representatives were Lester, Supt. Edward Giltart, Robert Weber, assistant superintendent for business affairs, Roderick McLennan, assistant superintendent of instruction, Charles Miller, coordinator for Buffalo Grove High School, and a representative from Orput and Orput, the school district architectural firm.

Resignation Of Trustee Kelly Is Accepted

The resignation of Thomas J. Kelly as a trustee of the Wheeling Public Library District was accepted Tuesday at a meeting of the library board.

Kelly, 470 Middlesex, Buffalo Grove, resigned from the board because he is moving out of town.

He was appointed to the board in February to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Frederick Schubert.

Applications are now being accepted from persons interested in filling the vacancy.

All applications should be sent to the library board of trustees at the Wheeling Public Library, 850 Jenkins Ct., Wheeling.

Included in the application should be a resume and a letter expressing interest in the library and reason why the applicant thinks he should be appointed to the board.

Only residents of the Wheeling Public Library District are eligible for appointment to the library board.

The person appointed will serve until April, 1972.

$60,000 Appropriation For Creek Clears Hurdle

A program to control flooding along Buffalo Creek moved a step closer to reality when a $60,000 appropriation was approved by the Illinois House this week.

The State Senate still must act on the bill, and it must be signed by governor Ogilvie. Since the money is included in the governor's budget, it is expected to get his approval.

The funds would be used to widen and clean Buffalo Creek and the Wheeling Drainage Ditch.

Local residents began working to get state funds after floods in the spring of 1970. The bill grew out of a meeting involving local residents, Wheeling officials, and John Guillo, chief engineer for the Illinois Division of Waterways, last summer.

GUILLOU SAID then that a flood control program for the entire length of the creek would cost $2.4 million. It had been hoped that $60,000 would be appropriated to begin work, but that figure was cut in budget hearings.

In a report to the Wheeling Village Board, George Passolt, acting village manager, quoted Guillou and Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, as saying the $60,000 "was just a start, and that further appropriations could be coming up annually" in the general assembly.

Passolt suggested the village continue to back similar bills in subsequent sessions of the legislature "in as much as it is obvious the creek needs annual maintenance."

BOB WURTZ, A JOINT winner in the high jump at the Buffalo Grove Jaycees Junior Sports Jamboree, clears the bar at the Jamboree Saturday at Wheeling High School. Winners of the individual events will go on to regional competition in Mount Prospect in July.

State Vetoes Drug Abuse Plan Funds

A proposal for a federally funded drug abuse program that would have involved School Dist. 21 and 11 other school districts has failed to win state approval.

Marjorie Beu, Dist. 21 curriculum director, said yesterday that the proposal has been rejected by the state Title III advisory board.

The school districts had sought a grant under Title III of the federal Elementary and Secondary Education Act to set up a cooperative in-service center to provide materials and train teachers in teaching about drug abuse. Local school districts that would have participated would have included dists. 25, 26, 15, 54, 211, 214 and 21, as well as school districts in DeKalb, Sycamore, Rockford, Hinsdale and Maywood.

Miss Beu said she was "very disappointed" that the proposal failed to win state approval.

SHE ADDED THAT the school districts are thinking of trying some other type of cooperative drug abuse training program, but have no definite plans so far.

Miss Beu said that lack of the in-service training center will hamper the comprehensive drug education program Dist. 21 will introduce in all the schools this fall.

"We won't have as many materials to work with and we won't have as sophisticated a teacher training program, which is the most crucial part of the project. We can do a lot as far as orienting teachers to our curriculum but we need someone to give an over-all picture of drug abuse," she said.

Miss Beu said the district will hire consultants to help with the district's drug education orientation for teachers that will be held before school starts in the fall.

1,400 Attend Peaceful Rock Concert

A rock concert at Wheeling High School Tuesday night drew a crowd of 1,400 teenagers and no trouble, despite fears of several Wheeling officials.

The concert was the first of a series of weekly shows at the high school each Tuesday this summer. Featuring promoter Dex Card and the rock groups "Crow" and "R.E.O. Speedwagon," Tuesday's show was monitored by six off-duty Wheeling policemen and by Wheeling Instrumental League chaperones.

Wheeling Police Chief M. O. Horcher said yesterday that there were no problem incidents at the concert. Horcher, members of the village police and fire commissions, and several village trustees were on hand at the show Tuesday.

Horcher said he has talked to several groups of students and found they were very enthusiastic about the show.

HE SAID one group of high school students he talked to had come from Rockford for the show, but most of the crowd was from the Northwest suburban area including Northbrook, Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights and Mundelein.

Tickets for the show sold for $2.50 each on Tuesday. Some of the profits from the concerts will go to the Wheeling Instrumental League to help the WHS band.

Horcher said yesterday that he thought the young people at the show had learned something from the village's apprehension about the concerts. "The kids learned that there was a responsibility on them to see that it remained a calm, acceptable function. They had to 'police' themselves, because any disorder would have brought the wrath of the adult community," he said.

At Monday's village board meeting village officials decided to allow the first concert on Tuesday, but to use it as a guide in deciding whether additional concerts would be allowed and whether the village would issue a business license to promoter Dex Card.

Scanton told the other board members that he saw no alternative but to permit Tuesday's concert to go on.

ALTHOUGH VILLAGE Trustee Roger Stricker had said Monday that the off-duty policemen hired by Card could not wear their uniforms at the show, the six Wheeling policemen who worked on Tuesday were in uniform.

Board members had questioned if uniforms would mean the village was legally liable to insure the policemen even though they were not on duty.

Village Pres. Ted C. Scanton had told the board Monday that he would contact Card, the high school and the instrumental league to have representatives of the organizations at next Monday's village board meeting to discuss a retroactive business license for the concerts.

Stricker said Monday that he was questioning the concerts because no one representing the adults organizing the concerts was on hand to answer village board questions.

"What if they tear the whole school up? Six plainclothesmen aren't enough to deter a crowd," Stricker said.

STRICKER SAID however that he was in favor of the concerts even though he had reservations.

Scanton told the other board members that he saw no alternative but to permit Tuesday's concert to go on.

"If you try to stop it you will have a riot," Scanton said.

Scanton urged the other board members, "We must have confidence in our youth."

Trustee Al Lang said he thought the trustees were wrong to expect trouble from the youths. "Youth is always maligned, we should think positively," Lang said.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew questioned the judgment of the New York Times and its top editors in acting in a "secretive and clandestine fashion" to publish classified material. He would not comment on the legal aspects of the injunction halting the Times from publishing further articles in the series, but he said that it was apparent to anyone who had ever worked in the Foreign Service "that no government can conduct its diplomacy on the pages of a newspaper or in the glare of public scrutiny."

Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, publisher of the New York Times, said the Nixon administration might try to benefit from disclosures in his newspaper about escalation of the Vietnam War by previous Democratic administrations. The publisher said the series, based on a top secret Pentagon study which came into the hands of the Times from an unidentified source, "does not have any deleterious effect on national security" and is, in essence, "past history."

A "loyal-to-Boyle" strike by the nation's soft coal miners gathered momentum for the third consecutive day despite a warning the walkout had created a national emergency. The strike was a protest over removal of United Mine Workers President W. A. "Tony" Boyle as a trustee of the union's welfare and retirement fund.

An underground nuclear test was detonated at Yucca Flat on the desert north of here and there was no radiation leakage, the Atomic Energy Commission reported.

The State

Illinois Speaker of the House W. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, directed the House Ethics Committee to undertake an "immediate and thorough" investigation of allegations of political involvement with horse racing interests.

The Illinois Bar Association said it is opposed to the Illinois plan for "No fault" automobile accident injury reparations supported by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie.

Illinois Senate Republican Leader W. Russell Arrington, R-Evanston, recovering from a stroke suffered in January, announced he will not resume his Senate duties until next session, thus ending speculation he might return sooner.

History Will Unify Village

by CRAIG GAARE

History is something that is always there, but it is something most people don't know about until somebody tells them.

That is what the Buffalo Grove Women's Club hopes to do for the village.

They are trying to tell people who designed the village flag, and who was the farmer that sold his land to a middleman who sold it to Levitt and Sons, clearing the way for the massive Strathmore development. They are trying to let people know how Wally Weidner, Jake Raupp, the Firths and William Clohesy fit into the village history.

And from the looks of things, the women's club is making progress. Three years ago the organization was designated as the official village historians. Since that time little was accomplished until the women's club voted at their April meeting to "take an active part in the establishment of a Buffalo Grove Historical Society."

SINCE APRIL, the women's organization has obtained the support of the current village board and received approval to spend village funds for compiling a village history.

Although the village was incorporated 13 years ago, the Buffalo Grove area has a history that predates that.

For instance there was a person by the name of Melchior Raupp who walked all the way back from the gold fields of California to settle in Buffalo Grove. There is also a story behind the inscription on St. Mary's Catholic Church which reads, "Sancti Marian Kirch, erected 1899."

The Buffalo Grove Historical Society is in an enviable position because of the village's youth. The actual history of municipal government only spans 13 years, with most of those details still available from the files at the municipal building.

IN ADDITION TO being an organization of history buffs, the historical society can serve a very practical and

important purpose. It could be the key to unifying a village that currently is badly splintered into various groups each with a narrow interest only in what is going on in their particular area.

During the past election, many candidates decried the absence of a unified village spirit in the community. The historical society is the logical answer. It can bring the people of this village together and give them something to be proud of.

Instead of people saying "I live in Cambridge," they can say "I live east of the old cheese factory, that used to be the police station and south of where they found the Buffalo skeleton by the creek."

OK McHenry Road Water, Sewer Extension Bids

Bids were awarded this week for the $189,973 extension of the McHenry Road sanitary sewer and water mains by the Wheeling Village board.

The sewer and water extensions are the beginning of sewer and water service for the northwestern area of the village where a number of new developments are proposed.

The Tekton Corp., developers of the Cedar Run quadrangle project, has agreed to pay $60,000 of the cost of the sewer and water extension. The sewers and water mains will be extended from Elmhurst Road to the Tekton property along McHenry Road.

The remaining $129,973 cost will be paid for by the Village. Through a recapture ordinance, the village will recoup the cost of oversizing the sewer and water lines from other property owners in the area as surrounding property is developed.

THE VILLAGE ORIGINALLY planned to regain not only its costs, but seven per cent interest from the time the ordinance was passed.

The area served by the new water facilities from which the village will regain the funds is bounded on the north by the Lake-Cook county line and on the west by Buffalo Grove Road.

Village sewer and water lines currently extend to the point where Elmhurst Road joins McHenry Road.

Installation of the utilities will open up the northwest end of the village for development.

The bid approved Monday by the village board from the DiPaolo Co. was more than 50 per cent higher than the anticipated cost for the sewer and water installation. The village had originally planned to pay approximately $60,000 for the work, an amount equal to the figure Tekton is paying, but bids received for the work were considerably higher than the $120,000 estimated.

The agreement with Tekton calls for that company to pay the first $60,000 of the work, however, with the village paying the remainder of the costs.

Two More File For Park Board Vacancy

The last two applicants for the vacancy on the Buffalo Grove Park Board will be interviewed tonight before the start of the regular weekly meeting at 8 p.m.

The pair, who submitted their applications yesterday are Norman Katz, of 983 Whitehall Ct., and Jack Allsmiller, of 6 Chenault Ct. In all seven persons have applied for the post. The other candidates are William Kinkade, Robert Signa, Mrs. Linaya Back, H. W. Schoepes and William G. Russell.

The vacancy on the board was created when Commissioner Sherwood Zwirn resigned last month. He was elected to a four-year term in 1969. When appointed, the new commissioner will serve the remaining two years of Zwirn's term.

A custodian at James Fenimore Cooper Junior High School in Buffalo Grove was arrested Tuesday by police and charged with taking indecent liberties with a child in connection with an alleged incident at the school last week.

Police arrested Elais Martinez, of 29 W. Rand Rd., Arlington Heights, at the school shortly after 3 p.m.

After being charged, he was released on $1,500 bond. He will appear in Arlington Heights Court July 20.

Commenting on the charge Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill said, "We want this thing to be tried and have both sides heard. The charge is serious to us from the standpoint that the guy is automatically guilty in the public's view, if they aren't acquainted with him."

Questionnaires About Low-Cost Housing Delayed

The mailing of questionnaires by the Palatine League of Women Voters to determine the need for low-cost housing in the area has been delayed until the end of this month according to Geraldine Cosby, league human resource chairman. The league originally planned to send the questionnaires to local employers in mid-May.

"We are still awaiting answers from civic groups and churches on endorsement of the project," Miss Cosby said.

The questionnaires are still expected to be tabulated and sent to the Cook County League by August for county tabulation, according to the deadline established earlier by the county league.

THE QUESTIONNAIRES will be sent regardless of how much support the study receives, however, according to the league.

The Palatine league is participating in the county-wide survey at the request of the Cook County League of Women Voters. The county league has sought assistance from all local leagues.

The study primarily involves sending questionnaires to all local employers asking five basic questions ranging from the number of employees at the firm to salary range of workers and where they live.

The purpose of the study is to determine whether there is a need for low-cost housing in the area, according to Miss Cosby.

THE SURVEY ASKS how many employees live within the community and how many live outside of a five mile radius. It also asks an estimate of how many employees would move into the area if adequate housing was available at the right price.

The local league has not taken a position on the low-cost housing issue and is not asking other groups to take a stand on the issue. It is seeking support for the study, which league members say will benefit all of Palatine since it will provide facts.

The Palatine Chamber of Commerce declined endorsing the study because of "possible political questions" involved in the low-cost housing issue.

Miss Cosby said that she has received some verbal support but no written endorsements as yet.

The list of businesses which will receive the questionnaires is being prepared by the league now. The survey will be taken of both private and public employees.

As the thermometer rises the fastest way to cool off is in one of Palatine Park Dist. pools.

Park Class Enrollments Are Urged

Palatine residents are urged to register this week for any of the 14 summer programs offered by the Palatine Park District which still have openings. If the classes have not reached minimum enrollment by Saturday they will have to be dropped, according to Duane Hosmer, recreation supervisor.

He added that many of the programs were close to the minimum. Registration closes Saturday, however. Most of the programs begin next week.

The programs include summer preschool in the Maple Park state-approved preschool building, and summer playground activities at six locations Monday through Friday.

OTHER PROGRAMS with openings are youth and adult knitting in the Palatine High School sewing room, intermediate and advanced guitar at Maple Park, intermediate and advanced ballet in the Palatine High School dance room, and charm II for nine to twelve-year-olds and charm III for 13 through 17-year-olds.

All three of the cheerleading classes for fourth through eighth graders, class I and II of tumbling for six-year-olds and up, and baton I, II and III for girls and boys entering first through eighth grade, still have openings.

Other openings are in the children's art class I for first through third graders and class III for fourth through sixth graders, puppetry at the Community Park recreation building, the intramural sports program at Palatine High School for students entering seventh grade through senior year in high school, and decoupage for persons 18 years and older.

TWO CHANGES HAVE been made in the tennis lesson schedule. The Tuesday and Thursday class from 11 a.m. to noon at Palatine Hills courts has been made an adult beginners class. Previously it was listed as a youth intermediate class.

There will also be an adult beginners class at Palatine Hills courts on Thursdays from 6:15 to 8 p.m.

Registration is Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. at Community Park. The last time for registration will be Saturday from 1 to 3 p.m.

Cracker Barrel

YOUNGSTERS IN PALATINE mid-way through building a tree house near Virginia Lake School were ordered to stop because their house didn't meet the building code. A Palatine police officer told the youngsters it had to be fireproof and have proper bathroom facilities before they would be permitted to build it. He added that they also should have gotten permission from the people who owned the tree.

IF ALL THE PEOPLE in the country stopped using their air conditioners it would provide the Edison Co. with a 50 per cent reserve of power, making it unnecessary to build any nuclear sites, according to Richard Dawson, director of environmental health in Palatine. He added that it probably wouldn't make the air conditioner companies very happy or the residents with air conditioners, including himself.

WAITING IN LONG LINES for registration is not something known only to college students. The first day of Dist. 15 summer school this week was filled with confusion with students milling around not knowing where to go. For the first time, the district totally computerized registration for summer school, but ended up with bungled enrollment lists at several schools.

Village Buys Civil Defense Sirens

Palatine residents will no longer receive a tornado watch signal once the new Civil Defense sirens, purchased by the village this week, are installed.

Bids totalling $25,315 were awarded recently for five new sirens and their installation. The sirens will have three signals which will provide total coverage for emergency warning purposes and will alert the volunteer fire department in case of fire, according to Village Mgr. Berton Braun.

The new sirens will be used only in the event of official tornado warnings — indicating persons should seek shelter or take other precautions.

The watch signal which was also provided by the village in the past indicated the possibility of a tornado.

The watch signal which was also provided by the village in the past indicated the possibility of a tornado in the area.

The bid for the sirens was awarded to Great Lakes Fire and Safety Equipment Co. of Barrington for $16,915. The bid for installation was awarded to Thorne Electric Co. of Wheaton for $8,400.

Zale Changes Development Plans

Edward Zale has changed his plans again for development of 24 acres near Plum Grove School in western Rolling Meadows.

City officials said Zale is now seeking rental apartments rather than the 393 condominium units recently proposed to the plan commission. He wants a change from R-5 to R-6 zoning to allow a higher density unit, according to City Mgr. James Watson.

"Zale has talked to his marketing men and now says he wants rental apartments," Watson said. Zale and Mayor Roland Meyer will meet this week to discuss the change.

Except for final approval by city council, Zale seemed destined to develop the land as condominiums after negotiations with Dist. 15. He agreed to pay $200 for each condominium unit or about $200,000 for the additional 393 students expected to be created by the development.

WHEN ZALE appeared before city of-

officials and a number of area residents opposed his plan, he received favorable response from the plan commission. But the rental concept will undoubtedly receive opposition from some aldermen, who say they oppose any new apartments in the city.

Zale has been trying to develop the 24 acres of land for a number of years. He first became involved during a court case between Rolling Meadows and Palatine in 1968.

In the court case, a strip of land between Zale's property and the Rolling Meadows city limits was disputed between the two municipalities. Rolling Meadows won the court decision and the Zale property was annexed to the city.

Zale had previously submitted plans and received partial approval by the city for construction of rental apartments. But he must resubmit plans for his development and gain approval from city council.

The Nation

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew questioned the judgment of the New York Times and its top editors in acting in a "secretive and clandestine fashion" to publish classified material. He would not comment on the legal aspects of the injunction halting the Times from publishing further articles in the series, but he said that it was apparent to anyone who had ever worked in the Foreign Service "that no government can conduct its diplomacy on the pages of a newspaper or in the glare of public scrutiny."

Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, publisher of the New York Times, said the Nixon administration might try to benefit from disclosures in his newspaper about escalation of the Vietnam War by previous Democratic administrations. The publisher said the series, based on a top secret Pentagon study which came into the hands of the Times from an unidentified source, "does not have any deleterious effect on national security" and is, in essence, "past history."

A "loyal-to-Boyle" strike by the nation's soft coal miners gathered momentum for the third consecutive day despite a warning the walkout had created a national emergency. The strike was a protest over removal of United Mine Workers President W. A. "Tony" Boyle as a trustee of the union's welfare and retirement fund.

An underground nuclear test was detonated at Yucca Flat on the desert north of here and there was no radiation leakage, the Atomic Energy Commission reported.

She Has Come A 'Long, Long Way'

For a teacher who started off holding class in a cottage on Campbell Street when Rolling Meadows was first born, Mrs. Harriet Foster has come a long way.

Principal of Jonas Salk School for nine years, Mrs. Foster will move her offices to the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 administration building in the fall to assume her new duties as director of special education.

"While I was in college, I had no idea I would become an elementary school principal," Mrs. Foster said. "Ten years ago, I wouldn't have thought I would be moving into special education."

Mrs. Foster, a resident of Palatine for 22 years, first taught in Dist. 15 in 1938, long before the district was consolidated, at the then Wood Street School. She met her husband in Palatine, then moved into Chicago for several years, returning to Palatine and Dist. 15.

She moved into the principal's role, after teaching second and third grades, in 1944 at Winston Park School in Palatine. She was also the first principal of Cardinal Drive School, staying there two years.

IT WAS DURING her years at Salk School that she was first exposed to the needs of special education and became involved in it.

After legislation in 1969 was passed in the state requiring that all children of all levels of ability be properly provided for in public schools, the special education program in Dist. 15 began to mushroom. The duties of the director expanded rapidly, requiring the assistance of a second person.

"I'll primarily handle the administrative side of the district's program," Mrs. Foster explained, taking away much of the pressure from the current head of the program, Arnon DeGuisne.

In her new position, Mrs. Foster will be in charge of finding housing for special education classrooms, assigning students to workable groups, hiring properly trained personnel, coordinating in-service training for teachers and ordering materials for the classes.

"Our objective with special education is to correlate these programs as closely as possible to our regular education," she said. "It's important to integrate the special education students during the day with the rest of the district's students."

MOVING FROM one phase of education to another has not bothered Mrs. Foster at all, although she says she cannot pick out which area she prefers. "You've got to go through each door as you come to it," she said, taking advantage of every opportunity.

Mrs. Foster's career as an educator has been carried on to her three children, all of which are elementary school teachers. Being both a parent and teacher has made her realize the importance of good relationships between the two.

"The one continuity in a child's life is in his parents," she said. "School really isn't all that important if the parents and teachers don't work together."

Two-Week Vacation Church School Set

A two-week vacation church school will be held by the Presbyterian Church, 800 E. Palatine Rd., Palatine, July 26 through Aug. 6.

Registration is open to all children of the area at the church after services on July 11 and 18 or by calling the church office, 358-4650. The fee is $1 per child or $3 maximum per family.

Classes are being planned for children three years of age through the sixth grade of the present school year.

Classes will be Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. The theme for 1971 is "Created by God," with the courses geared for different age levels and programs relating to separate themes for each level.

THE SECOND SUMMER reading contest began yesterday at the Inverness library. It's open to children from first through sixth grades. Summer library hours will be from 1 to 5 p.m. on Wednesdays.

From The Library

by the staff of the Palatine Library

One of the newest books at the library this week is a homeowner's guide with a twist. Robert Earl Barnes is a professional burglar, and in "Are You Safe From Burglars?" he reveals the tricks of his trade, and tells how you can best protect your personal property.

"Greetings — You Are Hereby Ordered for Induction," by Robert Liston, gives important facts and discusses meaningful issues about the military draft.

John Kenneth Galbraith, social scientist extraordinaire, has titled his latest effort "Who Needs the Democrats and What It Takes to Be Needed."

"Financial Independence Through Common Stocks," by Robert D. Merritt, is a new edition of the classic handbook for all investors who want to know how small savings, wisely invested, can grow into small fortunes.

"Sewing Children's Clothing Made Easy," gives easy-to-follow instructions for making clothes for children of all ages. The book includes special sections on costumes, decorative stitching and mending.

New York's Lower East Side's predecessor to Ann Landers is chronicled in "A Bintel Brief," 60 years of advice-column letters and answers edited by Isaac Metzker with notes by Harry Golden.

A new addition to the poetry collection is "The Poetry of the Negro: 1746-1970," Langston Hughes and Anna Bontemps edited this new edition showing the tremendous upsurge of Afro-American talent in the field of poetry.

A SURVEY OF 150 years of the poets of Illinois, including Edgar Lee Masters, Carl Sandburg, Gwendolyn Brooks and Vachel Lindsay is presented in "Illinois Poets: A Selection," edited by E. Earle Stibitz.

Biographies of two famous show business personalities are also new to the library. "Oliver: An Informal Portrait," by Virginia Fairweather, tells the story of Sir Lawrence's life since his post-war career, his two marriages, and the illness he has overcome.

"Don't Say Yes Until I Finish Talking" is the biography of the last of the living movie moguls, Darryl F. Zanuck, and the more than 600 films he has been involved with. It's by Mel Gussow.

"A November Wind," by Paul Geddes, is a spy thriller about the death of an undercover agent, and should interest the most sophisticated reader.

LEE SMITH's "Something in the Wind" is about a teenager who has made a life plan which not the usual one for a girl her age. The death of her teenage boyfriend and college add to her problems.

"Birds of America," by Mary McCarthy, is the story of Peter Levi, a naive young man who goes to Paris for College. The result is comedy, mixed with some mild disaster.

Harry Harrison has edited "The Light Fantastic," science fiction by mainstream writers, including Mark Twain.

Name Outstanding Graduate

A Palatine youth, William M. Hake, of 706 E. Meadow Ln., was named the outstanding 1971 graduate of St. Viator High School.

He is this year's winner of the Erdmann trophy, given annually to the St. Viator graduate that best exemplifies the school's ideals. Hake was chosen through a double vote, first by his classmates and then by the school faculty.

The Erdmann trophy is only the latest of many honors won by the Palatine student.

At St. Viator, Hake was a member of the National Honor Society, served last year as vice president of the Student Council, was a class officer and was a member of the baseball team. He received the baseball team sportsmanship award at the end of the 1971 season.

Outside of school, Hake has been quite active in the Palatine Township Youth Organization (The Joint) and served as president of the group from 1968-1969. He also won the American Legion Citizenship Award when he graduated from St. Thomas of Villanova Elementary School in Palatine.

The Erdmann trophy is named for a former St. Viator student who died in 1967 after a lengthy illness. The boy's parents, who reside in Arlington Heights, presented the trophy to the school in 1968, the year their son would have graduated.

Hake was chosen for the award among 236 seniors graduating from St. Viator. He will attend Notre Dame University in the fall.

Human Resources Center To Remain In Rolling Meadows

The Northwest Human Resources Development Center on Central Road, home of the Rolling Meadows Youth Referral Commission, is likely to remain in the city.

Last week, City Mgr. James Watson announced the counseling service would be forced to vacate its location in the former Sacred Heart of Mary convent, if a zoning change was not requested by the owners of the building. The property is now zoned for residential occupancy but needs a commercial zoning change for the counseling to continue.

Watson, however, said Tuesday he had received a letter from Sacred Heart of

Mary's New York headquarters asking what steps should be taken for rezoning. Watson issued the 60-day "cease and desist" order if the zoning was not applied for, but said he expects the zoning request to be sought and approved by city council before the deadline.

AT A COMMITTEE meeting this week Ald. Thomas Waldron released a petition showing a number of Sacred Heart of Mary nuns had signed in favor of the zoning change "to allow the service to continue."

The Rolling Meadows Youth Referral Commission is located in the convent, giving counseling service to city juveniles on everything from drug abuse to legal problems. Youth receive counseling from city residents who have taken a 10-week course of instruction from Thomas Jauch, director of the Northwest Human Resources Development Center and a sponsor of the Rolling Meadows Youth Referral Commission.

The youth referral program is funded by the city council and officials announced the program is working extremely well. Many of the referrals come from the city police department.

1,400 Teenagers Attend Peaceful Rock Festival

A rock concert at Wheeling High School Tuesday night drew a crowd of 1,400 teenagers and no trouble, despite fears of several Wheeling officials.

The concert was the first of a series of weekly shows at the high school each Tuesday this summer. Featuring promoter Dex Card and the rock groups "Crow" and "R.E.O. Speedwagon," Tuesday's show was monitored by six off-duty Wheeling policemen and by Wheeling Instrumental League chaperones.

Wheeling Police Chief M. O. Horcher said yesterday that there were no problem incidents at the concert. Horcher, members of the village police and fire commissions, and several village trustees were on hand at the show Tuesday.

Horcher said he has talked to several groups of students and found they were very enthusiastic about the show.

HE SAID one group of high school students he talked to had come from Rockford for the show, but most of the crowd was from the Northwest suburban area including Northbrook, Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights and Mundelein.

Tickets for the show sold for $2.50 each on Tuesday. Some of the profits from the concert will go to the Wheeling Instrumental League to help the WHS band.

Horcher said yesterday that he thought the young people at the show had learned something from the village's apprehension about the concerts. "The kids learned that there was a responsibility on them to see that it remained a calm, acceptable function. They had to 'police' themselves, because any disorder would have brought the wrath of the adult community," he said.

At Monday's village board meeting village officials decided to allow the first concert on Tuesday, but to use it as a guide in deciding whether additional concerts would be allowed and whether the village would issue a business license to promoter Dex Card.

Scanlon told the other board members that he saw no alternative but to permit

Tuesday's concert to go on.

ALTHOUGH VILLAGE Trustee Roger Stricker had said Monday that the off-duty policemen hired by Card could not wear their uniforms at the show, the six Wheeling policemen who worked on Tuesday were in uniform.

Board members had questioned if uniforms would mean the village was legally liable to insure the policemen even though they were not on duty.

Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon had told the board Monday that he would contact Card, the high school and the instrumental league to have representatives of the organizations at next Monday's village board meeting to discuss a retroactive business license for the concerts.

Stricker said Monday that he was questioning the concerts because no one representing the adults organizing the concerts was on hand to answer village board questions.

"What if they tear the whole school up? Six plainclothesmen aren't enough to deter a crowd," Stricker said.

STRICKER SAID however that he was in favor of the concerts even though he had reservations.

Scanlon told the other board members that he saw no alternative but to permit Tuesday's concert to go on.

"If you try to stop it you will have a riot," Scanlon said.

Scanlon urged the other board members, "We must have confidence in our youth."

Trustee Al Lang said he thought the trustees were wrong to expect trouble from the youths. "Youth is always maligned, we should think positively," Lang said.

"Safety Pays" is one of 12 talk programs available to schools, service clubs, church and women's organizations. The programs usually last about 30 minutes and are followed by a question and answer period.

Programs, as well as a variety of 16mm films, can be scheduled by calling Naomi Weaver at 741-8604.

There'll be no strawberry pickin' this season at Nevarr's Strawberry Patch, 1207 E. Oakton Rd. near Rte. 83 in Elk Grove Township.

Owner Art Niewardowski said simply that there would be no picking as in past years. He did not elaborate, saying only "maybe next year."

Art's seven-acre patch has attracted hundreds of strawberry lovers each year for several years and with good reason. He claimed to be the only one in Cook County who let the public in to pick strawberries.

On occasion, the strawberry patch attracted so many customers Cook County Sheriff's Police used a portable public address system to urge berry pickers back to their parked cars or face parking tickets.

Nevarr's is located near George Hasselman's mushroom farm at 1225 E. Oakton Rd. Hasselman is still in business.

Both locations are adjacent to Centex Industrial Park and some day may be swallowed up by industrial-minded developers.

Reveal Plan For Land Project At Algonquin-Golf

Almost a year has passed since the Rolling Meadows City Council approved the development of land south of Algonquin Road and north of Golf Road in the city.

Recently, however, officials received plans for use of some of the property, part as apartments and another small lot for what may be a service station.

Sverre Haug, building and zoning officer, said he has received plans for two, 7-story apartment buildings to be located on 11 acres just south of Algonquin Road. The building plans show 62-foot structures which are higher than allowed by city ordinances. The owners of the land, however, will ask for a special zoning commission to hear a request for code deviation.

Haug said 272 apartments are planned with approximately 173 one-bedroom apartments and 99 two-bedroom apartments.

Another special zoning commission will be set up by city council to hear plans for a zoning change from R-6 residential to C-3 commercial on three-acres of land.

Officials believe the plan may be for a gas station on the land north of the 11 acres to be developed as apartments.

IF A SERVICE station is planned, it will undoubtedly come before stiff opposition from aldermen who have placed a restrictive covenant on additional service stations on the land. When the land was annexed to the city, the city council limited the number of gas stations to be built on the tract to two and officials said they already exist.

J. C. Penney was given approval last year for construction of a retail discount store on the land between Algonquin and Golf roads, but Haug said he has received no word of when the Penney development will begin. When the development was approved, an opening date of 1972 or early 1973 was set.

The land to be developed is part of the former Isenstein-Parker property, annexed to Rolling Meadows three years ago after a battle with Arlington Heights over which municipality would annex the total 120-acres of property.

Teacher Bids Farewell In Letter

Leaving the classroom for summer vacation was a little personalized this year for students in Mrs. Ramona McCall's third grade class.

Rather than the students bringing apples or candy to the teacher to show their appreciation, Mrs. McCall gave each of her students short letters, complete with a joyous figure of Snoopy, thanking them for being an enjoyable class.

"You've been a good class; eager to learn, kind to each other and charming young ladies and gentlemen," Mrs. McCall wrote. "It's been busy, delightful, sometimes too noisy, always educational, with time out for laughter and fun."

She even advised her students to practice with flash cards and cursive writing, "so that you won't be rusty next fall in fourth grade."

She signed her letter, "with affection," and told her students to "look it up in the dictionary." The switch from the usual classroom tradition of students thanking teacher was well enjoyed by her class.

Cracker Barrel

MAYOR ROLAND Meyer is no Ken Holtzman, but he did show some signs of good pitching form at last Saturday's cub scout olympics at Carl Sandburg School. Meyer retrieved softballs, after the cubs competed in the softball throw. With a popsicle stick in his mouth, a Herald photographer captured Meyer in his pitching delivery.

ALD. THOMAS Waldron may have been taking some lessons from Arnold Palmer recently. He is near the top of the St. Colette golf league's most valuable player list. Rolling Meadows Fire Commissioner Ulbrich is also reportedly hitting a long ball in the St. Colette weekly matches.

ADMIRAL FERRY he's not but observers vacationing at a large body of water near Ottawa report Rolling Meadows Fire Trustees head James Service is navigating almost every weekend in his large cabin cruiser.

SPLASHING AND SWIMMING in the pool at the Rolling Meadows Sports Complex is everyone's favorite way to beat the heat in the summer. Local youths have been taking advantage of the pool each afternoon since its opening Sunday. However, in Rolling Meadows, the pool is not the only way to cool off in the warm months. For another method, turn to page two.

Zale Changes Development Plans

Edward Zale has changed his plans again for development of 24 acres near Plum Grove School in western Rolling Meadows.

City officials said Zale is now seeking rental apartments rather than the 393 condominium units recently proposed to the plan commission. He wants a change from R-5 to R-6 zoning to allow a higher density unit, according to City Mgr. James Watson.

"Zale has talked to his marketing men and now says he wants rental apartments" Watson said. Zale and Mayor Roland Meyer will meet this week to discuss the change.

Except for final approval by city council, Zale seemed destined to develop the land as condominiums after negotiations with Dist. 15. He agreed to pay $200 for each condominium unit or about $200,000 for the additional 336 students expected to be created by the development.

WHEN ZALE appeared before city of-

officials and a number of area residents opposed his plan, he received favorable response from the plan commission. But the rental concept will undoubtedly receive opposition from some aldermen, who say they oppose any new apartments in the city.

Zale has been trying to develop the 24 acres of land for a number of years. He first became involved during a court case between Rolling Meadows and Pal-

No Shortage Of Water Seen Here

Unlike some other area municipalities, Rolling Meadows will have no water shortage during the dry months this summer, according to Supt. of Public Works James McFeggan.

"Everything is fine. We have the capacity to supply water all summer," McFeggan said yesterday. He did point out that a mechanical failure could cause a water shortage, but only for a "short period of time."

A similar occurrence caused residents of Rolling Meadows to be asked to "slack off on their water use," two weeks ago, McFeggan added. An electrical failure at Well No. 4, which services the southern section of the city, required officials to ask that the water consumption be limited "for a couple of hours until we get the well fixed," according to McFeggan.

Rolling Meadows is one of the few area municipalities which has never sought a ban on water consumption during the summer months. McFeggan said he expects no ban this year.

THE CITY NOW operates from four underground wells and a fifth well is to be completed next week.

But a special city council committee has been established to study the possibility of acquiring water from Lake Michigan as the water table in the Northwest suburban area is lowering.

Ald. Kenneth Retzke, chairman of the committee, and other officials have been working with DAMP, an organization of Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mt. Prospect and Palatine studying the future water shortage. The DAMP group hopes to pipe water from Lake Michigan first to Mt. Prospect and then to the other western suburbs.

A study by city officials showed that by 1990 Rolling Meadows will have 50,000 residents who cannot be adequately served by the water well system because of the lowering water table.

On Dean's List

Three local students have been named to the Dean's List for the fall term at the College of St. Teresa in Winona, Minn.

Mary Pat Sweeney of 1369 N. Quentin Rd., Palatine, and Mary Pat Trauscht of 1776 Taft Ave., Rolling Meadows, made the list with straight A averages. Marianne Niesen of 3803 Holly Ln., Rolling Meadows, made the list with better than a B average.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew questioned the judgment of the New York Times and its top editors in acting in a "secretive and clandestine fashion" to publish classified material. He would not comment on the legal aspects of the injunction halting the Times from publishing further articles in the series, but he said that it was apparent to anyone who had ever worked in the Foreign Service "that no government can conduct its diplomacy on the pages of a newspaper or in the glare of public scrutiny."

Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, publisher of the New York Times, said the Nixon administration might try to benefit from disclosures in his newspaper about escalation of the Vietnam War by previous Democratic administrations. The publisher said the series, based on a top secret Pentagon study which came into the hands of the Times from an unidentified source, "does not have any deleterious effect on national security" and is, in essence, "past history."

A "loyal-to-Boyle" strike by the nation's soft coal miners gathered momentum for the third consecutive day despite a warning the walkout had created a national emergency. The strike was a protest over removal of United Mine Workers President W. A. "Tony" Boyle as a trustee of the union's welfare and retirement fund.

An underground nuclear test was detonated at Yucca Flat on the desert north of here and there was no radiation leakage, the Atomic Energy Commission reported.

The State

Illinois Speaker of the House W. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, derided the House Ethics Committee to undertake an "immediate and thorough" investigation of allegations of political involvement with horse racing interests.

The Illinois Bar Association said it is opposed to the Illinois plan for "No fault" automobile accident injury reparations supported by Gov. Richard S. Ogilvie.

Illinois Senate Republican Leader W. Russell Arrington, R-Evanston, recovering from a stroke suffered in January, announced he will not resume his Senate duties until next session, thus ending speculation he might return sooner.

The War

The controversial McGovern-Hatfield amendment that would have established a Dec. 31 deadline for withdrawal of American forces from Vietnam was defeated 55 to 42. A vote on similar legislation last year was defeated 55 to 39.

She Has Come A 'Long, Long Way'

For a teacher who started off holding class in a cottage on Campbell Street when Rolling Meadows was first born, Mrs. Harriet Foster has come a long way.

Principal of Jonas Salk School for nine years, Mrs. Foster will move her offices to the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 administration building in the fall to assume her new duties as director of special education.

"While I was in college, I had no idea I would become an elementary school principal," Mrs. Foster said. "Ten years ago, I wouldn't have thought I would be moving into special education."

Mrs. Foster, a resident of Palatine for 22 years, first taught in Dist. 15 in 1938, long before the district was consolidated, at the then Wood Street School. She met her husband in Palatine, then moved into Chicago for several years, returning to Palatine and Dist. 15.

She moved into the principal's role, after teaching second and third grades, in 1964 at Winston Park School in Palatine. She was also the first principal of Cardinal Drive School, staying there two years.

IT WAS DURING her years at Salk School that she was first exposed to the needs of special education and became involved in it.

After legislation in 1969 was passed in the state requiring that all children of all levels of ability be properly provided for in public schools, the special education program in Dist. 15 began to mushroom. The duties of the director expanded rapidly, requiring the assistance of a second person.

"I'll primarily handle the administrative side of the district's program," Mrs. Foster explained, taking away much of the pressure from the current head of the program, Arnon DeGuisne.

In her new position, Mrs. Foster will be in charge of finding housing for special education classrooms, assigning students to workable groups, hiring properly trained personnel, coordinating in-service training for teachers and ordering materials for the classes.

"Our objective with special education is to correlate these programs as closely as possible to our regular education," she said. "It's important to integrate the special education students during the day with the rest of the district's students."

MOVING FROM one phase of education to another has not bothered Mrs. Foster at all, although she says she cannot pick out which area she prefers. "You've got to go through each door as you come to it," she said, taking advantage of every opportunity.

Mrs. Foster's career as an educator has been carried on to her three children, all of which are elementary school teachers. Being both a parent and teacher has made her realize the importance of good relationships between the two.

"The one continuity in a child's life is in his parents," she said. "School really isn't all that important if the parents and teachers don't work together."

Two-Week Vacation Church School Set

A two-week vacation church school will be held by the Presbyterian Church, 800 E. Palatine Rd., Palatine, July 26 through Aug. 6.

Registration is open to all children of the area at the church after services on July 11 and 18 or by calling the church office, 358-4880. The fee is $1 per child or $3 maximum per family.

Classes are being planned for children three years of age through the sixth grade of the present school year.

Classes will be Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. The theme for 1971 is "Created by God," with the courses geared for different age levels and programs relating to separate themes for each level.

THE SECOND SUMMER reading contest began yesterday at the Inverness library. It's open to children from first through sixth grades. Summer library hours will be from 1 to 5 p.m. on Wednesdays.

1,400 Teenagers Attend Peaceful Rock Festival

A rock concert at Wheeling High School Tuesday night drew a crowd of 1,400 teenagers and no trouble, despite fears of several Wheeling officials.

The concert was the first of a series of weekly shows at the high school each Tuesday this summer. Featuring promoter Dex Card and the rock groups "Crow" and "R.E.O. Speedwagon," Tuesday's show was monitored by six off-duty Wheeling policemen and by Wheeling Instrumental League chaperones.

Wheeling Police Chief M. O. Horcher said yesterday that there were no problem incidents at the concert. Horcher, members of the village police and fire commissions, and several village trustees were on hand at the show Tuesday.

Horcher said he has talked to several groups of students and found they were very enthusiastic about the show.

HE SAID one group of high school students he talked to had come from Rockford for the show, but most of the crowd was from the Northwest suburban area including Northbrook, Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights and Mundelein.

Tickets for the show sold for $2.50 each on Tuesday. Some of the profits from the concert will go to the Wheeling Instrumental League to help the WHS band.

Horcher said yesterday that he thought the young people at the show had learned something from the village's apprehension about the concerts. "The kids learned that there was a responsibility on them to see that it remained a calm, acceptable function. They had to 'police' themselves, because any disorder would have brought the wrath of the adult community," he said.

At Monday's village board meeting village officials decided to allow the first concert on Tuesday, but to use it as a guide in deciding whether additional concerts would be allowed and whether the village would issue a business license to promoter Dex Card.

Scanlon told theater board members that he saw no alternative but to permit

Tuesday's concert to go on.

ALTHOUGH VILLAGE Trustee Roger Stricker had said Monday that the off-duty policemen hired by Card could not wear their uniforms at the show, the six Wheeling policemen who worked on Tuesday were in uniform.

Board members had questioned if uniforms would mean the village was legally liable to insure the policemen even though they were not on duty.

Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon had told the board Monday that he would contact Card, the high school and the instrumental league to have representatives of the organizations at next Monday's village board meeting to discuss a retroactive business license for the concerts.

Stricker said Monday that he was questioning the concerts because no one representing the adults organizing the concerts was on hand to answer village board questions.

"What if they tear the whole school up? Six plainclothesmen aren't enough to deter a crowd," Stricker said.

STRICKER SAID however that he was in favor of the concerts even though he had reservations.

Scanlon told the other board members that he saw no alternative but to permit Tuesday's concert to go on.

"If you try to stop it you will have a riot," Scanlon said.

Scanlon urged the other board members, "We must have confidence in our youth."

Trustee Al Lang said he thought the trustees were wrong to expect trouble from the youths. "Youth is always maligned, we should think positively," Lang said.

Leslie Horwath Receives Award

Second in her graduating class at Palatine High School, Leslie Horwath recently received a $500 scholarship from the Palatine Savings and Loan.

For the fourth consecutive year, the savings and loan has presented the award to a student at the school.

Miss Horwath was chosen by the school's scholarship committee on the basis of academic skills, character and extracurricular activities. She was active with the school newspaper and French Club. While holding a part-time job, she also participated in the choir and Young Life group at St. Theresa Church.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Horwath, 705 Meadow Ln., she plans to attend Northwestern University in the fall.

Attends Bible Study

The Rev. Dennis V. Griffin of Palatine's Christ Lutheran Church is attending a two-week orientation session in Madison, Wis. on the Bethel Series, an international Bible study program. The program is administered by the Adult Christian Education Foundation.

From The Library

by VIRGINIA CONNELL

"Goody, school's out." I imagine this is being heard all over the city from boys and girls. The first few days vacation are fun, then comes a time when youngsters say "mom, what can I do now?"

Send them to the library for books. The library has many old favorites as well as new titles. Books on hobbies, sports, puzzles, games for boys and girls, children from other lands and fiction.

A fun book for the first graders, who probably watch TV commercials and have heard the question asked "How tall do you want to be," is a new book by Sherry Kaffa. "Big Enough." Berrie Biddies is a little girl who was bigger than she looked. She was bigger than her baby sister who wore diapers. She was bigger than her dog. She could dial the phone and talk to her friends. She was big enough to even print her name, but she wasn't as big as mommy and daddy.

"The Way of the Ant" by Kazuo Mizumura. Is a story of a little ant who wants to climb up to the blue sky. On the way to the sky he climbs to the top of a dandelion, apple tree, an oak tree and a pine, but always it seems he must keep climbing on and on. The author and illustrator Kazuo Mizumura was born in Kamakura, Japan and studies art at Women's Art Institute in Tokyo.

"WHAT HAPPENS TO A Hamburger" is an excellent "Let's read and find out" science book for the young reader. This book explains the digestive system of the body. It explains some foods make you strong so you can learn to swim, some foods keep you warm so you can coast on a sled in the winter. Other foods build muscles so you are strong enough to stand on your head.

One new title for our small fry may leave mom and dad with raised eyebrows and not too happy. What if you had a little boy who didn't want a dog or a cat for a pet, but begged instead for a white rat. What happens? Let's just say boys will like 'Kenny's Rat' by Anne Kouts.

'Snapping Turtle's All Wrong Day' by Peggy Parish is not about a turtle at all, but a little Indian boy named Snapping Turtle who must find his mother a birthday gift. He can't even get his deerskin pants on without tripping, and he must find a birthday gift. He sets a bear trap. He's sure mother would like a bearskin rug. Guess who falls into the trap while picking red berries for a necklace for mama Indian's birthday? What, if anything, does Snapping Turtle find as a birthday gift?

PETER IS A patient boy who knows what he wants. He wants what most boys want. But does he get it? He gets a fish, but the fish doesn't know it's name, he gets a turtle, but turtles can't wag their tails. Read 'All the Lassies.'

What really happens in a hospital? Most children are afraid when told they will have to go to a hospital. This picture book, 'Elizabeth Gets Well' is written by a doctor and has full color illustrations by Jacqueline Blass.

Name Outstanding Graduate

A Palatine youth, William M. Hake, of 706 E. Meadow Ln., was named the outstanding 1971 graduate of St. Viator High School.

He is this year's winner of the Erdmann trophy, given annually to the St. Viator graduate that best exemplifies the school's ideals. Hake was chosen through a double vote, first by his classmates and then by the school faculty.

The Erdmann trophy is only the latest of many honors won by the Palatine student.

At St. Viator, Hake was a member of the National Honor Society, served last year as vice president of the Student Council, was a class officer and was a member of the baseball team. He received the baseball team sportsmanship award at the end of the 1971 season.

Outside of school, Hake has been quite active in the Palatine Township Youth Organization (The Joint) and served as president of the group from 1968-1969. He also won the American Legion Citizenship Award when he graduated from St. Thomas of Villanova Elementary School in Palatine.

The Erdmann trophy is named for a former St. Viator student who died in 1967 after a lengthy illness. The boy's parents, who reside in Arlington Heights, presented the trophy to the school in 1968, the year their son would have graduated.

Hake was chosen for the award among 236 seniors graduating from St. Viator. He will attend Notre Dame University in the fall.

ICE SKATING is no longer only a winter sport in Rolling Meadows. The ice arena at the Sports Complex will provide a full summer program of lessens and public skating. Even on the hottest of days, the ice will be in condition for skating.

Human Resources Center To Remain In Rolling Meadows

The Northwest Human Resources Development Center on Central Road, home of the Rolling Meadows Youth Referral Commission, is likely to remain in the city.

Last week, City Mgr. James Watson announced the counseling service would be forced to vacate its location in the former Sacred Heart of Mary convent, if a zoning change was not requested by the owners of the building. The property is now zoned for residential occupancy but needs a commercial zoning change for the counseling to continue.

Watson, however, said Tuesday he had received a letter from Sacred Heart of

Mary's New York headquarters asking what steps should be taken for rezoning. Watson issued the 60-day "cease and desist" order if the zoning was not applied for, but said he expects the zoning request to be sought and approved by city council before the deadline.

AT A COMMITTEE meeting this week Ald. Thomas Waldron released a petition showing a number of Sacred Heart of Mary nuns had signed in favor of the zoning change "to allow the service to continue."

The Rolling Meadows Youth Referral Commission is located in the convent, giving counseling service to city juveniles on everything from drug abuse to legal problems. Youth receive counseling from city residents who have taken a 10-week course of instruction from Thomas Jauch, director of the Northwest Human Resources Development Center and a sponsor of the Rolling Meadows Youth Referral Commission.

The youth referral program is funded by the city council and officials announced the program is working extremely well. Many of the referrals came from the city police department.

Rent To Triple For Maryville Space

Consider New School Site

River Trails School Dist. 26 officials are investigating alternatives to maintaining the River Road School at Maryville Academy, in an effort to avoid a rent hike for the Chicago Archdiocese owned facility.

Father John Smith, superintendent at Maryville, a home for dependent children in Des Plaines, proposed the rent hike in a letter read at a Dist. 26 school board meeting Tuesday. He suggested raising the rent from $5,000 to $17,050.

The more than 300 Maryville children have attended district schools, since Catholic Charities announced in 1968 it could no longer afford to educate the children. The district is reimbursed 100 per cent by the state for all tuition costs

DIST. 26 SCHOOLS

(including rent) incurred in educating the dependent children.

Approximately 125 Maryville children are attending district schools outside of the academy while 150 are attending the district's River Road School, located at the academy. During the first two years the district educated the Maryville children, it paid a dollar a year to rent the River Road School.

NOW FATHER SMITH has increased the rent (state reimbursed) because of Maryville's "tremendous expenses and our desire to stabilize the institution. Maryville must succeed (financially) on its own or it can no longer exist," he said.

Alternatives proposed by the Dist. 26 school board include the possibility of other school districts sharing the responsibility of educating the Maryville children. In addition, the board may investigate the possibility of housing the River Road School children in trailers and the possibility of using less space at Maryville by increasing the class sizes.

According to Father Smith, no one has ever computed the actual cost to the archdiocese of renting the classroom space in the River Road School. In his letter he said, "It is almost impossible to determine the district's percentage of the expenses. I think the best formula is to base the cost on square footage." The district was charged for 16,365 square feet at a rate of $1.25 per square foot. The footage includes 18 classrooms, along with the gym and the playground, which were listed as two classrooms.

Father Smith concluded his letter by saying, "I hope the proposed increase doesn't cause any consternation or difficulty. I hope you can see the justice and need for the increase of rent."

AS A RESULT OF a meeting Dist. 26 Supt. Winston Harwood had with state school officials in the spring, the district does not have to pay the rent bill until after it is reimbursed by the state for that bill. Consequently, the district does not even have to pay interest on a loan while waiting for reimbursement.

Nevertheless, some of the school board members were reluctant to accept the rent hike at the Tuesday meeting. After hearing Father Smith's letter, school board member Lee Hillman asked, "Should we stand for this?"

Board Pres. Harold Haney proposed that the district "look for other possible locations for the school (before accepting the bill)." He added, "the rooms we are renting don't even meet the requirements of the Illinois Life Safety Code."

A possible complication pointed out by Harwood is that the state does not always reimburse the district on time. "We are still waiting for $21,000 of the Maryville reimbursement, which we were supposed to receive in December."

IN ADDITION, some of the board members were concerned that the rent might be increased even more in future years. According to Harwood, the state has set no limit on how much rent the district must pay for the archdiocese's facility.

The ultimate solution to the problem, according to Harwood, is a state-built school that will accommodate the enrollment from Maryville. With the additional classrooms, the district would be able to integrate all of the Maryville children into schools outside of the academy, said Harwood.

One year ago, Harwood, in behalf of the district submitted a bill to the legislature which would have permitted the Illinois School Building Commission (ISBC) to finance construction of additional classrooms for wards of the state on a priority basis. The bill was defeated by a House committee. The proposal is, at this time, a dead issue, said Harwood.

NEW RIDES and more attractions will highlight the Prospect Heights Carnival this year. Workmen set up the carnival yesterday for its opening tonight.

Prospect Heights Carnival Begins 4-Day Run Tonight

The Prospect Heights Carnival will begin its four-day run tonight.

"The carnival is really big this year," reported Tony Haske, a Jaycee planning the event. "We have over 35 attractions, including nine rides and 18 concessions."

The carnival will be at the South Point Shopping Center at Wolf and Camp McDonald roads in Wheeling. It will be open from 7 to 11 tonight; 7 to 11 p.m. Friday; 1 to 10 p.m. Saturday; and 2 to 10 p.m. Sunday.

Rides include a kiddie ride, merry-go-round, ferris wheel, "twister," "tilt-a-whirl," "round-up," "hustler," "glass house," and "flying coaster." The McDermott Music Co. will operate the rides and the game booths.

Tickets will be sold by members of the Prospect Heights Woman's Club, which will get a share of the profits. The Prospect Heights Jaycee Wives will operate the food booths.

The Jaycees hope to earn at least $3,000 this year from the carnival operation. They moved the date and location of the carnival in the hope of earning a larger profit. The Jaycees plan to use the carnival profit for community projects.

Liebling To Intervene In Annex Suit

The Cook County Circuit Court has granted Arthur Liebling, owner of 40 acres recently annexed by the Village of Wheeling, permission to intervene in a suit seeking to cancel the annexation.

At a hearing yesterday, Judge Harry Comerford accepted Liebling's petition and granted him several days in which to answer the suit. The suit was filed by the state at the request of a Prospect Heights group called the "Wheeling Road Zoning Committee."

The suit charges that Liebling's land, located south of the St. Alphonsus Catholic Church in Prospect Heights, is not sufficiently contiguous to the village to be annexed. The residents claim the annexation is invalid. The residents also object to Liebling's plan to build apartments on the land, which was formerly in Prospect Heights.

THE COURT HAS continued the hearing so that Liebling may prepare his defense. The court will not set a new date for the hearing until Liebling answers the suit.

Before the hearing yesterday, Atty. Donald Kreger, who is representing the Prospect Heights group filed a motion asking the court to "settle the suit in our favor without a trial because it is not an issue of fact." Both parties agree that only the northwest corner of Liebling's land touches the village. The judge must decide whether that constitutes adequate contiguity.

After Kreger filed his motion, Atty. Paul Hamer, representing the Village of Wheeling, filed a similar motion calling for the judge to make a judgment before a trial in Wheeling's favor. Hamer also answered the residents' charge saying, "the site is sufficiently contiguous." He cited other court cases in which the term "contiguous" was defined as "near."

Seek Dog That Bit Area Youth

An 11-year-old Mount Prospect boy will have to undergo painful rabies shots if a dog that bit him Monday afternoon is not found.

Kurt Aspen, 311 E. Emerson St., was bitten below the buttocks as he was riding his bike past the parking lot of the Chicago and North Western Railway train station at Emerson Street and Prospect Avenue. Mount Prospect police said the incident occurred at approximately 5 p.m.

Kurt told police that a small grayish-white dog with long hair bit him. He said the dog was on a leash being held by a woman waiting to board the train. Kurt told police that after the dog bit him, the woman said she was sorry and handed the leash to a man who got in a late model blue car with the dog and drove away.

"WE WISH THE people with the dog would come forward for the sake of the child," said Police Chief Newell Esmond. He said owners of the dog should contact him at the police station. He said they will not be prosecuted.

Two Street Improvement Projects Have Problems

Progress toward the start of two traffic improvement projects in Mount Prospect has apparently slowed.

The two projects involve the improvement of the intersection at Northwest Highway and Central Road and improvements at three intersections on Main Street between Evergreen Avenue and Central Road.

Acting Village Mgr. John Zimmermann told trustees at Tuesday's village board meeting that plans to seek bids July 23 for the Northwest Highway-Central Road improvement had fallen through. As a result, the Illinois Division of Highways now plans to seek bids for that project in September.

Bill McManamon, acting village engineer, said that work on the project would take about three months. Total cost of the work is about $84,000 with the village and state each scheduled to pay $20,851. The remainder, about 50 per cent, is to be paid through the federal TOPICS (Traffic Operations Program to Increase Capacity and Safety) program.

Zimmermann said Tuesday that no final decision had been made on the TOPICS grants.

THE PLAN CALLS for updating and improving the signals and streetlighting at the intersection and for installing concrete medians with left-turn storage bays on Northwest Highway on both sides of the intersection.

Even though bids will not be sought until September, McManamon indicated work might start before 1972. He indicated that the nature of the improvements at the intersection were such that work could go on during the winter.

In connection with the intersection improvements, a traffic change will be made on Hi-Lusi Avenue between Prospect and Busse avenues. Northbound Hi-Lusi traffic will be allowed to only turn right onto Prospect Avenue. Previous plans had called for making that part of Hi-Lusi one-way southbound, but the plans were changed after a public hearing.

Village officials also said Tuesday that bids for the Main Street intersection improvements probably will not be sought by the state before next fall or early next year.

McMANAMON SAID the reason for this was a lack of state funds available for the project.

The holdup in bids for the Main Street project means that construction will not start until next year at the earliest, according to village officials. The project will take 90 construction days to complete.

The project is costing about $280,000 with the village paying almost 20 per cent of the sum and the state paying the remainder. Among the improvements will be a new design for the intersection of Evergreen and Main St. Plans also call for installation of left turn bays and improved traffic signalization at the intersection of Main Street and Central Road.

The plan also calls for widening Main Street to allow for the installation of left-turn bays at Busse Avenue.

Beautification Plan To Spread

The recent beautification project at Mount Prospect's Chicago and North Western Ry. station may only be a harbinger of things to come.

Work on the beautification of the railroad station was undertaken recently by the village's department of public works in cooperation with the Mount Prospect Woman's Club, Junior Woman's Club and the Garden Club of Mount Prospect.

However according to Mrs. G. J. Spencer, president of the junior woman's group, the beautification efforts in the village will be expanded next fall. "We plan to expand our efforts to include several areas of the village -- to set up a village-wide beautification effort," said

Mrs. Spencer.

Part of the plan calls for the participation of other civic groups in the village. She said efforts to enlist their support would begin in the fall.

Meanwhile work on the beautification of the railroad station grounds is almost complete.

Sprinkler lines and courtesy sidewalks were installed and sod was placed. Benches have been placed around the center circle walk. Flowers donated by Kellen's Country Florist and Garden Center were planted on the station grounds.

Mrs. Spencer said that the planting of bushes is tentatively scheduled for next fall.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew questioned the judgment of the New York Times and its top editors in acting in a "secretive and clandestine fashion" to publish classified material. He would not comment on the legal aspects of the injunction halting the Times from publishing further articles in the series, but he said that it was apparent to anyone who had ever worked in the Foreign Service "that no government can conduct its diplomacy on the pages of a newspaper or in the glare of public scrutiny."

Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, publisher of the New York Times, said the Nixon administration might try to benefit from disclosures in his newspaper about escalation of the Vietnam War by previous Democratic administrations. The publisher said the series, based on a top secret Pentagon study which came into the hands of the Times from an unidentified source, "does not have any deleterious effect on national security" and is, in essence, "past history."

A "loyal-to-Boyle" strike by the nation's soft coal miners gathered momentum for the third consecutive day despite a warning the walkout had created a national emergency. The strike was a protest over removal of United Mine Workers President W. A. "Tony" Boyle as a trustee of the union's welfare and retirement fund.

An underground nuclear test was detonated at Yucca Flat on the desert north of here and there was no radiation leakage, the Atomic Energy Commission reported.

The State

Illinois Speaker of the House W. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, directed the House Ethics Committee to undertake an "immediate and thorough" investigation of allegations of political involvement with horse racing interests.

The Illinois Bar Association said it is opposed to the Illinois plan for "No fault" automobile accident injury reparations supported by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie.

Illinois Senate Republican Leader W. Russell Arrington, R-Evanston, recovering from a stroke suffered in January, announced he will not resume his Senate duties until next session, thus ending speculation he might return sooner.

Fifty Persons In Elk Grove Township Receive Public Aid

Fifty persons in Elk Grove Township were receiving some form of public aid during the last year, either through Aid to Dependent Children or because they are aged, blind or disabled, according to a survey conducted by the League of Women Voters of the Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area.

The survey, conducted by the league, with members from Elk Grove Village, is an effort to determine need for low and moderate-income housing.

Elk Grove Township has fewer persons on public aid than three neighboring townships, the survey showed. Wheeling Township has 200 persons receiving public assistance; Palatine Township, 110; and Schaumburg Township, 80.

ANOTHER PART of the survey indicates six families in Elk Grove Village and 13 in Mount Prospect, part of which are in Elk Grove Township are participating in Operation Nutrition a supplemental food program for low-income families with children under 6 years old.

The survey shows 41 families in Arlington Heights participate in the food program.

Two hundred and six persons in Elk Grove Township contacted the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows between December, 1970 and March, 1971, the league said.

In addition, the league cited statistics that 100 students in High School Dist. 214 and 40 students in Arlington Heights Elementary School Dist. 25 take part in the free lunch program.

Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59 officials said 15 students took part in the program in the district.

League members also compiled statistics on the salaries of persons working in service jobs in the Northwest suburbs, including postal clerks and carriers who make $6,548 to start and $9,946 after 19 years.

SALARIES FOR hospital employees in the area are: $8,200 for a registered nurse; $6,700 for a practical nurse; $5,000 for a nurses aide; $4,800 for housekeepers; $6,300 for skilled maintenance men; $5,000 for unskilled maintenance men; and $5,200 for clerical workers.

The league said statistics were "indications of the need for housing for families of low or moderate-income . . . they should not be considered a total analysis of the need."

The report also said the league is waiting for the release of further data from the 1970 census, and results of surveys being conducted in Arlington Heights and Elk Grove Village to "determine housing needs among employees of local industries. When finished, these surveys will give a more complete picture of the situation."

Murder Trial Is Delayed By Finding Of Lost Videotape

A missing videotape recording, found this week by Arlington Heights Police, has caused another delay in the murder trial of an 18-year-old youth accused of the November 1969 slaying of an Arlington Heights service station attendant. Criminal Court Judge Daniel J. Ryan Tuesday granted a continuance of the trial until June 29 to allow state's attorneys and the defense attorney of the accused youth, James A. Helton, 18, to view the recording. They will do so today.

The tape is one of three such recordings made during December 1969 in connection with the stabbing murder of Fred Taillon, 60, of 661 N. Wilke Rd., Arlington Heights.

The two other tapes have been the subject of a motion made by defense attorney Melvin Kamm, who asked Judge Ryan to suppress statements made by Helton because they varied on both tapes.

POLICE SAID Tuesday that even if the videotape recordings are suppressed, written statements and the findings of the department's own investigation will be used to continue the prosecution of Helton. Assistant State's Atty. Michael Bolan is in charge of the case.

The tape, missing since December 1969, contains statements made by Helton, who is accused of killing Taillon during an early morning robbery Nov. 11, 1969 at the Arlington Park Shell service station, Wilke Road and Euclid Avenue, Arlington Heights.

Extend Deadline For Name The Park Contest

Deadline for entries in the Mount Prospect Park District "Name the Park" contest has been extended to July 9. Entries must be postmarked by that date.

Park district officials decided to extend the contest because they "felt that a lot of people just didn't know about it," said Paul Caldwell, assistant park director. He said the district has received about 75 entries.

Elementary school students living in the park district are eligible to enter the contest to rename three parks now being developed. The parks are now called South Park, Algonquin and Janice roads in Des Plaines; West Park, Golf and Busse roads, and East Park, Lonnquist Boulevard and William Street, both in Mount Prospect.

Students' entries should be mailed to: Name the Park Contest, Mount Prospect Park District, 411 S. Maple St. Entries must include the names of the students and must specify for which park the name is being submitted. Entries must also include the reason behind the name in 50 words or less, in the student's handwriting.

The names will be judged by members of the park board and the three winners will receive a family year-round swim pass, worth $36. Wall plaques will be given to the students and their schools.

Woman Would Like Abandoned Cruiser

An Arlington Heights woman wants to acquire the weather-beaten 25-foot cruiser that appeared in yesterday's Herald.

"We'd be happy to tow it away," said Mrs. Don Davis, of 803 W. Tanglewood Sq., in the northside Berkeley Square subdivision. "We've been looking for one for some time to put in our backyard — next to our pool."

The Davises would like to convert the boat, apparently abandoned on Algonquin Road near Dempster Street, to a dressing room for guests who use their 32 by 16 foot pool.

Mrs. Davis was told to contact the Illinois State Police who had planned to remove the boat this week.

"It would look nice for our luau," she added, noting that the newly organized Burr Oak Civic Association is hosting the event Saturday night in her backyard and space will be needed for guests to change.

Woman Is Injured In 3-Car Collision

An Arlington Heights woman was treated and released at Holy Family Hospital Tuesday after a three-car accident at Kensington and Wheeling roads in Mount Prospect.

Vicki Hall, 23, 1205 Hintz Rd., was taken to the Des Plaines Hospital after the car she was riding in was struck from behind by a car driven by Raymond Schmitt of Prospect Heights. James Hall, 23, 1205 Hintz Rd., Arlington Heights and Ronald Lab, 32, 1002 Wheeling Rd., Mount Prospect were drivers of the other two cars.

Police said Schmitt, 19, 404 Hillcrest Ave. hit Hall's car which in turn hit the car driven by Lab. Police said Lab was stopped waiting to make a left turn at the time of the accident.

Schmitt was charged with failure to reduce speed and is to appear in court July 14.

Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59 vote to ratify the teachers' contract for 1971-72 tonight, the move will indicate that relations between the board and the teachers have taken a 180-degree turn-around in four months.

In February the district survived a one-day teachers' strike that came as a result of a long and bitter dispute over class size and negotiation procedures on the 1970-71 contract.

Now, the district has become the first elementary district in the area to settle on a contract for the coming year. Apparently any negotiation fireworks will be reserved this year for other school districts.

Also, the settlement, which will give teachers a three per cent increase in the salary schedule for next year, is so low many area school officials have expressed surprise and delight. The settlement will probably serve as a pattern for neighboring districts.

In the past few years pay increases in this area have run between eight and 10 per cent. Officials of other financially pressed districts see the Dist. 59 settlement as a sign of relief from such raises, at least for one year.

FOR THE MEMBERS of the Teachers Council, the district's bargaining organization, the settlement was apparently completely acceptable. The membership approved the settlement by a 450 to 16 vote.

The reasons for the new harmony in the district are hard to pinpoint and officials for the district and the teachers seem in some ways unable to believe it themselves.

One reason for the cooperation, however, may have been indicated when Al-beon Waltman, assistant superintendent for personnel and chief administration negotiator, said about a week before the settlement was reached that he thought "both sides are very appreciative of the present economic conditions."

The simple fact, acknowledged by the teachers' negotiating team, is that the district didn't have much money to offer.

From a tactical standpoint, too, the early settlement, coming as it did just before the Dist. 59 tax rate referendum, worked to everyone's advantage.

District officials had said that none of the money from Saturday's referendum would go into teachers' pay increases, so by settling, the teachers did not risk losing any money in the unlikely event the referendum had passed.

BUT, AS ONE negotiator pointed out, by settling before the referendum, "We make sure that no matter what happens we won't get any less."

The failure of the referendum will probably mean larger class sizes and less help for teachers next year and the negotiator said, "At least we won't end up with less money for more work."

For the board and administration the settlement had two advantages. First, it was just possible a district at peace with its teachers might have been able to pass a referendum.

However, since that didn't happen, the board and administration can now concentrate on the budget without worrying about another strike or impasse. In these troubled times it gives them one less problem to think about.

The settlement probably means two more things. It is widely agreed around the district that the long impasse and strike last year didn't help anyone — not teachers, not administrators and not school board members.

The early settlement this year may well indicate that the lesson has sunk in — that both sides have realized they need each other and must maintain flexible and realistic positions.

IN ADDITION, the settlement, many observers indicate, is a tribute to the cooperation developed between two men — Supt. James Erviti and Teachers Council President Robert Beaupre.

Although neither actually took part in most of the negotiations, observers credit them with the early settlement. In fact, the negotiation session where the contract was agreed on was "tentatively postponed" until sometime in July until Erviti and Beaupre sat down together.

The new cooperation may or may not prove to be long-lasting. A district with a history of trouble like Dist. 59 faces an uphill fight.

But for the first time in a long time residents of the district can view news of teacher salary negotiations as "good news."

Progress Toward Improvement Of Streets Stalling

Progress toward the start of two traffic improvement projects in Mount Prospect has apparently slowed.

The two projects involve the improvement of the intersection at Northwest Highway and Central Road and improvements at three intersections on Main Street between Evergreen Avenue and Central Road.

Acting Village Mgr. John Zimmermann told trustees at Tuesday's village board meeting that plans to seek bids July 23 for the Northwest Highway-Central Road improvement had fallen through. As a result, the Illinois Division of Highways now plans to seek bids for that project in September.

Bill McManamon, acting village engineer, said that work on the project would take about three months. Total cost of the work is about $84,000 with the village and state each scheduled to pay $20,801. The remainder, about 50 per cent, is to be paid through the federal TOPICS (Traffic Operations Program to Increase Capacity and Safety) program.

Zimmermann said Tuesday that no final decision had been made on the TOPICS grants.

THE PLAN CALLS for updating and improving the signals and streetlighting at the intersection and for installing concrete medians with left-turn storage bays on Northwest Highway on both sides of the intersection.

Even though bids will not be sought until September, McManamon indicated work might start before 1972. He indicated that the nature of the improvements at the intersection were such that work could go on during the winter.

In connection with the intersection improvements, a traffic change will be made on Hi-Lusi Avenue between Prospect and Busse avenues. Northbound Hi-Lusi traffic will be allowed to only turn right onto Prospect Avenue. Previous plans had called for making that part of Hi-Lusi one-way southbound, but the plans were changed after a public hearing.

Village officials also said Tuesday that bids for the Main Street intersection improvements probably will not be sought by the state before next fall or early next year.

McMANAMON SAID the reason for this was a lack of state funds available for the project.

The holdup in bids for the Main Street project means that construction will not start until next year at the earliest, according to village officials. The project will take 90 construction days to complete.

The project is costing about $280,000 with the village paying almost 20 per cent of the sum and the state paying the remainder. Among the improvements will be a new design for the intersection of Evergreen and Main St. Plans also call for installation of left turn bays and improved traffic signalization at the intersection of Main Street and Central Road.

The plan also calls for widening Main Street to allow for the installation of left-turn bays at Busse Avenue.

Seek Dog That Bit Area Youth

An 11-year-old Mount Prospect boy will have to undergo painful rabies shots if a dog that bit him Monday afternoon is not found.

Kurt Aspen, 311 E. Emerson St., was bitten below the buttocks as he was riding his bike past the parking lot of the Chicago and North Western Railway train station at Emerson Street and Prospect Avenue. Mount Prospect police said the incident occurred at approximately 5 p.m.

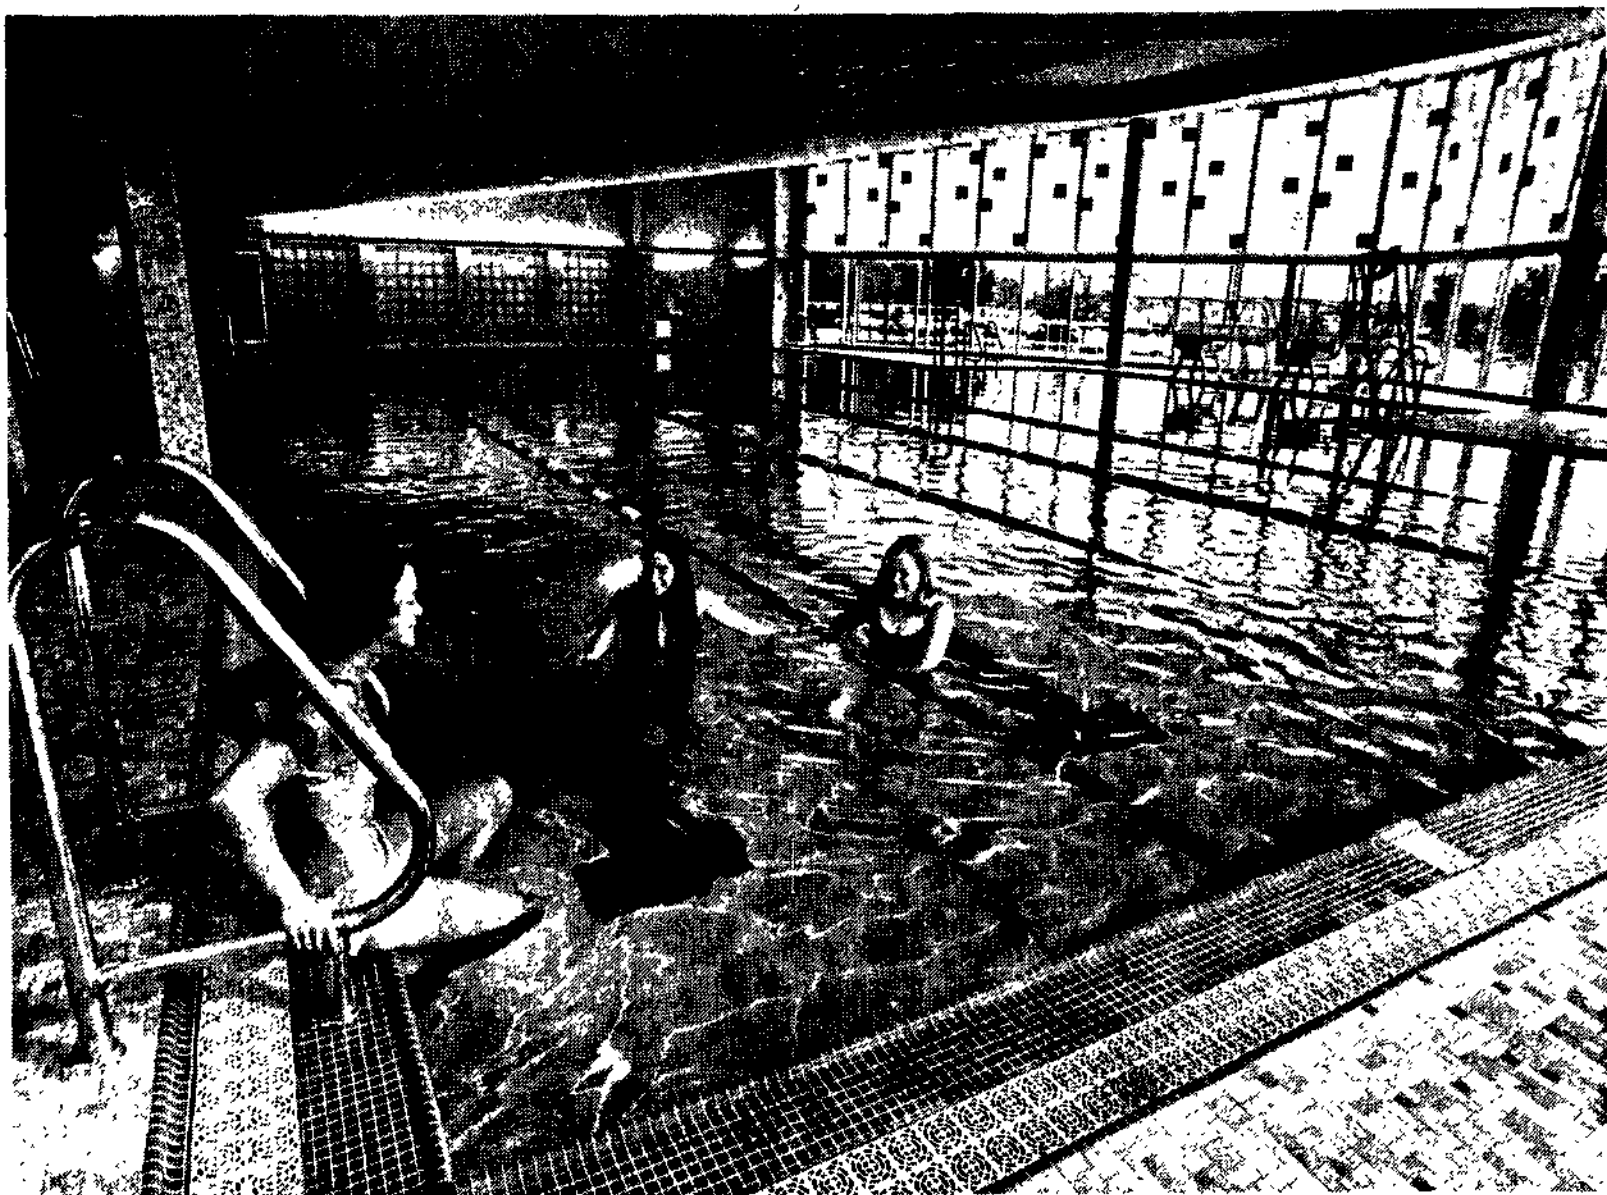

Kurt told police that a small grayish-white dog with long hair bit him. He said the dog was on a leash being held by a woman waiting to board the train. Kurt told police that after the dog bit him, the woman said she was sorry and handed the leash to a man who got in a late model blue car with the dog and drove away.

"WE WISH THE people with the dog would come forward for the sake of the child," said Police Chief Newell Esmond. He said owners of the dog should contact him at the police station. He said they will not be prosecuted.

If the dog is not found and tested for rabies, Kurt will have to receive one shot a day for 14 days for treatment. A spokesman of the Fahey Medical Center in Des Plaines where Kurt was treated described the shots as "very painful and expensive." He said the series should begin within a week of the time the bite occurred.

If the dog is found and does have rabies, Kurt will also have to undergo the treatment.

"The fact that the dog wore a leash and that it belongs to someone makes me think it is all right," she said. "My son also thinks the dog was wearing tags."

THESE THREE SWIMMERS went for a pre-dedication dip yesterday in the Northwest Suburban YMCA's new Thomas M. Blake Memorial Swimming Pool during a non news conference. The pool, part of a one million dollar expansion program at the Des Plaines "Y," will be dedicated Sunday, June 27. The three swimmers are, from

Teen Center To Stress Recreation

The teen center at Lions Park Recreation Center has undergone a change — a change that Mount Prospect Park District officials hope will give the center greater appeal.

The teen center, in the basement at 411 S. Maple St., reopened Monday after being closed more than a month ago for ceiling and floor installation. Before it closed, the center was a large room where teens could sit and talk but do little else. When it reopened, teens found pool and ping-pong tables, floor tennis courts and a small area set off just for talking. Before it closed, teens could smoke in the center. Now they can't.

"We have decided that we're in the business of recreation," said Paul Caldwell, assistant park director. "Before the center was nothing but a harbor for those who didn't have enough to do and they didn't do anything here either. We decided that's just not a recreation facility."

The decision to change the center was made by park district officials, according to Dale Johnson, recreation supervisor.

"We felt that a lot of kids wanted a place to go where they could be doing something instead of just sitting around," Johnson said. "We feel this will appeal to a greater number of teenagers."

Most are active even if they come here for only 10 minutes and leave. But they will come back," Johnson said he had several requests from teenagers to have more than just an empty room as a center.

JOHNSON SAID HE hopes to get one more pool table for the center and a shuffleboard game. The center also has a stereo hook-up where continuous music is played, and a vending machine.

Before the center was closed, dances were held frequently. Caldwell said dances will not be discontinued but will be held occasionally.

Hours for the teen center are 1 to 10 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 1 to 7 p.m. on Sundays. Caldwell said that when dances are held, the hours would be extended to 11:30 p.m.

The idea for a teen center originated when plans were made for Lions Park Recreation Center. Sam Geati, former teen center director, worked with committees of teens to plan the center's activities. However, Geati resigned before the center was officially opened on April 12 with the "Battle of the Bands." Since then park district recreation officials have planned the center's activities. Currently they do not intend to hire another full-time center supervisor.

Miss Mount Prospect To Be Crowned Saturday

Eight beauties will parade before judges Saturday night at Prospect High School. One will be named Miss Mount Prospect of 1971.

After a swim suit, evening gown and talent competition, judges will select the girl who will represent Mount Prospect in the contest for Miss Illinois. Each contestant has been privately interviewed by judges and the final selection will be made at the pageant. The contest is sponsored by the Mount Prospect Jaycees.

Prizes for this year's contest have been donated by several local businessmen. Among the prizes is the use of a new car for the summer, donated by Landor Oldsmobile, Inc. Miss Mount Prospect will also receive a $300 scholarship.

Tickets for the pageant, which begins at 7:30 p.m., are $1 and can be purchased from members of the Jaycees. They can also be obtained at the door of the school at 801 W. Kensington Rd.

CONTESTANTS for the title are: Stephanie Armenakis, 18, of 304 MacArthur Dr. Miss Armenakis is a recent graduate of Prospect High School and was president of Orchestra, a dance club at the school. She was honored as best dancer and has appeared in the school's variety shows and musicals. The 5'4" brunette has had training in ballet and jazz and will dance during talent competition. She hopes to attend Wisconsin State University in Oshkosh, Wis. in the fall.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew questioned the judgment of the New York Times and its top editors in acting in a "secretive and clandestine fashion" to publish classified material. He would not comment on the legal aspects of the injunction halting the Times from publishing further articles in the series, but he said that it was apparent to anyone who had ever worked in the Foreign Service "that no government can conduct its diplomacy on the pages of a newspaper or in the glare of public scrutiny."

Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, publisher of the New York Times, said the Nixon administration might try to benefit from disclosures in his newspaper about escalation of the Vietnam War by previous Democratic administrations. The publisher said the series, based on a top secret Pentagon study which came into the hands of the Times from an unidentified source, "does not have any deleterious effect on national security" and is, in essence, "past history."

A "loyal-to-Boyle" strike by the nation's soft coal miners gathered momentum for the third consecutive day despite a warning the walkout had created a national emergency. The strike was a protest over removal of United Mine Workers President W. A. "Tony" Boyle as a trustee of the union's welfare and retirement fund.

Illinois Senate Republican Leader W. Russell Arrington, R-Evanston, recovering from a stroke suffered in January, announced he will not resume his Senate duties until next session, thus ending speculation he might return sooner.

Fifty Persons In Elk Grove Township Receive Public Aid

Fifty persons in Elk Grove Township were receiving some form of public aid during the last year, either through Aid to Dependent Children or because they are aged, blind or disabled, according to a survey conducted by the League of Women Voters of the Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area.

The survey, conducted by the league, with members from Elk Grove Village, is an effort to determine need for low and moderate-income housing.

Elk Grove Township has fewer persons on public aid than three neighboring townships, the survey showed. Wheeling Township has 200 persons receiving public assistance; Palatine Township, 110; and Schaumburg Township, 80.

ANOTHER PART of the survey indicates six families in Elk Grove Village and 13 in Mount Prospect, part of which are in Elk Grove Township are participating in Operation Nutrition a supplemental food program for low-income families with children under 6 years old.

The survey shows 41 families in Arlington Heights participate in the food program.

Two hundred and six persons in Elk Grove Township contacted the Northwest Opportunity Center in Rolling Meadows between December, 1970 and March, 1971, the league said.

In addition, the league cited statistics that 100 students in High School Dist. 214 and 40 students in Arlington Heights Elementary School Dist. 25 take part in the free lunch program.

Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59 officials said 15 students took part in the program in the district.

League members also compiled statistics on the salaries of persons working in service jobs in the Northwest suburbs, including postal clerks and carriers who make $6,548 to start and $8,946 after 19 years.

SALARIES FOR hospital employees in the area are: $8,200 for a registered nurse; $6,700 for a practical nurse; $5,000 for a nurses aide; $4,800 for housekeepers; $3,300 for skilled maintenance men; $5,000 for unskilled maintenance men, and $5,200 for clerical workers.

The league said statistics were "indications of the need for housing for families of low or moderate-income... they should not be considered a total analysis of the need."

The report also said the league is waiting for the release of further data from the 1970 census, and results of surveys being conducted in Arlington Heights and Elk Grove Village to "determine housing needs among employees of local industries. When finished, these surveys will give a more complete picture of the situation."

Murder Trial Is Delayed By Finding Of Lost Videotape

A missing videotape recording, found this week by Arlington Heights Police, has caused another delay in the murder trial of an 18-year-old youth accused of the November 1969 slaying of an Arlington Heights service station attendant. Criminal Court Judge Daniel J. Ryan Tuesday granted a continuance of the trial until June 29 to allow state's attorneys and the defense attorney of the accused youth, James A. Helton, 18, to view the recording. They will do so today.

The tape is one of three such recordings made during December 1969 in connection with the stabbing murder of Fred Taillon, 60, of 661 N. Wilke Rd., Arlington Heights.

The two other tapes have been the subject of a motion made by defense attorney Melvin Kamm, who asked Judge Ryan to suppress statements made by Helton because they varied on both tapes.

POLICE SAID Tuesday that even if the videotape recordings are suppressed, written statements and the findings of the department's own investigation will be used to continue the prosecution of Helton. Assistant State's Atty. Michael Bolan is in charge of the case.

The tape, missing since December 1969, contains statements made by Helton, who is accused of killing Taillon during an early morning robbery Nov. 11, 1969 at the Arlington Park Shell service station, Wilke Road and Euclid Avenue, Arlington Heights.

According to Arlington Heights Police Det. Lt. George Ekblad, the tape was found in an envelope at the station. He said the case was so old that the tape had been overlooked and wasn't found until this week. He said the tape was made Dec. 27, 1969 and contained statements made by Helton in connection with the murder.

Helton and three other men were charged with murder two days later. Then, in April 1970, Helton reportedly told his story and the state dropped charges against the other three men, it did not have enough evidence to prove them.

Taillon was murdered in a robbery attempt in which his attacker netted $87, according to police. Taillon, investigation revealed, attempted to flee his attacker by running through a plate glass window, then running south on Wilke Road.

Police said he was chased and repeatedly stabbed as he ran across the street to a home at 6 N. Wilke. He was found dead on the porch of the home with 13 stab wounds on his neck and back.

Extend Deadline For Name The Park Contest

Deadline for entries in the Mount Prospect Park District "Name the Park" contest has been extended to July 9. Entries must be postmarked by that date.

Park district officials decided to extend the contest because they "felt that a lot of people just didn't know about it," said Paul Caldwell, assistant park director. He said the district has received about 75 entries.

Elementary school students living in the park district are eligible to enter the contest to rename three parks now being developed. The parks are now called South Park, Algonquin and Janice roads in Des Plaines; West Park, Golf and Busse roads, and East Park, Lonquist Boulevard and William Street, both in Mount Prospect.

Students' entries should be mailed to: Name the Park Contest, Mount Prospect Park District, 411 S. Maple St. Entries must include the names of the students and must specify for which park the name is being submitted. Entries must also include the reason behind the name in 50 words or less, in the student's handwriting.

The names will be judged by members of the park board and the three winners will receive a family year-round swim pass, worth $36. Wall plaques will be given to the students and their schools.

Now It's Up To Village Board

Zoning Denial Asked For Housing Project

by SANDRA J. BROWNING

The Arlington Heights Plan Commission voted last night to recommend denial of rezoning to allow a moderate-income housing project on the Viatorian land.

The request for rezoning, presented by the Metropolitan Housing Development Corporation, will now be forwarded to the Arlington Heights Village Board for a final decision, probably at the board's first meeting in July.

The commission's decision, passed by a 9-2 vote, was greeted by loud applause from the audience.

Lincoln Green, the moderate-income housing development, was proposed for a 15-acre portion of the land that also includes St. Viator High School, 1213 E. Oakton St. The housing site fronts on Euclid Street between Drury Lane and Dryden Place. At present, the site is zoned for single-family units and the MHDC was requesting multi-family zoning.

THE PROPOSAL includes 100 one-bedroom, 40 two-bedroom, 30 three-bedroom and 12 four-bedroom units for a total of 180. The $4 million development would include two-story townhouse-styled apartments and would rent to moderate-income families earning between $5,000 and $12,000.

During MHDC's presentation, Marvin Chandler, its president, said if the development was approved MHDC would form a citizens advisory group to help in planning and managing the development.

"All individuals and organizations who have shown an interest, favorable or otherwise, in the development" would be asked to serve on the committee, Chandler said.

He said members of the committee would be appointed by the village president and MHDC would work to try to implement the committee's suggestions.

Chandler said MHDC officials wanted to reaffirm their willingness "to work with the citizens of Arlington Heights to make the development an asset to the community."

WILLIAM J. MOORE, attorney representing two homeowners groups in the area of the project, said he would like to eliminate "the social issue, which is on the conscience of us all" from the discussion.

He asked the commission to look at the issue as a question of land use in a particular location.

Moore said some of MHDC's reports and studies included conclusions that were "self-serving and self-drawn."

The attorney said there might be a place somewhere in the village for moderate-income housing, but the Viatorian land wasn't it.

In making the motion for denial, Leo Mueller, a member of the plan commission, said that at no point had it been shown that the development was not high-density spot zoning. He said the plan commission would be "derelict in its duties to approve the project."

THE MOTION was seconded by plan commission member David Patterson. The only "no" votes on the motion to deny the zoning request were cast by John Langhenry and Madeline Schroeder, members of the commission.

After the vote was taken, MHDC officials were told the final decision will be made by the village board at a date yet to be determined.

Chandler said MHDC planned to follow through on its request and appear before the village board. Asked if MHDC would take the issue to court, Chandler merely replied, "We'll cross that bridge when we come to it."

MEMBERS OF THE Arlington Heights Plan Commission last night heard testimony from officials of the Metropolitan Housing Development Corporation on the proposed moderate-income housing development on a 15-acre site in the village. The meeting, at John Hersey High School, 1900 E. Thomas St., Arlington Heights, was the third hearing on the project. About 250 persons attended.

Singing Group Records Album

The Harmonettes at Arlington Heights School, 502 W. Euclid St., Arlington Heights, have recorded an album on the Decca label.

The Harmonettes are a "select" singing ensemble of 13 girls accompanied by Ellen Olson and directed by Boyd White. The ensemble includes Karen Ahnquist, Linda Blocki, Pam Burkhardt, Cathy Cushing, Pam Hodges, Barb Hudec, Eve Lacker, Marta Larson, Jan Parvin, Linda Schoepke, Leslie Skarra, Mary Snyder and Linda Westphal. The group of local girls has sung at many events throughout the Chicagoland area including at McCormick Place for the International Flower and Garden Show, at the Marriott Hotel for the annual Bell and Howell convention and at Great Lakes Naval Hospital for patients.

The album will include some of the group's favorite numbers, "Close to You," "Love Story," "Spinnin' Wheel" and "Hey Look Me Over."

Fire Station Is Drop Off For Bottles

Residents may begin to drop off glass bottles and metal cans today at the new permanent location established by the village of Arlington Heights.

The drop-off location was established because of the high interest shown in the temporary drop-off points during "1971 Earth Week," held in April by the village.

The 24-hour-a-day site is at the rear of the south fire station, 2000 S. Arlington Heights Road. Bins are provided for white, brown, green and other colored glass. Receptacles are also provided for cans, either tin or aluminum. Residents are asked to separate their refuse into the appropriate bins which are marked.

Before depositing glass bottles, residents should remove all metal caps and rings from the bottles. If this is not done, these metal pieces are almost impossible to separate from the glass as the bottles become broken.

The bins will be periodically emptied and the materials will be taken to recycling plants. The bins for the drop-off location were donated by Laseke Disposal Co. and were painted by the village's public works department which will also be responsible for emptying the bins.

VILLAGE EMPLOYEES have been working on establishing a permanent drop-off point since the earth week activities in April. The fire station location was chosen so the facility would have supervision 24-hours a day and be available to residents around the clock. Also, fire department employees will be able to watch the bins and alert the public works department when the bins need to be emptied.

Additional locations will be established, including one at the north fire station in the village. If participation in the project warrants it, another centrally located drop-off point and perhaps more will be set up.

The money the village receives from recycling plants will be put into separate account for special projects relating to ecology.

Teachers Contract May Set Pattern

by WANDALYN RICE
A News Analysis

Should the Board of Education of Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59 vote to ratify the teachers' contract for 1971-72 tonight, the move will indicate that relations between the board and the teachers have taken a 180-degree turn-around in four months.

In February the district survived a one-day teachers' strike that came as a result of a long and bitter dispute over class size and negotiation procedures on the 1970-71 contract.

Now, the district has become the first elementary district in the area to settle on a contract for the coming year. Apparently any negotiation fireworks will be reserved this year for other school districts.

Also, the settlement, which will give teachers a three per cent increase in the salary schedule for next year, is so low many area school officials have expressed surprise and delight. The settlement will probably serve as a pattern for neighboring districts.

In the past few years pay increases in this area have run between eight and 10 per cent. Officials of other financially pressed districts see the Dist. 59 settlement as a sign of relief from such raises, at least for one year.

FOR THE MEMBERS of the Teachers Council, the district's bargaining organization, the settlement was apparently completely acceptable. The membership approved the settlement by a 450 to 16 vote.

The reasons for the new harmony in the district are hard to pinpoint and officials for the district and the teachers seem in some ways unable to believe it themselves.

One reason for the cooperation, however, may have been indicated when Albeon Waltman, assistant superintendent for personnel and chief administration negotiator, said about a week before the settlement was reached that he thought "both sides are very appreciative of the present economic conditions."

The simple fact, acknowledged by the teachers' negotiating team, is that the district didn't have much money to offer.

From a tactical standpoint, too, the early settlement, coming as it did just before the Dist. 59 tax rate referendum, worked to everyone's advantage.

District officials had said that none of the money from Saturday's referendum would go into teachers' pay increases, so by settling, the teachers did not risk losing any money in the unlikely event the referendum had passed.

BUT, AS ONE negotiator pointed out, by settling before the referendum, "We make sure that no matter what happens we won't get any less."

The failure of the referendum will probably mean larger class sizes and less help for teachers next year and the negotiator said, "At least we won't end up with less money for more work."

For the board and administration the settlement had two advantages. First, it

Home Rule Talk Is Slated Here

Home rule and what it will mean to Arlington Heights residents will be the topic of a general meeting of the Arlington Acres Civic Association Thursday, June 24, at 8 p.m.

The meeting will be held in Thomas Junior High School, 303 E. Thomas St., and is open to the public.

Guest speakers will be Jack Walsh, president of Arlington Heights, Mrs. Virginia Macdonald and John Woods, both delegates to the Illinois Constitutional Convention, and Joan Anderson, a representative of the Illinois State Department of Local Government.

Effective July 1, the new state constitution provides that villages in the state with a population of 25,000 or more, will receive power to legislate under home rule. Each speaker will give their interpretation of the new law.

Futurities

The Dist. 59 Board of Education will hold a special meeting at 8 p.m. today in the district's administration building, 2123 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

Festival To Blend Art, Drama, Music

Art work, drama and music will blend together during the July 10 "Art in the Park" sponsored by the Arlington Heights Park District.

The noon to dusk "happening" will be held at Recreation Park, 500 E. Miner St., and will include a multi-media art show, musical groups and a one-act melodrama.

Last year, an art festival was held in early June and was sponsored by the Arlington Heights Cultural Commission. The event drew thousands of people to the proposed site for a future cultural center, a block of land just south of the Arlington Heights Memorial Library, 500 N. Dunton Ave.

Cultural commissioners indicated they would probably not hold another art festival this year and the idea for a local art exhibit was picked up by the park district.

The one-act melodrama, "Curse You, Jack Dalton," will be presented by the Village Theatre.

A QUALIFIED group of judges will select superior, excellent and honorable mention exhibits in the following categories: photography, painting, drawing, sculpture, weaving, pottery and a potpourri boutique.

Rules for entrants in the art portion of the activity include all exhibitors being 18 years old or older, professional and commercial exhibits being accepted and the park district reserving the right to reject any entry.

Art work will be for sale and artists will be required to pay a 20 per cent commission to the park district on any work they sell. Each exhibitor will be supplied with a four-foot by eight-foot peg board display surface. Each exhibitor will be required to supply his own peg board hooks, tables and chairs.

Each artist will be responsible for supplying people to watch his art work and all displays must be removed no later than 8:30 p.m. the day of the show.

All entries must be submitted by 5 p.m. July 8 to the park district's administration offices in Olympic Park, 660 N. Ridge Ave. Entry forms will be available next week at the park offices.

JOHN CAMPBELL prepares to hang his favorite decoration on the wall of Hoffman Lanes, which he manages.

It is a thank you note from young guests.

Kids Say Thanks For Bowling Party

by NANCY COWGER

John Campbell, manager of Hoffman Lanes, Higgins and Roselle roads, Hoffman Estates, is a very grateful man.

Campbell is grateful to 66 children who took the time to be grateful to him, and tell him so.

He has received a 10-foot thank you note from children enrolled in classes for the mentally retarded run by the Northwest Suburban Special Education Association. The children and their teachers thanked Campbell for a bowling party he gave them.

The youngsters from Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, Arlington Heights, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Palatine and Rolling Meadows visited Campbell at his invitation June 8. He closed his bowling alley to all persons not connected with the class, and the children had the run of the place from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

CAMPBELL TOOK the children on a tour of the alley, explaining the workings of automatic pin machines and ball returns. Each youngster bowled three games, and several availed themselves of pool tables.

The children had lunch eating sack lunches they brought with them and drinking soft drinks Campbell supplied. Then he began "feeding" the juke box for a short dance party.

"It is really heartwarming to see what the kids have done," said Campbell, who likes to show handicapped people a good time. He emphasized he wanted the youngsters to "get the credit" for having thanked him, and for having conducted themselves so well while they were in his establishment.

Campbell has made the facilities of the bowling alley available free of charge to groups of handicapped persons for the past five or six years, he said. "All they have to do is ask."

HE DOES IT because he feels it helps them, and because it gives him pleasure. The physical activity "is great therapy," and the people who have come "have a lot of fun," he said.

Campbell does not own the alley, but he manages it. The owners are aware of his practice of bringing in groups of physically and mentally handicapped for free bowling, and never have questioned it, said Campbell. They consider it good public relations.

Campbell does it because it seems to be good for the handicapped, and because it is his way of doing a good turn for someone else.

The children's pleasure in what he can give them is all he looks for.

And that "thank you" note — that to him is real reason for pride. That the children thought enough of him to write it makes him glow with pleasure and gratitude.

Their comments on the note make him beam. "You are a great guy," and "You 'strike' us as being nice," and "We had a wonderful time," are his thank you.

"That note is 10 feet long," he explained. "I've got it on the wall, and I wouldn't take it down for anyone."

Charge Custodian At Cooper Junior

A custodian at James Fenimore Cooper Junior High School in Buffalo Grove was arrested Tuesday by police and charged with taking indecent liberties with a child in connection with an alleged incident at the school last week.

Police arrested Elais Martinez, of 29 W. Rand Rd., Arlington Heights, at the school shortly after 3 p.m.

After being charged, he was released on $1,500 bond. He will appear in Arlington Heights Court July 20.

Commenting on the charge Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill said, "We want this thing to be tried and have both sides heard. The charge is serious to us from the standpoint that the guy is automatically guilty in the public's view, if they aren't acquainted with him."

Teachers' Pact A Pattern For Others?

was just possible a district at peace with its teachers might have been able to pass a referendum.

However, since that didn't happen, the board and administration can now concentrate on the budget without worrying about another strike or impasse. In these troubled times it gives them one less problem to think about.

The settlement probably means two more things. It is widely agreed around the district that the long impasse and strike last year didn't help anyone — not teachers, not administrators and not school board members.

The early settlement this year may well indicate that the lesson has sunk in — that both sides have realized they need each other and must maintain flexible and realistic positions.

IN ADDITION, the settlement, many observers indicate, is a tribute to the co-operation developed between two men — Supt. James Ertvi and Teachers Council President Robert Beaupre.

Although neither actually took part in most of the negotiations, observers credit them with the early settlement. In fact, the negotiation session where the contract was agreed on was "tentatively postponed" until sometime in July until Ertvi and Beaupre sat down together.

The new cooperation may or may not prove to be long-lasting. A district with a history of trouble like Dist. 59 faces an uphill fight.

But for the first time in a long time residents of the district can view news of teacher salary negotiations as "good news."

Library Goal: Balanced Collection

Making sure the best-sellers are on the shelf is only a small part of the problem of buying books at the Arlington Heights Memorial Library.

Sometimes, when a book gets a great deal of advance publicity, the library can anticipate demand and buy several copies, Hazel Wegner, head of acquisitions for the library, said.

But more than 70 per cent of the 30,000 books the library purchased last year are single copies usable by the many students and businessmen in the community.

Even before the new library was built and the voters approved book bonds for purchases, "We were always able to keep up well with current best-seller things," executive librarian Harold Ard, said.

IN THE LAST SEVERAL years, however, the goal has been to build a well-balanced collection, he said.

Mrs. Wegner and other staff members watch standard book review publications and all other possible sources on materials. Some staff members are experts in certain subject areas and make recommendations for purchase from their sources, Ard said.

"You might see a title in a very strange place," he said, "but that doesn't mean it isn't good."

In addition, users of the library can help by filling out suggestion forms at the front desk asking either about a specific title or about a subject area.

The library's law, business reference and English and American history sections are particularly strong, Ard said. The history section has been adding more and more primary sources to the collection.

The library staff has compiled a list of the business reference books in the collection and will place them in banks and other businesses, Ard said.

IN ADDITION, the library is always working to build up other parts of the collection. "We never reach a point of being satisfied with our collection," Ard said.

And every user, whether he be a graduate student or someone interested in science fiction, can get help from the library staff. "If a 6-year-old has a legitimate question, we will work just as hard as if he was 60," Ard said. "We have a responsibility to the recreational reader as well as the researcher."

Stull Is Out Of Hospital

Dist. 23 School Board member John Stull was released from Northwest Community Hospital Saturday 4½ weeks after being injured in an automobile accident.

Stull, 27, was hospitalized last month after an automobile accident at Colfax Street and Quentin Road in Palatine. The Prospect Heights resident remained in "serious" condition for several weeks with head injuries and facial lacerations. This month he underwent major therapeutic surgery.

Senior Citizens To Swim Free?

Senior citizens may begin getting cut rates or free swimming passes and programs, compliments of the Arlington Heights Park District.

At last week's park board meeting, Thomas Thornton, director of parks and recreation, suggested elimination of any charges for residents who are 65 years old and older and who want to obtain swimming pool passes. Thornton said the new policy would not substantially affect the park district's receipts and "we should do something for them."

Board member Roy Bressler suggested issuing a special gold card for senior citizens. This card could be used for admission to swimming pools and registration in park programs for a special fee or for no cost.

The park board directed the park staff to present recommendations on a special policy at the board's next meeting.

1,400 Teens, No Trouble, At Area Rock Concert

A rock concert at Wheeling High School Tuesday night drew a crowd of 1,400 teenagers and no trouble, despite fears of several Wheeling officials.

The concert was the first of a series of weekly shows at the high school each Tuesday this summer. Featuring promoter Dex Card and the rock groups "Crow" and "R.E.O. Speedwagon." Tuesday's show was monitored by six off-duty Wheeling policemen and by Wheeling Instrumental League chaparrons.

Wheeling Police Chief M. O. Horcher said yesterday that there were no problem incidents at the concert. Horcher, members of the village police and fire commissions, and several village trustees were on hand at the show Tuesday.

Horcher said he has talked to several groups of students and found they were very enthusiastic about the show.

HE SAID one group of high school students he talked to had come from Rockford for the show, but most of the crowd was from the Northwest suburban area including Northbrook, Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Mount Prospect, Prospect Heights and Mundelein.

Tickets for the show sold for $2.50 each on Tuesday. Some of the profits from the concerts will go to the Wheeling Instrumental League to help the WHS band.

Horcher said yesterday that he thought the young people at the show had learned something from the village's apprehension about the concerts. "The kids learned that there was a responsibility on them to see that it remained a calm, acceptable function. They had to 'police' themselves, because any disorder would have brought the wrath of the adult community," he said.

At Monday's village board meeting village officials decided to allow the first concert on Tuesday, but to use it as a guide in deciding whether additional concerts would be allowed and whether the village would issue a business license to promoter Dex Card.

Scanlon told the other board members that he saw no alternative but to permit Tuesday's concert to go on.

ALTHOUGH VILLAGE Trustee Roger Stricker had said Monday that the off-duty policemen hired by Card could not wear their uniforms at the show, the six Wheeling policemen who worked on Tuesday were in uniform.

Board members had questioned if uniforms would mean the village was legally liable to insure the policemen even though they were not on duty.

Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon had told the board Monday that he would contact Card, the high school and the instrumental league to have representatives of the organizations at next Monday's village board meeting to discuss a retroactive business license for the concerts.

Stricker said Monday that he was questioning the concerts because no one representing the adults organizing the concerts was on hand to answer village board questions.

"What if they tear the whole school up? Six plainclothesmen aren't enough to deter a crowd," Stricker said.

STRICKER SAID however that he was in favor of the concerts even though he had reservations.

Scanlon told the other board members that he saw no alternative but to permit Tuesday's concert to go on.

"If you try to stop it you will have a riot," Scanlon said.

Scanlon urged the other board members, "We must have confidence in our youth."

Trustee Al Lang said he thought the trustees were wrong to expect trouble from the youths. "Youth is always maligned, we should think positively," Lang said.

6 Graduate From Traffic Training

Six Northwest suburban policemen were among 100 officers Saturday to graduate from the Northwestern University Traffic Institute's traffic police administration training program.

The men, including Sgt. Jack Weber, Arlington Heights police, were graduates of the largest class in the 35-year history of the institute. It was the institute's 113th commencement.

Graduates included officers from the 30 states, Guam and five foreign countries.

The men each received a gold traffic institute key, symbolizing completion of the nine month course, which offers instruction in traffic law enforcement, crime control and public relations. The institute is a service organization dedicated to training policemen for management and administration.

Three Area Youths Become Eagle Scouts

The following boys received their Eagle Scout Badge:

Don Bailey, 553 Juniper, Palatine; Steve Brewer, 2030 N. Pinetree Drive, Arlington Heights; and Tom Prechal, 603 E. Crestwood Drive, Arlington Heights. Bailey is a freshman at Palatine High School and Brewer and Prechal are both freshmen at John Hersey High School.

The awards were presented to the boys by William Cormack, scoutmaster. Troop 268 is sponsored by the Ivy Hill Civic Association and meets at Ivy Hill School.

Only about one per cent of all boys in scouting in the United States achieve the rank of Eagle Scout each year. The Eagle Scout badge represents accomplishment in scouting skills, in teamwork as a member and leader of his troop or patrol, and in Scout spirit as represented by living the scout oath and law.

School Board, Teachers On Good Terms

by WANDALYN RICE
A News Analyst

Should the Board of Education of Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59 vote to ratify the teachers' contract for 1971-72 tonight, the move will indicate that relations between the board and the teachers have taken a 180-degree turn-around in four months.

In February the district survived a one-day teachers' strike that came as a result of a long and bitter dispute over class size and negotiation procedures on the 1970-71 contract.

Now, the district has become the first elementary district in the area to settle on a contract for the coming year. Apparently any negotiation fireworks will be reserved this year for other school districts.

Also, the settlement, which will give teachers a three per cent increase in the salary schedule for next year, is so low many area school officials have expressed surprise and delight. The settlement will probably serve as a pattern for neighboring districts.

In the past few years pay increases in this area have run between eight and 10 per cent. Officials of other financially pressed districts see the Dist. 59 settlement as a sign of relief from such raises, at least for one year.

FOR THE MEMBERS of the Teachers Council, the district's bargaining organization, the settlement was apparently completely acceptable. The membership approved the settlement by a 450 to 16 vote.

The reasons for the new harmony in the district are hard to pinpoint and officials for the district and the teachers seem in some ways unable to believe it themselves.

One reason for the cooperation, however, may have been indicated when Al-beon Walman, assistant superintendent for personnel and chief administration negotiator, said about a week before the settlement was reached that he thought "both sides are very appreciative of the present economic conditions."

The simple fact, acknowledged by the teachers' negotiating team, is that the district didn't have much money to offer.

From a tactical standpoint, too, the early settlement, coming as it did just before the Dist. 59 tax rate referendum, worked to everyone's advantage.

District officials had said that none of the money from Saturday's referendum would go into teachers' pay increases, so by settling, the teachers did not risk losing any money in the unlikely event the referendum had passed.

BUT, AS ONE negotiator pointed out, by settling before the referendum, "We make sure that no matter what happens we won't get any less."

The failure of the referendum will probably mean larger class sizes and less help for teachers next year and the negotiator said, "At least we won't end up with less money for more work."

For the board and administration the settlement had two advantages. First, it was just possible a district at peace with its teachers might have been able to pass a referendum.

However, since that didn't happen, the board and administration can now concentrate on the budget without worrying about another strike or impasse. In these troubled times it gives them one less problem to think about.

The settlement probably means two

KEEP YOUR HEAD down, left arm straight and don't take your eye off the ball. Golf's an easy game for youngsters in the Des Plaines Park District's summer golf lesson program at Lake Zuccarini. According to the park district office, there are still a few openings available in the golf program.

A CAST ON his right arm complicates things a little but Tom Fang still manages to keep his head down during the park district golf classes.

Group Formed To Create Flood Plan

The Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) is forming an organization of communities on the Des Plaines River to help create a comprehensive flood prevention plan.

The organization, which met last night in Westchester, will examine drainage problems caused by population growth in north Cook County and increased building construction which has changed drainage patterns, according to Richard Lanyon, MSD engineer of flood control.

It will be named the Des Plaines River Steering Committee.

The group will be one of several in the Chicago metropolitan area which will help to create and carry out an area-wide flood control plan for the rest of this century, Lanyon said.

THE LOCAL GROUPS will help coordinate federal, state and area programs. They will also help gather information and local opinion, Lanyon said.

Formation of local groups is a response to a desire for flood control planning from individual communities, which cannot attack flood problems without the cooperation of other communities, he said.

The Des Plaines group will include communities in three counties including Illinois Cook and Lake, and Kenosha County, in Wisconsin.

The local group effort is patterned after the Salk Creek Watershed group, in the far northwest suburbs, which prepared a comprehensive report and gained the aid of federal agencies, Lanyon said.

Topics at the organizational meeting included discussions of drainage and sewage problems, and possible solutions, Lanyon said.

Teen Center Will Emphasize Recreation

The teen center at Lions Park Recreation Center has undergone a change — a change that Mount Prospect Park District officials hope will give the center greater appeal.

The teen center, in the basement at 411 S. Maple St., reopened Monday after being closed more than a month ago for ceiling and floor installation. Before it closed, the center was a large room where teens could sit and talk but do little else. When it reopened, teens found pool and ping-pong tables, floor tennis courts and a small area set off just for talking. Before it closed, teens could smoke in the center. Now they can't.

"We have decided that we're in the business of recreation," said Paul Caldwell, assistant park director. "Before the center was nothing but a harbor for those who didn't have enough to do and they didn't do anything here either. We decided that's just not a recreation facility."

The decision to change the center was made by park district officials, according to Dale Johnson, recreation supervisor.

"We felt that a lot of kids wanted a place to go where they could be doing something instead of just sitting around," Johnson said. "We feel this will appeal to a greater number of teenagers. Most are active even if they come here for only 10 minutes and leave. But they will come back." Johnson said he had several requests from teenagers to have more than just an empty room as a center.

JOHNSON SAID HE hopes to get one more pool table for the center and a shuffleboard game. The center also has a stereo hook-up where continuous music is played, and a vending machine.

Before the center was closed, dances were held frequently. Caldwell said dances will not be discontinued but will be held occasionally.

Hours for the teen center are 1 to 10 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 1 to 7 p.m. on Sundays. Caldwell said that when dances are held, the hours would be extended to 11:30 p.m.

The idea for a teen center originated when plans were made for Lions Park Recreation Center. Sam Geati, former teen center director, worked with committees of teens to plan the center's activities. However, Geati resigned before the center was officially opened on April 12 with the "Battle of The Bands." Since then park district recreation officials have planned the center's activities. Currently they do not intend to hire another full-time center supervisor.

Jaffe: Time Will Show Vote Right

by LEON SHURE

State Rep. Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie, feels he is voting his conscience.

The first term legislator has taken stands this year for ending the Vietnam war, for liberalizing abortion laws, and against aid to non-public schools.

He feels his stands on issues may have displeased portions of his constituency especially in the Maine Township half of the 4th District. But he thinks time will show he was right.

Jaffe is a Democrat, and he isn't ashamed of it. But, so far, he has not voted along party lines. His closest political allies are liberals and independents.

"I'm not in the party to be a follower. I'm down here to give it some direction, and mold policy to the public interest," he says.

JAFFE, AN ATTORNEY and Niles Township Democratic committeeman doesn't think he has sacrificed his effectiveness by voting as an independent.

He says he has introduced more legislation than most freshman representatives and feels his success in winning House approval has been "better than average." However, as the legislature moves hectically towards its end-of-June adjournment, none of the bills, which he considers major, has become law.

As a legislator Jaffe says he is "basically interested in humanizing the law and in individual rights."

His bills reflect his interest in environmental problems, his background in law and the help he receives from college students.

The bill which has brought him the most publicity would lower the beer drinking age to 18. The idea came almost directly from his conversations with college students, he says. This bill is now

Middleton Trial Is Delayed

The trial of Dr. James A. Middleton, the Des Plaines area physician charged with deviate sexual assault, was delayed again yesterday when his attorney failed to appear at the Criminal Courts building in Chicago.

Judge Robert Downing, circuit court judge, continued the trial until July 7.

Dr. Middleton's attorney, Edward M. Genson, was unable to appear at the trial because he was defending another client in Springfield, according to Santo J. Volpe, an associate of Genson who appeared in Genson's behalf.

The doctor, who has offices at 969 Elm-hurst Rd., west of Des Plaines, has been charged with two counts each of deviate sexual assault and aggravated battery against two female patients who allege the doctor drugged and then sexually assaulted them.

When the case is recalled July 7 it will be for the purpose of arguing a defense motion to change judges. The doctor's attorney charged June 9 that Judge Downing was prejudiced against his client and requested a new judge be named to hear the case.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew questioned the judgment of the New York Times and its top editors in acting in a "secretive and clandestine fashion" to publish classified material. He would not comment on the legal aspects of the injunction halting the Times from publishing further articles in the series, but he said that it was apparent to anyone who had ever worked in the Foreign Service "that no government can conduct its diplomacy on the pages of a newspaper or in the glare of public scrutiny."

Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, publisher of the New York Times, said the Nixon administration might try to benefit from disclosures in his newspaper about escalation of the Vietnam War by previous Democratic administrations. The publisher said the series, based on a top secret Pentagon study which came into the hands of the Times from an unidentified source, "does not have any deleterious effect on national security" and is, in essence, "past history."

A "loyal-to-Boyle" strike by the nation's soft coal miners gathered momentum for the third consecutive day despite a warning the walkout had created a national emergency. The strike was a protest over removal of United Mine Workers President W. A. "Tony" Boyle as a trustee of the union's welfare and retirement fund.

An underground nuclear test was detonated at Yucca Flat on the desert north of here and there was no radiation leakage, the Atomic Energy Commission reported.

The State

Illinois Speaker of the House W. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, directed the House Ethics Committee to undertake an "immediate and thorough" investigation of allegations of political involvement with horse racing interests.

The Illinois Bar Association said it is opposed to the Illinois plan for "No fault" automobile accident injury reparations supported by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie.

Illinois Senate Republican Leader W. Russell Arrington, R-Evanston, recovering from a stroke suffered in January, announced he will not resume his Senate duties until next session, thus ending speculation he might return sooner.

The War

The controversial McGovern-Hatfield amendment that would have established a Dec. 31 deadline for withdrawal of American forces from Vietnam was defeated 55 to 42. A vote on similar legislation last year was defeated 55 to 39.

The World

Israel was reported to be considering calling for a special session of the U.N. Security Council to condemn the Arab guerrilla bazooka attack on an Israeli-chartered oil tanker in international waters.

Dorothy Oliver

We have a problem — but a nice one for a change — and maybe you can help us. The following letter and picture was received Wednesday at the Des Plaines Herald office:

"Dear Mr. Casey,

This warm snapshot was received by our Consul General Mr. Umco Kager. This was photographed in your city Oct. 31, 1970. The photographer does not know who they were nor where they lived. The photo came out so nice that he wants to present this picture to the family. I would greatly appreciate it if you could locate this "family" and give the picture to them.

"It is such a small thing but we would be grateful, because we appreciate the warmth and friendliness of American people given to a stranger from Japan. This is the kind of friendliness that bind peoples of your country and mine.

"The following is an excerpt from the letter of the photographer:

"The dusk was gathering in the quiet neighborhood in Des Plaines on Oct. 31 of last year. I, a visitor to America was hurry to my acquaintances' home in this town when I was attracted by a group of youngsters, happy and innocent, gaily clad for the occasion of Halloween.

"I took an impromptu 'snap' of the group. The beauty of the happy gathering I want to share with this family, but alas, I know not who they are, nor where they live.

"My friend, who lived in Des Plaines, moved to Los Angeles and he too does not know them. I inquired at the American Embassy and the American Consul General suggested to write to you. I would appreciate it if you can locate this happy family and give the picture to them. The 'snap' was taken at 1036 Arnold Ct., Des Plaines, Ill."

The letter was signed by Kenji Nakane, Cultural Consultant, Consulate General of Japan of Chicago.

If you should recognize any of the people in this picture please call me at 297-6633 today. We have two color prints at our office waiting to be delivered.

Have you ever noticed that the world gets smaller every time you turn around.

A Herald Editorial

Downtown Rebuilding Now Likely

In the six years since city officials and the Des Plaines Redevelopment Assn. first began their efforts, local residents and businessmen have been treated periodically with enthusiastic reports about the rebuilding of downtown Des Plaines.

Huge office towers, a 'super block,' a commuter center, new municipal building, shopping malls, overpasses, bypasses — it all sounded good. But despite the predictions, nothing much has been built.

Now, it appears, something may be about to happen. The redevelopment association, formed originally by the city, is coming back to city council with a request for aid on some important projects to help launch what many hope will be a commercial reawakening for downtown Des Plaines.

The city will be asked to finance the realignment and widening of Prairie Avenue downtown with state motor fuel tax funds. The redevelopment association also wants the city to purchase a part of the railroad right-of-way along Ellinwood Street that will be used for the first stage of a new parking system.

We urge the city council to take a close look at both proposals and continue its cooperation with downtown renewal efforts by approving the redevelopment association's requests.

While the glamorous office towers and shopping malls have yet to be built, both the city and redevelopment officials have been making progress in laying a foundation for rebuilding the downtown area.

Zoning changes, an overpass for River Road at Miner Street, purchase of needed properties and plans for a carefully phased development program are all either completed or well on the way.

And, as officials have pointed out, there has been about $7 million worth of apartment development near the downtown area since a new apartment zoning ordinance was put into effect.

One sticky problem city officials still face is the proposed raising of parking meter rates, from five to 10 cents an hour for downtown shoppers and from 50 to 75 cents a day for downtown commuters.

Parkers are sure to squawk and some merchants have already indicated their disfavor with the raises, which the city's bond consultant says are needed to finance revenue bonds for a new parking system. That system in turn is considered crucial in getting redevelopment off the ground.

Despite the gripes it will surely cause, we think the recommended raises are sound. Cheap downtown parking has in effect been a subsidy to those who use it regularly.

We don't feel that an extra nickel for the parking meter will deter anyone who wants to shop downtown. What has hurt downtown shopping is the traffic congestion, lack of parking and an unattractive downtown area. The best way to cure that situation is to push ahead with downtown redevelopment.

School Board, Teachers On Good Terms

more things it is widely agreed around the district that the long impasse and strike last year didn't help anyone — not teachers, not administrators and not school board members.

The early settlement this year may well indicate that the lesson has sunk in — that both sides have realized they need each other and must maintain flexibility. IN ADDITION, the settlement, many observers indicate, is a tribute to the co-operation developed between two men — Supt. James Ervitt and Teachers Council President Robert Beaupre.

Although neither actually took part in most of the negotiations, observers credit them with the early settlement. In fact, the negotiation session where the contract was agreed on was "tentatively postponed" until sometime in July until Ervitt and Beaupre sat down together.

The new cooperation may or may not prove to be long-lasting. A district with a history of trouble like Dist. 59 faces an uphill fight.

But for the first time in a long time residents of the district can view news of teacher salary negotiations as "good news."

Rep. Jaffe: Time Will Show

Two other Jaffe bills which have won House approval concern the rights of mental patients. One would keep mental hospital records confidential, except to authorized law enforcement agencies, under specified conditions.

Another would make the services of a public defender available to individuals committed to private mental hospitals, to make sure they have not been illegally committed or their rights denied.

JAFFE WAS ALSO successful in mortgages, and invest it Jaffe says. He feels the homeowners should make part of the profit.

OF ALL HIS BILLS which failed, Jaffe was most frustrated by a committee rejection, 14-13, of a resolution supporting U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam by the end of this year.

Jaffe was also a co-sponsor of the defeated Mann bill, which was designed to attack the constitutionality of the Vietnam war.

Jaffe says he is strongly opposed to the war.

"I think the war goes to the very essence of all our problems. We are throwing money down the rathole on a war we should never have gotten into. We could use that money to solve our local problems," he says.

He also voted against aid to nonpublic schools which he feels is unconstitutional.

"This bill was bad. It has no safeguards." He says any school with "two washrooms and a certified teacher" can now receive state aid for nonpublic schools regardless of the quality of the instruction or facilities.

"Individuals who want this aid will find out that government will get involved in their schools in one way or another," he says.

Jaffe feels his position on the war and aid to schools may displease some of his constituency, especially in "hawkish" Maine Township.

"When I came down here to Springfield, I made up my mind to vote my conscience. I think in time people in the district will find out my position is right." He feels he has been responsive to the needs of his constituency.

During the next legislative session, Jaffe hopes to get more deeply involved in environmental legislation, and in protecting privacy.

amending a house bill to change an Illinois Pollution Control Board rule.

As the law stands, if the pollution board does not act within a certain amount of time on a petition for an exception to pollution statutes, the petition is automatically accepted.

Jaffe changed this to an automatic denial if the pollution board doesn't act — he feels this would help stop polluters.

Now being studied by a House committee is a bill by Jaffe which he feels could prevent some adoption problems. Under the proposal, a mother would be fully informed of all her rights before she could sign the papers to give up her baby for adoption.

Jaffe also sponsored a bill which would allow recently married women to register to vote at the polls by affidavit, instead of requiring her to go through the whole registration process.

Often the extra time required by the registration process means the woman is denied her vote during an election, just because she got married, Jaffe says. His bill was defeated on the House floor.

Defeated in committee was a Jaffe bill aimed at forcing banks to pay interest to homeowners, on the money paid in each month for property taxes. Banks take the property tax money paid along with

Elks Tip Bantam; Bank, Allen's In Mid-Teen Tie

The continuation of National League early season superiority over American League teams saw the Elks down defending league champion Bantam and First National Bank earn a tie with Allen's in Tuesday's action in the Des Moines Mid-Teen League at Maine West High School.

A four-run seventh inning enabled the Elks to defeat Bantam 10-6 while First National Bank played to a 2-2 tie with Allen's.

In the eight inter-league games played this season, National League teams have won six, American League teams only one and there has been one tie.

Outstanding relief pitching, as well as a 10-hit attack, provided with winning Elks formula Tuesday night. It was Jay Schroeder who supplied the relief work, as he went four innings and allowed only one run.

The game was a see-saw battle all the way with periodic scores of 5-3 and 6-4 before the Elks' four-run seventh nailed down the victory.

The Elks went into the seventh in a 4-6 tie. Singles by Bruce Terry and Jeff Schwartz got the inning going for the visitors. Bill Heyse slapped a single to score Terry and Rick Wolfgram was given an intentional walk to load the bases.

Ken Schroeder then layed down a perfect sacrifice bunt which scored Schwartz from third and, in a bold sprint from second base, Wolfgram scored the 10th run.

The Elks took a 1-0 lead in the top of the first as Wolfgram cracked a double, stole third and scored on a passed ball.

Bantam came back with a three-run outburst in the bottom of the second. Dave Nelson reached the basepaths on an error and scored on a double by Tom Schultz. Russ Zage was walked and Eddie Schleiter singled to score Schultz. Tim Gillespie followed with a single to score Zage.

The Elks went out on top 5-3 in the top of the third.

Schwartz singled, stole second, went to third on a passed ball and scored on a single by Heyse. Wolfgram singled and Heyse and Wolfgram completed a double steal to put runners on second and third. Schroeder singled home Heyse and advanced Wolfgram to third and Bill Benzenhofer hit a sacrifice fly to score Wolfgram.

Bantam came back with two runs in the bottom of the third to tie the count at 5-5. Gary Warren and Gordy Lewis were walked. Nelson singled home Warren as Lewis advanced to third base. Bill Olsen lofted a sacrifice fly to score Lewis.

The Elks tallied again in the top of the fifth as Heyse singled, went to second on a fielder's choice and scored on a double by Schroeder.

Bantam matched that run in the bottom of the fifth as Roger Spencer singled, stole second and scored on an error.

The win enabled the Elks to move into a first place tie in the National League with Kunkel, both with 2-0 records. Despite the loss, Bantam stayed on top of the American League with a 1-1 mark.

First National Bank and Allen's battled for eight innings without producing a winner or a loser.

First National took a 1-0 lead in the top of the first inning as Mike Bistany slammed a double and scored on an error.

Allen's tied the score in the bottom of the second as Jim Olsen blasted a triple and scored on a sacrifice fly by Becker.

First National took a 2-1 lead in the top of the fourth as Mark Ackerman singled, went to second on an error, advanced to third with a stolen base and scored on a sacrifice fly by Rick Klecka.

The tying run came in the bottom of the seventh as Larry Born singled, went to second on a single by Fred Schultz, went to third when O'Connor walked and scored on a balk.

Doug Werhane went all the way for First National Bank and Jeff Myers went the route for Allen's.

First National Bank is now 1-0-1 and Allen's is 0-1-1.

Fearless Forecast: Jack Will Win

by LEE MUELLER

ARDMORE, Pa. — (NEA) — For years now, the world has been crying for someone to put teeth into the gutless chore of predicting the United States Open golf champion.

The task has become unbearably pigeonholed in recent years. Since he won in 1962, Jack Nicklaus has been "favored" to win every subsequent U.S. Open. He has complied only once, in 1967, but picking Nicklaus to win another Open has become a kind of annual cop-out: like betting on Tuesday to follow Monday.

Oh, there is always a token amount of consideration given to the tournament site. "Horses for courses," as they say. This time it's being conducted at historic Merion Golf Course, near Philadelphia. "Merion." (Golfers refer to it in this manner; the way stockbrokers mention "Dow.")

Merion is where Bob Jones climaxed his Grand Slam in 1930; where Ben Hogan won the 1950 Open by struggling through 90 holes in four days only a year after being critically injured in an auto accident; and where in 1960 (you'll hear a lot about this) amateur Jack Nicklaus established the course record of 268.

Merion is a short (6,550 yards, par 70) imaginatively designed layout with narrow fairways, a six-inch rough and mirror-slick greens. It's a good driver's course, they say, and surely, Jack Nicklaus is a brilliant driver. It's a putter's course, too, they say, and you know how Jack Nicklaus can putt.

The only thing not exactly fashioned to Nicklaus' game, it would seem, are the wickersticks. Merion's flagsticks are not topped by flags, but coconut-shaped wicker baskets — a tribute to the Scottish shepherd said to have invented golf on his lunch hour when he grabbed a makeshift club and ball and fired at his staff, on top of which he had placed his lunch basket.

But old Merion, our fearless prognosticators will tell you, is Jack Nicklaus' kind of course (So are they all, all Jack Nicklaus' kind of course.) And a lot of people are tired of hearing it.

The fact is that while Nicklaus remains a logical choice to win every tournament he plays in, he does not. Sometimes Orville Moody wins the U.S. Open, just as sometimes Charles Coody or Gay Brewer wins the Masters.

It follows, then, that if one refuses the cop-out logic of a Nicklaus triumph, the gutsy thing to do is look for some fairly obscure player of questionable background to bet on. But it never happens.

To date, for instance, no headline writer has typed, boldly, "Will Homenik Favored in '71 Open," or even, "Eichelberger Open Choice." Now let them write

"Joel Goldstrand of Rt. 3, Worthington, Minn., is favored to dethrone defending champion Tony Jacklin as the U.S. Open begins June 17 . . ."

There Quick and simple — which, says New York attorney-golfer Kenneth C. Bedford, is the problem in the first place.

"It's too easy for media people to go around predicting winners," he said. "If their predictions don't pan out, well, too bad. Sorry about that, Chief. There's no penalty."

"Writers litter the world with predictions on which they have nothing at stake, not even their reputations as sports experts. Nobody really expects them to be right. And this isn't fair."

"Before a writer can foist his opinion on the world, he should wager something on it — just like the gamblers do. If he doesn't pick the right man, he should have to eat his left shoe or maybe swallow a couple of cue balls. Anything to show the public that he at least respects and has confidence in his own judgment."

Bedford has a point, of course and this being the case I would like to revise somewhat my original prediction concerning the outcome of the 1971 U.S. Open.

Let them write that Jack Nicklaus will prevail and let the world know that my left shoe is where my mouth is.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

EXCITEMENT RUNS high as the fastest three-year-olds in the country prepare for Arlington Park's first $100,000 stakes event of the year this Saturday. It's the Pontiac Grand Prix, and the high-flyers will come blazing up out of the mile chute in pursuit of all the gold and glory.

The race, formerly called the Arlington Classic, has changed in name only and once again the best in the East will ship in to challenge the best in the Midwest. Canonero II is the only top race horse missing from the lineup, as the powerful colt is now on his way back to Venezuela.

Pass Catcher, the latest sophomore sensation and brilliant winner of the Belmont Stakes, is coming in for the Grand Prix. The bay colt by All Hands is improving with every outing and indicates he has the speed to be dangerous on America's fastest track.

Walter Blum, popular Chicago area jockey of several years ago, will return to ride Pass Catcher. Blum's superior riding skills and knowledge of the Arlington main course make his mount a double threat Saturday.

Jim French, second in the Derby and Belmont and third in the Preakness, is ready to try Pass Catcher again. The well-traveled son of Graustark is looking for his first stakes win since the Santa Anita Derby three months ago. Jim has already earned $317,168 this season and could easily add Grand Prix first money to that total.

Bold Reasoning is the undefeated horse in the field. The colt swept to a stunning victory in the Jersey Derby on Memorial Day, lowering Pass Catcher's colors on his way to the winner's circle. The colt didn't start in any of the big three classics, but will be ready for the Grand Prix.

Calumet Farm will probably send in Eastern Fleet for the feature Saturday. The fleet Nasrullah colt possesses blinding speed and it will be a thrill to see the devil's red and blue of Calumet on the lead again at Arlington Park.

Waiting to take on this fearsome foursome from the East are Staunch Avenger, Felonious, Northern Jove and List. Felonious and List dead-heated in an allowance race here several weeks ago, then last Saturday only a neck and a head separated Staunch Avenger, Northern Jove and Felonious at the wire. Any of the home-based four is capable of keeping first money from the Pontiac Grand Prix right here at Arlington Park.

My choice to win the big race is Eastern Fleet, if he ships in. The mile distance suits him perfectly and I think he will take it from flag-drop to wire. A horse needs super-speed from start to finish in order to win a classic mile race at Arlington and this bandit can really blister the track.

Horses to Watch

Lief T — Getting close to the charmed-circle. Won't be long before he scores in a mile race on the main track.

Whiskey Rebellion — Grass racing is his specialty. Could hit at a nice price in a route race over the greensward.

Nance II — Tries hard on the grass course in $3500 claiming class. Will be rewarded with a victory soon.

Lord Seton — Five-year-old gelding by Little Titus is threatening to win a sprint against Illinois runners. Was gaining on Cloncurry the last time and just missed at the wire.

Irish Rebellion — High claiming and allowance races on the turf will be easy for this one. Oldtimer is back in form and ready to ramble. Closed like Whirlaway last Saturday.

Brick Market — Dirt or grass makes no difference to this hard-running gelding by Mr. Brick. Hasn't won yet this year, but has been in the money eight of twelve times. Could visit the winner's circle the next time out.

Old Family — Broke out of post position twelve and led all the way for a stunning victory the last time. Could be a repeat winner, even with a class rise from $6500.

Unbeaten At Rand Park

Roselle Builders continued their undefeated string in The Rand Park 12-Inch Softball League by edging Johnson's Sporting Goods 10-3. Woody Croom, who has yet to allow an earned run this year, gave up one hit and fanned 11 Ron Lansdown, with three hits, one a long home run, and Ken Eeles, also with three hits, led the Builders. Peacock was the recipient of Johnson's only hit.

On the same evening, Guanaco's scored two in the fifth inning and five times in the sixth to defeat Central Telephone 13-7. Hank Duffy came on in the third inning for Guanaco's and received credit for the win. Bill Gavin led Guanaco's with three hits and three RBIs. Bob Forward with three hits and Dave Kern with two hits and three RBIs led Central.

On Sunday, three high scoring games were played at Rand. In the opener Roselle rested Woody Croom and used Bob Fruth on the mound. With a first and second barrage which netted 15 runs Fruth coasted to a 15-1 win over Central Telephone. Fred Karp led the Builders with three hits, including a grand slam home run, enabling Roselle to finish the first round of play with a 5-0 record.

In the second game, Johnson's Sporting Goods scored eight runs in the first inning and six in the fifth inning to rout Dor-o-matic 15-5. Lou Bissa held the Raiders in check while Larry Lambert slammed a pair of triples to lead the hit parade for Johnson's.

Hank Duffy was master on the mound and Bill Gavin again had his hitting clothes on as Guanaco's routed Des Plaines Chrysler Plymouth, 19-1. Gavin had a single, triple, and homerun, batting in four runs. Stepieton and Manager Lex Panos also homered for Guanaco's.

The second round begins today with Dor-o-matic meeting Guanaco's, and Roselle Builders playing Des Plaines Chrysler Plymouth. On Sunday June 20th, three games are scheduled with the action beginning at 5:00 p.m.

Three Games On Opening 16-Inch Card

The Adult 16-inch Softball League at Rand Park opened the 1971 season with a full card of three games.

In the opening game Villa's Lounge withstood a late inning rush by Des Plaines Bowl to win their first game 15-10. Stevens led Villas with three hits and three RBIs. Joe Schmidt with three hits led Des Plaines Bowl.

In the second game E. J. Doyle executed a game-ending double play in the bottom of the 7th with the bases loaded and defeated Badger Mills 12-11. Mike Albrecht led Doyle's with two home runs and a single and contributed some fine defensive plays. Pecker hit a single, double, and a home run and batted in three runs to lead Badger Mills.

In the final game of the evening, Nick's LaCantina showed great promise for the year by bombing West Side Inn, 21-3. Among the hitting stars for Nick's were Mattax who went four-for-four and Felde who batted in six runs with three hits. Bachman's three-for-three led West Side Inn.

South Side Little League

Iroquois 9, Legion 2

Frosty Wambroba fired a two-hitter for the victory. Bill Benacka cracked a double and a triple.

Need Hosts For Inner-City Children

The 1971 Friendly Town program, which arranges for inner-city children to visit with suburban host families for two weeks, will begin here next month.

According to Mrs. Mary Ann Reiter of Arlington Heights and Mrs. Betty Giner of Rolling Meadows, plans for the program are now complete.

Prospective host families may designate the age, from seven to 13, and the sex of the child or children they wish to accommodate. Sessions will be held from July 11-25, and from July 24 to Aug. 8.

This year the majority of the children hoping for suburban vacations will come through the Faith Community Church on Chicago's west side. At least 60 children are hoping to make the trip.

IF A FAMILY wishes to participate in the program but has a conflict with the scheduled dates, they may make special arrangements for children from Marillac House by calling Mrs. Marion Stanley at 255-8779, or Mrs. Toni Sweet at 392-9329.

Friendly Town children are given a medical exam before their visits. They are also covered by a $2,500 sickness and accident policy during their visits.

To be eligible, a family must provide their own personal liability insurance, included in most homeowner's policies, and be willing to furnish a personal reference.

Host families are responsible for picking up their assigned children at Faith Community Church at noon Sunday of the starting date. Host families may also return the children two weeks later to the church at the time of services or directly to their homes, according to arrangements made with the children's parents.

FAMILIES WITH no children at home and those who have only infants are asked to request two children. Past experience indicates that Friendly Town children who are used to large families and crowded neighborhoods are happier when there are other children near their ages to play with.

Host families will receive the name of their assigned children about two days before the session begins. They are asked to contact the child and his family immediately to introduce themselves and ease any of the child's fears.

For further information or to make application for a Friendly Town child, call Mrs. Rosemary Sabransky of Elk Grove Village at 437-1300.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — My doctor told me I have no thyroid action any more. I have myxedema and coronary heart disease. I am 61. Is there any cure at all for this? I also have arthritis. I can hardly use my hands. What I want to know is will this kill me or is there a cure for this thyroid?

Dear Reader — If I were to choose a gland to do without it would be the thyroid. You can take whatever amount of thyroid medicine you need to replace the normal action of the thyroid gland.

I presume you have been taking medicine for your thyroid for several years. Myxedema is merely a term for a marked loss of thyroid function. If you had no thyroid function at all and were not getting medicine to replace the action of the thyroid you wouldn't be able to write such an intelligent letter.

Your doctor may be having trouble regulating the amount of thyroid medicine he wants to give you because of your heart disease. One of the treatments for severe coronary artery disease once was to destroy the thyroid by radiation, decreasing the metabolism and decreasing the amount of work the heart had to do. As you take more thyroid the work of the heart will be increased and may cause trouble with your heart disease. Nevertheless, with careful gradual increase in thyroid medicine most problems can be controlled.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Friends and relatives alike have told me not to let my children have chewing gum because they swallow it and it won't digest, won't eliminate and might lodge in the appendix. Is this true? My children, 4 and 2, have one or two pieces almost daily. What effects will this have on them (besides possible cavities) and is it just chewing gum or bubble gum or both?

Dear Reader — If chewing gum is the only thing your children swallow that isn't food you will be a lucky mother. Chewing gum will be mixed into the food and passed right along the digestive tract, finally being eliminated. I wouldn't worry about it causing appendicitis.

You should worry about letting a child who is too young chew gum, however. The real danger is aspirating the chewing gum into the windpipe. This is unlikely but it is far more dangerous than swallowing gum.

Police Comb Wide Area For Cyanide

THE HERALD

Thursday, June 17, 1971

Section 2 —7

by KURT BAER

Arlington Heights police Wednesday searched door-to-door 35 square blocks just north of downtown looking for 10 small but potentially dangerous capsules containing potassium cyanide.

The capsules were part of a small test kit taken from the car of Robert W. Hanselman, 202 N. Vail, an employee of the Dearborn Chemical Co. of Lake Zurich.

Hanselman reported the capsules missing to police at 11:30 Wednesday morning. Police said the kit probably was taken from Hanselman's unlocked car sometime Tuesday night or early the next morning.

The car was parked outside the Hanselman home.

Police searched intensively an area bounded on the north by Oakton Street, on the south by Fremont Street, on the east by Evergreen Street and on the west by Chestnut Street.

Also in the stolen test kit were 10 capsules of chloral hydrate, a chemical commonly known as knock-out drops.

John F. Wilkes, vice president for technical development at the Dearborn Chemical Co., said that the polyethylene packets, an inch and a quarter long and a quarter inch in diameter, would not dissolve in the stomach if swallowed.

The 10 cyanide capsules are purple in color and contain 10 milligrams of the poison.

WILKES SAID THE amount of cyanide contained in the capsules would probably not be fatal if consumed by an adult.

"We talked to all the children in the neighborhood during our door-to-door search, but so far we've been unable to locate the kit," Capt. Maury English of the Arlington Heights Police Department said Wednesday afternoon.

Wilkes said the cyanide becomes most dangerous when exposed to any acid. The resulting reaction produced hydrogen cyanide gas, similar to that used in most execution gas chambers.

Potassium cyanide is toxic for dogs at doses above 1.6 milligrams per kilogram of body weight, Wilkes said. The toxicity of the chemicals is usually recorded according to the dosage that causes death in rats or dogs, Wilkes explained.

Wilkes said the chemicals were part of a test kit used to measure the amount of zinc in industrial cooling solutions. The zinc concentration is an indication of the strength of a rust inhibitor normally added to cooling solutions, he said.

The chemicals are used as reagents to color solution samples so that they can be measured with a photometer.

Wilkes said the test procedure was developed by the American Society for Test Materials (ASTM) and was standard in the industry.

IN ADDITION to the 10 milligrams of cyanide, the purple capsules also contained 300 milligrams of borax, a strong alkaline buffer, Wilkes said.

Though toxic, itself, the borax would probably induce vomiting if the contents of the capsules were swallowed, Wilkes said. Borax was added to ensure that the cyanide never reached an acid condition.

The chloral hydrate packets also contain a second chemical, potassium chloride, an inert salt similar to ordinary table salt, Wilkes said.

Wilkes said that sodium nitrate and sodium phosphates, a chemical common to photography darkrooms, have been used as antidotes in cases of cyanide poisoning.

Capt. English said that if a poisoning case were discovered the area fire department would be contacted for rescue assistance.

Charge 3 In Marital Tiff

Three men were arrested by Des Plaines police Friday morning at a Devon Avenue office building on charges stemming from an apparent marital dispute.

Police said they were called to the scene by B. G. Hunter from his office at 2350 Devon Ave. Hunter told police that Anthony T. Young of 608 N. 7th Ave., Maywood and Donald C. Kusch of 1612 N. Springfield, Chicago, caused a disturbance in his office.

Hunter said the men came to the office looking for Cheryl J. Young, an employee.

He said that when he told the men she was not in the office, Kusch produced a gun in a leather case, according to police.

Police said they found Young and Kusch in the parking lot at the building and took them back to the office where they were identified by Hunter.

Kusch was charged by police with unlawful use of weapons and disorderly conduct, and Young was charged with disorderly conduct. A third man, Raymond H. Laatsch, of 4118 N. Greenview, Chicago, was charged with no firearm registration.

Focus Supports Low-Income Housing Effort For Suburbs

Focus, an organization of persons representing community groups in several Northwest suburbs, is supporting current efforts to bring better housing to persons in the low and middle income brackets.

Patricia Vockeroth, of the Focus committee on housing, said: "We believe that America belongs to all Americans . . . not just to the few who have been fortunate enough to earn more money. We too, are concerned that our communities remain beautiful and that property values remain high."

"Ninety-five per cent of the available land for housing is located in the suburbs. It must be recognized that our communities have had low income housing during their total existence. Such housing units have consisted of converted chicken shacks and other grossly sub-standard dwellings.

"LET IT be clear, we are simply replacing substandard housing with attractive housing which will not be a blight on our communities, but will be within the economic reach of those working here."

"As a result of recent developments concerning the Chicago Housing Authority and the state legislature and the continuing trend of industry to locate in the suburbs, Focus will soon announce a comprehensive social action program."

CONSTRUCTION ON A new $2.5 million addition to the Lutheran Home and Services building, 800 W. Oakton Street, Arlington Heights, is scheduled to begin early in December. The 126-room wing, to be added to the buildings west facade, will increase the nursing home's resident capacity by more than 50 per cent. The architects for the new addition were the Perkins and Will Corp., Chicago.

Groundbreaking In Dec. For Lutheran Home Addition

Groundbreaking for a $2.5 million addition to the Lutheran Home and Services for the Aged building, 800 W. Oakton St., Arlington Heights, is planned for early December, according to the home's director, Paul A. Hauer.

The 126-room addition to the nursing home's west side will increase resident capacity by more than 50 per cent.

The new wing, designed by the Chicago architectural firm of Perkins and Will, will also house new kitchen, lounge and dining room facilities.

Hauer said he hopes construction can be completed by early 1973.

The Lutheran home houses elderly citizens from the Northern Illinois District of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod. There are more than 200 applicants on the home's waiting list, Hauer said, and the 126 new single rooms will be occupied as soon as the addition is finished.

"We accept applicants regardless of their ability to pay," Hauer said. "In fact the majority of our people are on public aid."

Hauer said the average age of those in the home is 86.

The new addition marks the second phase in a planned development program that will eventually utilize the full 80-acre site along Oakton, Hauer said.

The original building was put up in 1953 with an addition in 1966. The facility was paid for and supported by contributions from the church's Northern Illinois district, Hauer said.

A campaign to raise funds for the latest addition will begin on Sunday, Sept. 12. The Rev. J. A. O. Preus, president of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, will speak.

Inspector Here Checking Dogs

Dog owners in the Des Plaines area who have not purchased rabies tags for their pets better buy them quickly or hide their dogs in a closet for the next six months.

Anthony Cicchino, deputy inspector with the Cook County Rabies Control office, told Des Plaines police he will be conducting a house-to-house investigation for owners who have failed to purchase the tags.

Cicchino said he will issue tickets to violators, and will be in the Des Plaines area the next six months.

Dr. Robert Litt, director of the county agency, said all dogs four months old or older must have a current rabies vaccination.

Dr. Litt said tags are available through veterinarians, who also issue certificates of vaccination to be shown to inspectors. He said dogs can receive either three-year or one-year vaccinations, depending on several medical considerations.

The director also said a new law requires cats which are housed in unincorporated areas to be vaccinated yearly. County and local ordinances, he reminded, require dogs be confined or leashed at all times.

Name Dr. Priest Education Chief

Dr. E. Rush Priest, 410 S. Prospect, Park Ridge, has been appointed director of medical education at Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge.

In his new position, Dr. Priest will be responsible for educational programs for medical students, interns and residents, according to a statement from the hospital.

"Because medical internships will be phased out by 1975, Lutheran General will work toward the development of residency programs in each of the hospital's medical departments," said Dr. Priest.

"The hospital will also expand its programs for medical students from the University of Illinois with whom Lutheran General is affiliated," he said.

Dr. Priest has been a member of the medical staff since the hospital opened in 1960. He served as president of the staff in 1961 and as chairman of the Department of Medicine in 1963.

He was graduated from the University of Illinois College of Medicine in 1947 and completed a residency in internal medicine at Illinois Veterans Administration Hospital in 1954. He is certified by the Board of Internal Medicine.

Rush hour at Farmington

There is something about Farmington that puts life into its proper perspective. Here is simple, unhurried, peaceful country living complete with quiet ponds, winding lanes, woods and hills. Pheasants abound in our meadows. Wild ducks light on our little lakes. Game fish swim in our waters. The homes are so conceived that they seem to grow out of the land. It will stay that way, too, protected by prudent deed restrictions. There will never be a homesite less than one acre, never two homes that look alike. Farmington on Long Grove Road represents one of the last opportunities to get away from it all within easy commuting distance of the Loop (38 minutes by train, 42 minutes by car). Of the original 190 one-acre or larger homesites, fewer than 15 remain. They vary from $12,000 to $30,000 and may be purchased with a small down payment and liberal terms. Farmington is not for everyone. But to those few who know the difference between a house and a home, we invite you to come home. To Farmington.

Veterans' News

Q — I AM a veteran who served three years on active duty from 1958 to 1961. I am totally disabled because of an automobile accident. Am I entitled to a non-service connected pension?

A — No. Pension is payable only to veterans of wartime service. Your active duty was during peacetime.

Q — I AM undecided as to my program of education, and wonder if the VA will provide counseling?

A — Yes. A veteran may apply for counseling by the VA to assist him in selecting a program and educational goal. He may apply for it before beginning training on the VA application form 21E-1990, or at a later date by letter. There is no charge for counseling, but the veteran must pay any travel expense to and from the counseling location.

Q — IF I sell my mobile home, can the GI loan be assumed by the purchaser?

A — Yes. However, you will remain liable for the loan unless you apply to VA for a release from liability, and the VA grants the release in writing. Further, you may not use your GI loan entitlement for any other purpose until the mobile home loan has been paid in full, regardless of whether VA releases you from liability on the loan or not. If the buyer obtains new financing in connection with the sale and the GI mobile home loan is paid in full, you will have no further liability on the loan and may then use your entitlement for other purposes.

Rent Hike May Move River Road School Out Of Maryville

River Trails School Dist. 26 officials are investigating alternatives to maintaining the River Road School at Maryville Academy, in an effort to avoid a rent hike for the Chicago Archdiocese owned facility.

Father John Smith, superintendent at Maryville, a home for dependent children in Des Plaines, proposed the rent hike in a letter read at a Dist. 26 school board meeting Tuesday. He suggested raising the rent from $5,000 to $17,000.

The more than 300 Maryville children have attended district schools, since Catholic Charities announced in 1968 it could no longer afford to educate the children. The district is reimbursed 100 per cent by the state for all tuition costs (including rent) incurred in educating the dependent children.

Approximately 125 Maryville children are attending district schools outside of the academy while 150 are attending the district's River Road School, located at the academy. During the first two years the district educated the Maryville children, it paid a dollar a year to rent the River Road School.

NOW FATHER SMITH has increased the rent (state reimbursed) because of Maryville's "tremendous expenses and our desire to stabilize the institution. Maryville must succeed (financially) on its own or it can no longer exist," he said.

Alternatives proposed by the Dist. 26 school board include the possibility of other school districts sharing the responsibility of educating the Maryville children. In addition, the board may investigate the possibility of housing the River Road School children in trailers and the possibility of using less space at Maryville by increasing the class sizes.

According to Father Smith, no one has ever computed the actual cost to the archdiocese of renting the classroom space in the River Road School. In his letter he said, "It is almost impossible to determine the district's percentage of the expenses. I think the best formula is to base the cost on square footage." The district was charged for 16,365 square feet at a rate of $1.28 per square foot. The footage includes 18 classrooms, along with the gym and the playground, which were listed as two classrooms.

Father Smith concluded his letter by saying, "I hope the proposed increase doesn't cause any consternation or difficulty. I hope you can see the justice and need for the increase of rent."

AS A RESULT OF a meeting Dist. 26 Supt. Winston Harwood had with state school officials in the spring, the district does not have to pay the rent bill until after it is reimbursed by the state for that bill. Consequently, the district does not even have to pay interest on a loan while waiting for reimbursement.

Nevertheless, some of the school board members were reluctant to accept the rent hike at the Tuesday meeting. After hearing Father Smith's letter, school board member Lee Hillman asked, "Should we stand for this?"

Board Pres. Harold Haney proposed that the district "look for other possible locations for the school (before accepting the bill)." He added, "the rooms we are renting don't even meet the requirements of the Illinois Life Safety Code."

A possible complication pointed out by Harwood is that the state does not always reimburse the district on time. "We are still waiting for $21,000 of the Maryville reimbursement, which we were supposed to receive in December."

IN ADDITION, some of the board members were concerned that the rent might be increased even more in future years. According to Harwood, the state has set no limit on how much rent the district must pay for the archdiocese's facility.

The ultimate solution to the problem, according to Harwood, is a state-built school that will accommodate the enrollment from Maryville. With the additional classrooms, the district would be able to integrate all of the Maryville children into schools outside of the academy, said Harwood.

One year ago, Harwood, in behalf of the district submitted a bill to the legislature which would have permitted the Illinois School Building Commission (ISBC) to finance construction of additional classrooms for wards of the state on a priority basis. The bill was defeated by a House committee. The proposal is, at this time, a dead issue, said Harwood.
